Plan TV Broadcast

HOUSTON — Apollo 11 is on its second day of its history-making trip to the moon after a flawless count down and launch yesterday.

Among the activities planned today for the three Apollo astronauts, Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins, are a second midcourse correction, if necessary and a 15-minute television broadcast about 6:30 p.m.

Fighting Continues

HONDURAS — El Salvador is claiming sweeping advances on all fronts in its war with Honduras. Salvadorean tank-led infantrymen, apparently ignoring a cease-fire order from the Organization of American States were reported advancing as far as 45 miles into Honduras in a drive on the Honduran capital city of Tegucigalpa.

The exact cause of the conflict is not clear, but it is believed to involve land rights between the two countries.

Nixon Calls Holiday

WASHINGTON — Pres. Nixon has asked America to spend next Monday concentrating in a "national day of participation" on the Apollo 11 moon landing mission.

The chief executive ordered government offices closed and urged governors, mayors, school systems and private employers to give the day off to as many people as possible so they can follow the mission.

Military Heads Meet

SAIGON — The three highest ranking U.S. officers concerned with the Vietnam war began secret strategy talks yesterday to help decide whether and how U.S. forces will respond to the lull in Communist attacks.

Arriving aboard separate planes were Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. John S. McCain, commander of all U.S. forces in the Pacific. They joined military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in a series of meetings and field trips.

Bond Set at $25,000

CHICAGO—Jeff Fort, reputed leader of the Black P Stone Nation and two other high-ranking gang officials, were being held late yesterday under $25,000 bond in connection with Tuesday night's ambush of a south side man.

Fort, 22, Charles E. Bey, 25, and Andrew McChristian, 20, all members of the "Main 21" leadership of the Black P Stones, were arrested by Intelligence Unit members of the Chicago police on charges of ambushing Jackie Turner, 22.

Testify to Ignorance

CHICAGO — Illinois Supreme Court Justices Ray I. Klingbiel and Roy J. Solisburg testified yesterday they were unaware that a former state official whose criminal indictment was before the high court had an interest in a bank which they obtained stock.

The two are accused of impropriety in a petition filed by legal researcher Sherman Skolnick which asked the court to reconsider its 1967 ruling that former State Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs could not be prosecuted on conflict of interest charges.

Services Chief Dispute

The dispute over Thomas E. Smith, the new executive director of Community Services in Elk Grove Village, broke into the open Tuesday night at the village board meeting.

The $17,000 salary approved by the Community Services Board seems to be the cause of the dispute and an executive session to discuss the problem was called after the board meeting. The village finances community services.

Smith, 37, of Antioch was appointed director by the Community Services board early in July. He will tentatively begin work Aug. 1.

The dispute began when Trustee Charles Zetek, at the request of Village Mgr. Charles Willis, moved that the board concur in hiring the director at a salary of $17,000. Zetek is also a member of the Community Services board and of the committee to appoint a new director.

COMMUNITY SERVICES has been without a director since Glenn Powell resigned June 15. Powell had been the director since Community Services was created by the YMCA in Elk Grove Village three years ago.

Trustee Eugene Keith moved to table the motion until next week and asked to have an executive session on the matter. Zetek said there shouldn't be a need for the discussion since Smith had already been appointed and for a salary of $17,000.

"The Community Services board spent a lot of time looking for this man and the village board should not question their judgment," Zetek said. If the village board has to concur in everything that the Community Services board decides then it eliminates the purpose of a Community Services board, Zetek said.

"WE SHOULD NOT be considering or rejecting the appointment, but the salary," Jack Pahl, village president said.

Trustee George Coney said that since he was asked to concur in the appointment he wanted to know what the director's duties were to deserve $17,000. "Since he would be the second highest paid village employee I think it is of enough magnitude that the village board discuss it," Coney said.

Atty. Ed Hofert said it was a good idea to have the board's concurrence. "Otherwise persistent questions might arise when the board is asked to approve each month's expenditures," he said.

"THE COMMUNITY Services board has the power to choose a director and administer the salary. But some other village agencies have the same power and the board should set a precedent in salary rates for community personnel," Willis said.

This is a new position in the community, he explained. It is a different position than that held by Powell whose salary was authorized by the board. Part of Powell's salary was paid by the YMCA.

"I think the village board should authorize an annual salary for that position," Willis said.

Trustee Tom Ullmann who is also on the Community Services board agreed with Coney that the matter should be discussed in an executive session. "I don't feel the salary is correct. The position doesn't warrant $17,000," he said.

THE ORIGINAL salary was advertised for $14,500 but Smith sent a letter to Community Services saying that he would consider the position at $16,500.

"Smith said that he could go out and get state and federal aid for Community Services. This, plus his other qualifications made him the right man for the job. If he is successful the salary conflict right now will be of less consequence," Zetek said.

AN IMAGINATIVE trip across billy goat-gruff bridge in Udall Park, Elk Grove Village, leads these youngsters into fantasy land while construction work is being done nearby to finish the playground. "The construction workers are having trouble finishing the area because so many youngsters are already coming to play there," Jack Claes, park district director said. There are no other playgrounds in the area.

Tot Lot Completion Soon

A tot lot at Udall Park, one of the newer parks in the Elk Grove Park District, is under construction on Rockwood Drive and should be finished soon, according to Jack Claes, park director.

The park is near Mark Hopkins School on the Commonwealth Edison right-of-way. The park district was given a lease for four acres of the land to make use of the right-of-way, Claes said. There are no other parks in the area around Mark Hopkins.

A HELICOPTER, slide, boat, billy-goat-gruff bridge, merry-go-round and sandbox are already up in the park, Claes said. A kiddie train will circle the other equipment but the track hasn't been put in yet, he said.

Plans for developing land across from the park on Rockwood Drive are being completed. The land belongs to School Dist. 59 but the park district, in cooperation with the school, will develop another playground in the area, he said.

"We can only go 13 feet high because of the highwires in the area," Claes said.

Seven tenths of an acre behind the school belonging to the village may be made into a baseball diamond but more fill must be brought in first, Claes said.

Firemen Get Pay Raises

Elk Grove firemen had their pay raised to $4.35 an hour Tuesday night at the village board meeting. The raise is an increase from $3.75 for a seven-hour day to $34.80 for an eight-hour day.

The raise was a change from last week's recommendation of $3.75 to $4 for a seven-hour day and $3.75 to $4.35 for an eight-hour day, Trustee Charles Zetek, whose committee made the pay recommendation, said that the difference in pay from seven to eight hours was to encourage an eight-hour day. "Seven hours has been their basic work rate for years," he said.

"The pay raise is an increase of 25 per cent," Trustee Eugene Keith said. The other village personnel have only received 5 or 10 per cent, he said.

"THE FIRE DEPARTMENT has never received a pay increase since it was established," Zetek said. "That averages out to about 5 per cent a year." "We're also trying to encourage people to work in the department," he said.

"Professional skills are required for the fire department that aren't for other personnel," Zetek said.

The fire department also received approval for an increase in men from 23 to 25.

In other action the board approved the hiring of two additional patrolmen and a radio operator who will double as a clerk and typist.

Time to Pay Property Tax

Personal property taxes come to everyone, especially township office holders and VIP's.

A survey of Elk Grove Township personal property roles show that most local officials are getting billed for the unpopular tax. Although their names are listed at the local office, each property owner still has some time left to pay their taxes to the Cook County Collector's office.

Some of the names on the tax rolls are: George R. Busse, township clerk — $19.50 tax on $215 assessed valuation. Ronald L. Bradley, township highway commissioner — $12.07 on $120.

RICHARD M. HALL, township auditor — $36.18 on $375.

Bernard F. Lee township auditor — $44.63 on $190.

Arthur M. Stevens, township auditor — $172.70 on $2025.

Arnold Scharnhagen, township collector — $57.95 on $625.

David J. Begner, state representative — $10.04 on $110.

Jack Pahl, Elk Grove village mayor — $27.74 on $305.

WILLIAM ROHLWING, Elk Grove Township supervisor — $27.74 on $305.

The deadline for payment of the personal property tax was July 1, but the bills can still be paid directly to the Cook County Collector's office in Chicago.

Blame Outside Bug

A majority of the mosquitoes seem to be here to stay until other areas around the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District establish their own mosquito abatement, Wilbur Mitchell, district director said at the Elk Grove Village Board of Health meeting Wednesday.

Questions about how mosquito abatement was handled in Elk Grove prompted the meeting with Mitchell.

The Northwest Mosquito Abatement District covers eight townships over a 245 square mile area. This includes 16 towns and villages, 4 airports, 16 golf courses, 113 natural lakes, 11 creeks, 5 drainage ditches, 3 rivers and 48 square miles of forest preserve, Mitchell said.

TRUCKS ARE spraying the district constantly and ponds are covered with an oil film to kill the larvae, he said. But many of the mosquitoes are being blown in from the north, south and west and there's not much we can do about it, he said.

There is no mosquito abatement in DuPage and Lake Counties and none west of Elgin. The forest preserve doesn't allow mosquito abatement either, he said.

WHEN QUESTIONED about the harm done from mosquito spraying Mitchell explained that the district uses no DDT but Malathion, another insecticide.

Most of the harm done from spraying is from spraying done by people themselves, he said. "People can buy chemical sprays which we aren't even allowed to have in our research laboratories," he said.

There are several things people can do to lower the mosquito rate, according to Mitchell. Any standing water should be flushed away within a week, including swimming pools that have standing water around the edges.

Nothing should be thrown in standing water, Mitchell cautioned. "People who throw grass clippings in standing water are inviting mosquitoes."

PEOPLE COULD also encourage surrounding counties to begin mosquito abatement districts, he said.

"Anyone with asthma, heart trouble or allergies can call and request that no spraying be done around their home. The trucks will stop spraying two houses before and begin two houses after a person's home if a resident feels the spraying is not good for their health," Mitchell said.

Plan Hearing On Petition For Limousine

A public hearing on the petition of Ronald H. Nilsson to conduct a limousine service in Elk Grove Village was authorized Tuesday night for Aug. 5 at 7 p.m. at the village board meeting.

Nilsson manages a private organization which wants to provide limousine service from Elk Grove Village to O'Hare International Airport.

Atty. Ed Hofert said Nilsson felt his operation did not fall under the taxicab licensing provision and wants modification of the ordinance.

THE BOARD also approved the village's entering into a contract for material testing services with Novak, Dempsey & Associates, Inc., Des Plaines. Previous to this year the firm worked for the village but did not have a contract.

In other action the board approved a mutual police aid agreement, bicycle regulations, an increase in yield right-of-way signs and the removal of parking restrictions in the Harper College area.

Residents Complain of Noisy Pool Parties

by SHERI DILL

Temper flared Monday night at the Hoffman Estates Village Board meeting in a discussion between Tropicana Pool Pres. Larry Koontz and irate residents of the area who were present to complain of noisy pool parties and parking problems.

Koontz and two other officials of the pool appeared after residents of Arcadia Court presented a petition last week requesting no parking provisions on Audubon Street where the pool is located, and complained of noise.

About 10 residents were also present to voice their opinions.

Koontz said the pool is a non profit club. Teen parties at the pool are open to the public and more than 200 teens usually attend. Bands at teen parties stop playing at 9:30 and adult parties usually end at 11 p.m., he said.

"THIS IS THE FIRST time in six years we have been asked to appear at a village board meeting," he said. "We try to do anything the residents want us to do in an effort to be good neighbors. We would like for these people to join our club."

Koontz said the pool would be more than happy to zone the area for no parking. "Parking is a problem for us, too. If temporary signs would be best, we would be glad to take care of providing the signs and putting them out," he said.

Koontz said the pool had more than adequate parking facilities but customers of the pool often didn't use them.

The petition signed by residents called for no parking on the east side of Audubon Street from Arbor Court to Arcadia Court. Mrs. Albert L. Jensen, 110 Arcadia Court, who presented the petition last week, said the residents' proposal involved no parking in front of two houses.

KOONTZ SUGGESTED the no parking area should extend from Higgins Road to Thacker Street and should involve the four courts near the pool. One resident charged Koontz with "being ridiculous."

After discussion, the village board authorized an ordinance for no parking on the east side of Audubon Street from Higgins Road to Arcadia Court, and suggested the village engineer conduct a traffic study of Audubon to Thacker.

In a discussion of noise at pool parties, the residents said adult, rather than teen, parties were the problem. "The teenagers leave quietly. Why can't the adults act like adults?" asked one resident.

Village Atty. E. C. Hofert repeated his statement of last week's board meeting that the village has adequate noise ordinances, and it is up to the residents to sign complaints and appear in court against specific offenders.

HIS COMMENT brought the question of who the residents were supposed to prosecute. "Do we go after the band, the pool president, everyone at the party in a group? Who?" asked Mrs. Jensen.

Hofert said specific individuals making the largest amount of noise were the only ones that could be prosecuted.

Tropicana area residents obviously were unhappy that nothing more could be done when Village Pres. Frederick Downey closed the discussion.

In other business involving the Audubon Street area residents, the village board approved the expenditure of not more than $75 to repair landscaping on the island of Arcadia Court.

AFTER RECEIVING a petition calling for landscape improvements and sidewalk and street repairs from residents last week, the board requested Kenneth Dean, village superintendent of streets, to study the area and make a recommendation to the board.

Dean said the island is in need of new landscaping work which would cost between $50 and $75. Sidewalks and the intersection of Audubon Street and Higgins Road are in need of repair but will be covered in regular maintenance work this summer.

He said residents had agreed to maintain landscaping on the island once the village did the work.

Stones need to be removed, the area filled with black dirt and seeded, and have several shrubs replaced or transplanted, Dean said.

Rocket Sales, Too, Go Up

A button is pressed. The motor ignites and with a "whoosh" the rocket soars upward.

An Apollo shot at Cape Kennedy? No, it's a local amateur rocket enthusiast launching a model rocket.

Tony Crabtree of Tony's Hobby Lobby shop in Wheeling reported that sales of model rockets have gone up in recent years, due to the American and Russian space programs.

"People have been hearing about these missions and have become more interested in space travel and exploration," Crabtree explained. He added that older people as well as youngsters are taking up the hobby.

Crabtree has been building model rockets himself for the past three or four years and has assisted many would-be "rocketeers" in assembling their own models.

LAST JULY 4 THE SHOPS sponsored a rocket launching program for local model rocket buffs at the Wheeling High School football field. The shop, which sponsors the event each year, provided rocket engines, launching pads and ignition systems to those who brought their own rockets.

Crabtree said most model rockets are between six and 42 inches long, can reach speeds of up to 800 miles per hour and heights of 3,000 feet.

He explained that a variety of model rocket kits are now on the market.

"Most models are made of heavy paper and balsa wood and are powered by a motor containing a solid propellant similar to gunpowder but with a controlled burning rate," he said.

"These rockets aren't dangerous in themselves," Crabtree continued. "A lot of people connect rockets with fireworks, but there is no similarity. Rockets can be misused, but they don't explode or misfire. I don't know of anyone in this area who has ever been injured by a model rocket."

CRABTREE SAID A COMMON rocket, such as the 18-inch ones he enjoys building, takes about two hours to assemble and another two hours to sand and paint.

"The smoother the finish is on the rocket, the less friction it will have with the air and the faster it will fly," he said.

The rocket is launched from a wooden tripod launching pad, Crabtree explained. He said that a rocket is ignited when an electrical charge from a battery is sent through a nichrome wire to the rocket engine. The electrical charge makes the metal wire hot, which in turn ignites the solid propellant.

Cotton wadding protects the rest of the rocket from the heat of the engine and a plastic parachute is pushed open by a piston later in the flight to slow down the rocket and enable it to float unharmed to the ground. It can then be shot off again when another engine is inserted in the rocket.

CRABTREE EXPLAINED that a simple model of this type would cost only a few dollars. More elaborate rockets could run as high as $15 and extremely simple ones can be made from a badminton shuttlecock for only 50 cents.

Crabtree said some rockets are now on the market which have two or three engines which fire in stages. Others come with gliders attached to the rocket.

MODEL ROCKET enthusiast Tony Crabtree displays a model that is popular with amateur rocket builders in the area. Sales of the paper and balsa rockets have gone up in recent years, due to increasing interest in the space program.

To Change Accounting Method

A recommendation by Hoffman Estates Pres. Frederick Downey to adopt a policy directing the treasurer not to submit bills for payment unless the village has funds to pay them led to an involved discussion of village accounting procedures at Monday night's board meeting.

Downey said he recently had signed checks for bills which were several months old because revenues had just come in enabling the village to pay. One bill was for a newspaper advertisement wishing residents a merry Christmas in December.

"Obviously the village is not in very good financial shape if we can't pay for a December bill until the following June," he said.

Attend Orientation

They are Marion Gamenthaler, Gayle Haight and Mary Millner, all of Arlington Heights.

he said.

SEVERAL TRUSTEES suggested that the village accounting procedures need to be updated so trustees would know what funds were available before approving expenditures.

Most were opposed to Downey's suggestion, however, because bills were likely to get lost or trustees would forget what the payments were for by the time they came before the board.

At a hint by Trustee Virginia Hayter that the present board would not have the problem had it been handled properly in the past, Trustee James Sloan said, "I represent the statement that it hasn't been handled before because it has. Seven people have sat here every year and figured it out."

AFTER A HALF HOUR of discussion and several mentions by Downey of bills that had not been paid, the trustees decided to contact the auditor for recommendations on more sophisticated accounting procedures.

"We've waited this long. I suppose it won't matter if we wait a little longer to get our bills paid," Downey said.

Education Program

Sandra S. Gentner, of 1339 Carlisle, and Janet S. Peterson of 1332 Carlisle, Elk Grove Village, were accepted to attend "Project-Preview - 1969" a one week special education program in July at Illinois State University and Northern Illinois University.

"Over two hundred applications for these scholarships were received from candidates who are high school juniors and seniors rated scholastically in the upper one half of their class," Norman Rawson, coordinator, said.

Agencies cooperating in the recruitment include: United Cerebral Palsy of Illinois, the Illinois Mental Health Association, the Illinois Easter Seal Society and the Illinois Council for Exceptional Children.

Sewer Permit Reaction Mixed

Area township officials are showing mixed attitudes on the Metropolitan Sanitary District's (MSD) proposal to restrict the issuance of sanitary sewer permits.

Under the new ordinance adopted by the MSD board of trustees, sanitary sewer permits would be issued only to municipalities, governmental agencies such as townships, utility companies, or private individuals whose property lies next to an MSD sewer. The plan goes into effect Jan. 1, 1970.

Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said, "I feel it is a genuine service we can provide. I'm hopeful we can get started by Jan. 1."

ELK GROVE TOWNSHIP Supervisor William Rohlfing said of the plan, "Once they (the MSD) go through with it, the townships can take care of it (permit issuance) better than the MSD." He added, "It might work."

Russell Bramwell, an auditor in Palatine Township, said the board of auditors had not yet discussed it. "I would be for it 100 per cent, though," he said. Bramwell said that more than half the land within the township is unincorporated.

And in Schaumburg Township, Vernon Laubenstein, supervisor, said, "The auditors had discussed the MSD proposal at their meeting last month. We consulted with our attorneys and it appeared to us that we have only a limited amount of unincorporated territory."

Laubenstein said that Schaumburg presently planned no participation in the new plan. However, he added that the matter would probably be brought up at another township meeting.

"WE WOULD BE IN the position of hiring engineering talent and getting into the sewer business when there is no immediate need for this," said Laubenstein. He explained that in Schaumburg Township the pattern has been for villages to annex any developed land.

Frederick Juliano, MSD engineer for local sewer systems, said the plan was initiated because the MSD often has problems "hunting down builders and developers of subdivisions" when problems with sanitary sewers arise. "The builders don't seem to understand that once they have a sanitary sewer permit they are forever more responsible for that sewer unless there is a formal change of responsibility filed in writing with the MSD."

JULIANO SAID THAT in some cases, irate homeowners blame the MSD for sewer breakdowns. He emphasized the MSD only operates large interceptor sewers and treatment plants.

In proposing the new ordinance, the MSD said statutes were in effect that would allow townships to operate their own sanitary sewer systems.

Presently two townships in Cook County, Northfield and Leyden, are already doing this.

Wednesday night the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors attended a sewer board meeting at the Northfield Township seeking information on township-operated sewer systems.

Mark Clayton, Northfield Township supervisor, said that under their system when a developer asks for a sewer permit from the township, he is first required to submit plans and specification of the new system.

"WE RETAIN AN ENGINEERING firm which reviews the plans and okays them," said Clayton. The engineer also is required to inspect the system during its construction.

Clayton said that Northfield actually has two systems: One that was built to replace septic tanks, and a second that was built by a developer and turned over to the township for maintenance. "The developer's system has turned out to be our biggest headache," Clayton said.

The subdividers' system turned out to be inadequate, and the township spent several years trying to get approval to sell bonds.

Clayton said that at first the township had difficulty collecting usage fees. "So we started suing people after they got three fiscal quarters behind in their payments," he said. "Collections are no longer a problem," said Clayton, "because we simply put a lien on their houses."

CLAYTON EMPHASIZED that general township funds cannot be used to pay for the sewer system. When the Northfield Township auditors meet to discuss sewer system problems, they meet as a sewer board.

"Inspection of the sewers is the most important aspect of our program," said Clayton.

Mrs. Kolerus said Wheeling Township's next move would be to have Richard Cowen, the township attorney, draw up a list of necessary steps the township must take.

Mrs. Kolerus said she plans to approach Elk Grove, Palatine and Northfield Townships on the possibility of "pooling the engineers and inspection employees."

Rohlfing, of Elk Grove, agreed with Mrs. Kolerus: "I think it would be a good idea because there wouldn't be enough work for an engineer in one township."

Income from Pool Tops Last Year's

Income from the Hoffman Estates swimming pool this summer already has exceeded income for all the last year.

Finance Chairman William Cowin told the village board Monday night that proceeds from the pool totaled $16,713 for the summer. The figure represents about a $1,500 increase over last year's income, he said.

New deck areas opened within the past week should help increase income even more, Cowin said, because people no longer will have to be turned away because the pool is too full.

Library of Congress Given Old Magazine

Schaumburg Township Library is donating bound copies of a children's magazine published 70 years ago to the U.S. Library of Congress.

The magazine, "The Myrtle," was published in the United States in the 1890's. Magazine issues for the years 1896-1898 will be given to the national library, after having been given to the township library earlier as a gift.

"These are the only copies of this magazine available for this period, as far as we know," said Librarian Michael Mad-den.

Electrocuted In Arlington

A Colorado man, working on a high tension utility pole at Rand and Kennicott in Arlington Heights, was electrocuted Wednesday when 2,160 volts of electricity passed through his body.

Larry D. Drake, 37, 710 7th Street, Glenwood Springs, Colo., was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital at 2:15 p.m.

Arlington Heights police said Drake, who was working for the Aldridge Electric Co., of Lake Forest, was splicing wires together atop the pole when the accident occurred.

THEY SAID HIS elbow and leg apparently touched the pole causing the current to surge through his body.

Police and fire department rescue squads failed to revive him by mouth to mouth resuscitation or external cardiac massage.

Youth Job Talks Slated Tuesday

Second in a series of job orientation talks arranged by the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth is scheduled Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Jenning House.

A carpenter will be featured at this program, which is intended to develop and foster constructive interests among junior high and senior high youths. Earlier this year, an airline pilot addressed local teens and discussed his job.

THE CARPENTER invited for Tuesday's program will talk about his trade and the educational requirements for this particular vocation, according to COY youth worker Barry Schoenbrod.

Additional job orientation sessions are planned for the future by the youth committee.

Has 11-Man Panel

An 11-man panel to work as the finance committee for the campaign of Joseph Mathewson has been announced by the Winnetka candidate for Congress.

Serving as chairman of the committee is former Dartmouth College vice president Justin A. Stanley of Winnetka. Stanley is also current president of the Chicago Bar Association.

"Because of the size of the district and the great number of potential voters, we will need all the contributions we can get to help us keep the electorate informed on my policies," Mathewson said in appointing the rest of his committee.

Members are: James C. Worth of Winnetka, vice president of Cressap, McCormick and Paget, management consultants. Worth is a past president of the United Republican Fund of Illinois and a former member of the National Republican Finance Committee.

—Michael W. Fielding of Evanston, partner in Bacon, Whipple and Co., stock brokers.

—Burton W. Hales, Jr. of Kenilworth, treasurer of Hales and Hunter Co., animal feed manufacturers.

—John R. Montgomery, III, of Winnetka, president of Lakeside Bank.

—Jerry Peterson of Arlington Heights, WBBM television meteorologist.

—Richard K. Frey, Winnetka, executive vice president of Lake Shore National Bank.

—James A. Bovald, registered representative of C. H. Walker and Co., stock brokers.

—Bryam Dicks of Winnetka, McLagan and Co., management consultants.

—Kath Skalla of Winnetka, general agent, Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co.

—Richard B. Hansen of Winnetka, attorney and partner, Hansen and Hansen.

Named Treasurer

Thomas H. Jacobsen, 1223 Harvard Terrace, Evanston, has been named treasurer of David A. Roe's campaign for the Republican nomination for Congress from the 13th District.

Jacobsen is vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago. He is responsible for the securities and collections group of the operations division.

Jacobsen, 29, is a graduate of Arlington High School, and holds a bachelor's degree from Lake Forest College and a master's from the Graduate School of Business at the University of Chicago.

He also serves on the faculty of the American Institute of Banking.

Roe, publisher of the Hollister newspapers since 1963, is also vice president of the firm and a member of the board of directors. The candidate is on leave of absence for the duration of the campaign.

Asks Stronger Move Against Dissenters

Stronger punishment of students who disrupt college campuses was urged by Samuel H. Young, Northfield Township Republican who is seeking the GOP nomination for 13th District Congressman.

Young said a "small band of highly-organized, well-financed students has been going from campus to campus to exploit any type of grievance which will promote and create dissent and lead to rioting."

He said students "have every right to voice their concerns and campus administrators should listen and act promptly if such action is warranted."

YOUNG'S REMARKS were to be made at the Northfield Township Republican Organization candidates' night for the 13th District's 12 GOP candidates last night. Student unrest in the nation's colleges was one of several issues he discussed.

A former assistant secretary of state in Illinois, Young urged a decrease in federal spending "to keep the nation from going bankrupt." He called for a reappraisal of spending at all levels of federal government.

Young said a cutback in spending would stop "the inflationary spiral which has robbed us of any real value in financial gains."

Predicting peace in Vietnam by the end of the year, Young called for support of President Nixon's efforts to end the war. He also predicted a compromise in the ABM battle.

Mathewson Outlines Issues

The necessity of the anti-ballistic missile system, arms control, tax relief and overhaul of the welfare system were prime issues outlined by 13th District Congressional candidate Joseph Mathewson in a speech at the Northfield Township candidate's night.

While withdrawing our troops from Vietnam, the U.S. should push ahead with an anti-ballistic missile system that will provide the only defense against enemy rockets, short of launching all-out war and bringing on world destruction, the candidate said Wednesday.

"For the long run, we must seek security through air-tight arms control and disarmament agreements with on-site inspections so we can finally reduce armaments spending and turn our sword into plowshares."

MATHEWSON expressed an idea that creativity is needed in the free enterprise system rather than large government programs to deal with social and economic ills.

"If the government would give a company a tax break of $10,000 because that company is using the amount to train the unemployed, obviously the whole $10,000 goes to that purpose. But if the government sets up its own $10,000 training program, much of the appropriation is lost in the bureaucracy," he pointed out.

The Winnetka candidate also said that taxes must be reduced, because "they are excessive, especially for middle income families who bear a disproportionate share of the load." This will not hurt the government, he said, since "federal income tax receipts grow by billions of dollars each year with no change in the rates."

MATHEWSON STATED that "Any necessary new government projects, or increases in old programs, can be financed from this natural growth and from savings achieved by better management and program cutbacks. Particular areas where we can save are farm subsidies and the defense establishment."

Calling for an overhaul of the welfare system, he stated, "We must eliminate the incentives for a man to abandon his family, for a person to work only so much and no more, for a welfare family to move to another state even though it offers no job and no decent housing. Instead, we can create inducement for people to do the best they can for themselves and their families — to do the same things you and I strive to do for ourselves and our families."

Weber Observes Moon Blast-Off

Alban "Stormy" Weber of Evanston, one of 12 candidates vying for the Republican nomination for 13th District congressman was a guest observer at the Apollo moon-shot blast off yesterday.

At that time, he expressed a view that the nation's commitment to space exploration should be extended following man's first step on the moon.

I think we'd lose a little of the spirit of adventure that has been this country's chief inspiration, if we failed to go beyond this first step on the moon," Weber said.

"We need a frontier to lead us ahead to new achievements, whether it be in the direction of exploring the moon itself or establishing a space station for more remote travels," he added.

As a rear admiral in the U. S. Naval Reserve, he noted that the coming months will be crucial ones in the funding of new NASA projects, and placed himself firmly on the "go-side" of the pending decision.

"I heard an elderly person say, 'We have enough money if we don't live too long.' It frightened me."

Over-65 Americans are facing more years and uncertain financial needs with the limited resources they had on retirement. Widows and other aged women living alone are especially distressed. Six of every ten women living alone have incomes below the poverty line set by the Social Security Administration—$1,565.

Moreover, a recent United States Senate report notes, the numbers of elderly women continue to increase. This disproportion of women 65 and older to men is expected to grow from a ratio of 134 to 100 at present to one of 150 to 100 by 1985.

Named Head for Mathewson

H. Robert Bartell Jr. of Golf, a nationally-known economist, will head a public policy committee for Joseph Mathewson, Republican candidate for Congress in the 13th District.

Bartell, an associate professor of managerial economics at Northwestern University's school of business, was appointed by Gov. Richard Ogilvie to head an interim task force studying financial state agencies.

Mathewson, a Winnetka resident, is one of 12 GOP candidates for the congressional seat vacated when Donald Rumsfeld was appointed head of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

HE SAID BARTELL'S committee will "delve into the federal fields of taxpayer interest and will be able to guide me with solid information on what the public wants its government to do. This covers air and water pollution, taxation, federal aid and any other pressing national problems."

Bartell has advised the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, the Joint Congressional Economic Committee, the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

The Lighter Side

A Gum Wrapper?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—For a long time I had some misgivings over spending $24 million to land a man on the moon. But I no longer feel that way.

My reservations about the lunar program were swept away by this week's announcement that the Apollo 11 astronauts planned to deposit on the moon's surface a silicon disc bearing the names of 77 members of Congress and Vice President Agnew.

Even if nothing else were accomplished, this somehow would make it all seem worthwhile.

There remains, however, a sliver of doubt that the artifacts which the astronauts will leave behind when they return to earth are entirely adequate for the occasion.

In addition to the disc immortalizing the aforementioned lawmakers, the terrestrial souvenirs will include an American flag and a peace plaque.

I'm not suggesting these items aren't appropriate. But when you are planting evidence of man's first visit to the moon, you should make certain that future moon visitors will recognize it.

What I'm leading up to here is the possibility that Russia may try to steal the credit from the United States with the unmanned vehicle it sent to the moon earlier this week.

That vehicle may well have contained a Soviet flag, a peace plaque and silicon disc bearing the names of 77 members of Soviet parliament.

Not knowing they were transported in an unmanned vehicle, future lunar explorers who discover these items could easily conclude that Russia beat the United States to the moon.

Now ask yourself this: When you go somewhere, how can you always tell whether someone else has been there already?

Answer: If man has been in that particular spot before, there will be a chewing gum wrapper lying around some place.

Very well. In order to make America's space feat unmistakably clear to posterity, NASA should have arranged for Neil Armstrong to drop a gum wrapper when he descends from the lunar module.

America's claim of having achieved the first moon landing could have been further protected by having Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. flick a cigarette butt into a nearby crater.

And just to be on the safe side, it might also have been wise to have equipped the astronauts with a poppers stick and to have changed the wording on the plaque to read "Kilroy was here."

Regrets House Bill Failed

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, on the eve of the adjournment of the 76th General Assembly, had regrets for two pieces of legislation he introduced that failed.

Both had been controversial in his home Third District. House Bills 107 and 108, regulating and registering door-to-door salesmen, had been officially opposed by the village of Wheeling.

House bill 1241, liberalizing laws for involuntary annexation of land, roused objections of Prospect Heights residents who formed an opposition citizens group.

IN A RECENT letter to his constituents, Schlickman said the Senate Municipal Corporation Committee will take the annexation bill under advisement. The Senate committee is to hold hearings on the bill and report back to the 1971 assembly.

Wheeling had objected to the direct sellers law on the basis that the state law would be weaker than its municipal ordinance regulating sellers. Wheeling's ordinance was declared unsatisfactory by both the Cook County Circuit Court and First District Appellate Court. The village has the case on appeal before the Illinois Supreme Court.

SCHLICKMAN CHARGED opposition to the bills from Senate Majority Leader W. Russell Arrington and from Sen. G. William Horsley, R-Springfield, was "totally unexpected and without any rational explanation on their part."

He reminded district residents they may still voice opinions over legislation which passed by writing Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie. The governor, holding the power of veto, is currently reviewing legislation which passed the General Assembly.

Schlickman is a candidate for congressman in the special 13th District election. He faces 11 other Republican candidates in an Oct. 7 primary.

Marks Tells Position On Major Issues

Republican Congressional candidate Gerald Marks of Wilmette has issued the first of a series of "position papers" designed to explain the former Metropolitan Sanitary District Trustee's stands on major issues.

A first paper on de-Americanization of the war in Vietnam, mentions casualty tolls exceed the population of Wilmette, while American injuries equal the voting population of the 13th Congressional District.

Marks states that the $100 billion spent on the war could have been used to "conquer cancer, heart disease, air pollution, and water pollution."

"Instead, we are caught in a war which we have discovered cannot be realistically won militarily."

THE CANDIDATE'S proposals to end American involvement include continuation of "systematic withdrawal of troops, to be completed no later than the end of 1970." The United States could, he said, "continue to supply Vietnam with money and supplies for their own defense and continue to train their troops."

Marks stated in his position paper that Americans will have to realize that fighting to stop the South Vietnam war, "some form of coalition government and international supervised elections are essential."

His final contention is that, "we should review our commitments abroad to determine whether we are involving ourselves in the internal affairs of other nations as we did in Vietnam."

Completes SIU Course

Toni Machin, 434 S. Beverly Lane, Arlington Heights, was one of forty students enrolled in a two-week Southern Illinois University course entitled "The Black American Child."

The short course was most concerned with the characteristics of the disadvantaged child, his special problems and needs, influences of poverty on child relationships, economic influences upon children's learning and motivation, according to Michael Zurich, course instructor.

Here's Your Primer on the Astronauts' Technical Lingo

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Some of the language from the lexicon of space you are likely to hear during the Apollo 11 mission to the moon:

Agg, or "Aggs"—For abort guidance system, the system aboard the Apollo lunar landing spacecraft the astronauts would rely on to steer back to a rendezvous with the command craft if something went wrong.

Apogynthion—The farthest point from the moon's surface in the orbit of an object launched from a body other than the moon.

Apogee—The farthest point from the earth in the orbit of the moon or other earth satellites.

Apogee—The farthest point from the moon in the orbit of an object launched from the moon.

Bmag, or "Beomag"—For body mounted attitude gyro, a gyroscope mounted on the lunar vehicle for use in emergencies.

Celestial—Referring to space between the earth and the moon.

Deds, or "Deeds"—For data entry and display assembly, the instrument panel the astronauts use to control and monitor the Agg.

Delta V—The measurement of velocity change, stated in feet per second.

IMU—Inertial measurement unit, part change, stated in feet per second.

IMU—Inertial measurement unit, part of the guidance system used both on the command spacecraft and the lunar lander which measures and records changes in velocity and direction.

Heliocentric—Any space phenomenon which is centered around the sun, such as the orbit of the earth and the planets.

LM, or "Lem"—Originally, for lunar excursion module, the lunar landing spacecraft which is now called simply the lunar module, or LM.

LOI—For lunar orbit insertion, the point at which the Apollo command spacecraft—with the moon lander still attached to it—decelerates after its journey from earth to swing into orbit around the moon.

MSI—Moon sphere of influence.

Pericynthion—Nearest point to the moon's surface in the orbit of an object launched from a body other than the moon.

Perigee—Closest point to the earth in the orbit of the moon or other earth satellite.

Perilune—Nearest point to the lunar surface in the orbit of an object launched from the moon.

Pipa, or "Pippe"—For pulse integrating pendulous accelerometer, a device in the IMU which measures acceleration by converting the movements of a pendulum into pulses and feeding the signals into a computer.

PLSS, or "Piss"—For portable life support system, the backpack oxygen, air conditioning, communications and power system the astronauts use during their moon walk.

Selenographic—Relating to the physical geography of the moon.

Selenocentric—Centered around the moon.

SLA, or "Slah"—For spacecraft lunar module adapter, the section at the front of the third stage of the Saturn 5 booster which houses the LM during the ride into space.

SPS—For service propulsion system, the system which fires the Apollo Command D ship's main engine to put the craft into lunar orbit, and fires it again to kick the astronauts out of orbit around the moon and sent them back to earth.

TEI—For trans lunar injection, the point where the SPS fires to start the astronauts away from earth orbit toward the moon.

Bear Hunting Old Yellowstone Story

By RICHARD McCALL

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI)—For officials at Yellowstone National Park, it was an old story.

Rangers were on another bear hunt last week. Three visitors had been mauled by grizzlies already this year, with the summer tourist rush hardly half over. Two men were attacked the same night as they were sleeping in Fishing Bridge campground about 3 a.m. July 8.

Rangers believed the same bear attacked both men and they went after him.

Bear hunts by rangers at Yellowstone have been going on since 1907—the year the first tourist was mauled by a grizzly.

Records on attacks by grizzlies have been kept since 1881. Since then, 111 bears have either been removed to more isolated regions of the park or destroyed as a result of mauling incidents. Three persons have been killed in such attacks—in 1907, 1910 and 1942.

Vern Hennessey, assistant superintendent, said there are about 250 grizzlies and 500 black bears in the park.

Many tourists don't realize how vicious and dangerous bears can be.

"Feeding any wildlife in a national park is illegal, but people insist on feeding the bears, leaving themselves open to attack," Hennessey said.

Feeding was not the cause of the attacks on David Lou, 22, Los Angeles, and Michael Rock, 28, Carnegie, Pa., last week. An aging grizzly mauled them as they slept, inflicting minor head wounds. Both men were hospitalized.

Earlier in the year, a five-year-old girl was mauled by a bear in the same campground. The attacking bear in that case also was an older animal.

The Yellowstone Park policy concerning its bear population has two goals: "To maintain representative populations of grizzly and black bear under natural conditions as part of the native wildlife of the park and to regulate human use to avoid incidents and the need to destroy problem bear."

The Way We See It

Cut Through Babble

A confusing array of candidates faces Northwest suburban voters in two primaries this fall. Sixteen candidates have filed for delegate to Illinois' Constitutional Convention. A Sept. 23 primary will cut the number of contenders to four, from whom the two local delegates will be elected on Nov. 18.

Twelve candidates will appear on the ballot in the Republican primary Oct. 7 to fill the seat of former 13th Dist. Congressman Donald Rumsfeld. The winner will face the Democrat's single candidate on Nov. 25.

The candidates for Constitutional Convention delegate include among their numbers some individuals with outstanding experience and background in local government, others with solid political backgrounds, still others active in civic-minded activities, others who are virtually unknown.

Each of them has an obligation to voters to conduct an issue-oriented campaign, outlining their philosophies on the role and purpose of a constitution, the approach it should take toward state government and specific issues to be dealt with in the Constitutional Convention. While delegates should not be tied down in advance to a long list of specific votes, voters have a right to know their attitude toward major issues that will develop, their commitment to state government and how they would go about designing a system of state and local government more capable of dealing with today's problems.

Congressional candidates also have a responsibility to deal in issues relevant to the 13th Congressional District. This district has been ably represented by Rumsfeld, who had the wisdom to put in meaningful perspective the problems and needs of the 13th District, the metropolitan area and the nation.

To help its readers cut through the welter of appeals, the Herald plans intensive coverage. A special election task force has been organized, headed by Managing Editor Richard B. Friedman. Coordinating coverage of the 13th District race will be Martha Moser. Edward Murnane will coordinate coverage of the Con-Con race.

Invitations are being sent to each of the candidates to come to our office for an in-depth interview. It is based on these interviews and issues they develop during the campaign that the Herald will make its editorial endorsements.

The candidates and newspaper bear a joint responsibility in developing and clarifying the issues. But the voters bear the final responsibility of cutting through the babble of voices for an intelligent, informed choice.

Critic's Corner

Hair No Bar to This Job

by BOB ZANIC

Well, the big brouhaha concerning the young fireman and his handlebar moustache has ended, at least for the time being. The powers that be, allowed him to keep the shaggy beard.

And it's a good thing too. After all, the only person he upset was his boss.

If the moustache made him look like a comic, as his boss declared, it certainly did not negatively affect his behavior.

FROM ALL REPORTS, the fireman did his job well, was a responsible family man and took an active part in civic affairs. In fact, his wife and children thought the moustache gave him a certain flair.

Had he been forced to shave it off, there's no telling how this might have changed his life.

Imagine his arriving home from work one afternoon. His wife greets him with "What do you mean you had to shave it off?"

"The chief said I was setting a bad example for the rest of the men in the department."

"IS WHAT THE CHIEF thinks more important than what your family thinks?"

"No, but I like the job."

"Well you can remain a fireman but I and the children won't remain with you. We loved that moustache."

"But dear, be reasonable."

She exits into the bedroom, packs up a few belongings, and the kids, and departs for mother's. He stares at the door for several minutes but stomach rumblings urge him in the direction of the kitchen.

Opening a can of sardines, he cuts his finger. As he stumbles towards the medicine cabinet with the thought of lockjaw on his mind, the family parrot pecks him a vicious nip on the ear lobe.

LATER, WITH bandages in place, he prepares himself for the men's service club meeting he has that evening.

To the occupants of the apartment elevator he gives his customary "hello," but instead of answering, they move away and avoid looking at him.

Three blocks later he stops his car at a light and notices a police car pull up beside him. He smiles nervously at the cop but receives a stony stare in return.

Quickly he reviews all of his driving maneuvers but can't understand what he has done wrong. Now the police car is behind him. Two red lights flash atop the car and a bright spotlight is aimed into his rearview mirror.

"What did I do wrong officer?"

"Let's see your driver's license. You the owner of this vehicle?"

He offers the cop every piece of identification he has.

THE COP LOOKS at the license and then at him and says, "Nothing wrong with your driving; you just looked mighty suspicious to me, that's all." The cop returns the license. "Your upper lip; it has a cruel twist to it. Makes you look mighty suspicious."

"Thank you officer."

Several hours later he is inside a phone booth.

"Yes, I know it's late dear, but will you listen to me? I quit the fire department. Yeah, I just called the chief and told him I quit. I found a job that pays well and where I can grow and wear my handlebar moustache in peace."

"I got a job in a pizza parlor out in Skokie."

Try Mixed-Grade Class

by JOAN KLUSMANN

Children from different grades will learn together in two Olive School classrooms in Arlington Heights this September. The pilot projects are designed to help teachers give special attention to each child and let the kids help and learn from one another.

Teachers, the principal and administrators hope to create an atmosphere in which each child works at his own pace, investigating and exploring areas in which his current interest is high.

IN PREPARING for the fall session, Olive staff members have visited other school districts which have mixed-age classrooms and consulted with experts in the education field. The bulk of the expenses are covered by a $1,500 grant from the Instructional Resources Center in Arlington Heights.

Official consultant to the project is Dr. Bernard Spodek, a University of Illinois professor who is supervising multi-age groups in Champaign. Objectives of his programs are to foster greater independence and confidence in the child and to instill in the student a thirst for knowledge.

He considers the placement of different aged children together as a vehicle toward helping educators give special attention to each child. When students are performing different tasks at varying levels, the teachers have to work individually with each.

SOME OF THE methods he uses are similar to those used in Montessori schools. The teacher remains in the background, assisting and guiding most of the time, rather than lecturing from desk or blackboard. However Spodek says his teaching group in Champaign depends more on social interaction and chooses a wider selection of materials than Montessori schools. "We attempt to be more flexible and put more emphasis on creative output."

Emphasizing that regular classes, scouts, music lessons and other organized activities don't give children enough time to dream, Spodek favors more freedom in the classroom. At Olive, special areas for math, dramatics and science will be set up and children may move to the appropriate corner for filmstrip viewing or experiments.

The Olive staff members working on the projects say that mixing ages in the classroom can help students retain knowledge. When an older child explains and repeats information for a younger child, he will automatically have a better and more complete grasp of the material himself.

The two programs planned for September are similar in many ways but one class, for first-through-fourth graders will focus on children who seem to need additional motivation. Children attending the other session are first, second and third graders selected without regard for ability or achievement levels.

OLIVE SCHOOL is a good site for the pilot projects. Principal Mrs. Mary Stitt, who sparked the idea in the district and applied for the grant, is enthused, excited and knowledgeable about the potential of the new programs. She is ready, however, to refine, correct or abandon the programs if they do not measure up to expectation.

The teachers have experience with students this age, are respected by both kids and parents and are informed about mixed-age groups.

Enthusiasm for the "stand back and guide" technique is shared by many educators. Junior high school teachers working with remedial reading students last week in School Dist. 25's summer school sessions were ecstatic over the format and results of individual teaching materials.

There are several classes in the district now where children of different grades learn together. The mixed groups are established when about a dozen students in two successive grades are "left over" after classroom allotments are made. One teacher of a third and fourth-grade class last year agrees emphatically that the set-up encouraged individual instruction of each child.

THE DISTRICT'S administrators, teachers and psychologists will be watching and evaluating the programs as they unfold during the year. Preliminary studies point to possibly exciting results and all parents should watch for progress reports and results of the projects.

How 'Camp' Is Camping?

by MARY REIFSCHNEIDER

This summer 40 million Americans will leave the comforts of home behind to go camping.

I was amazed when I read that figure — 40 million. I just can't believe there are that many people deceiving themselves. I made my only camping trip last summer and concluded you have to have masochistic tendencies to say you enjoy roughing it in the "great outdoors."

THE CAMPING trip to Wisconsin began on a rainy Friday night. We traveled through Boone County, getting lost in the county fair traffic and found ourselves in Rockford instead of Wisconsin.

A quick check (actually 30 minutes) with the map and we managed to find the road back to Wisconsin. Finding the camp site wasn't as easy. The rain was coming down so hard we finally had to pull off the road and wait. Through the flashes of lightning we noticed that our waiting spot was a cemetery. As the rain subsided, we put away our bag of popcorn and continued on.

We arrived at the campsite at some reasonable hour — 9 p.m., but the keepers had already locked the gates. We aroused them and they led us down a muddy path to our site. Fortunately the camper tent and other paraphernalia were already in place for us.

WE UNLOADED our luggage (gear, I believe the campers call it) and wondered what we'd do until bedtime. We decided to check out the local taverns in the nearby town. Naturally they were closed. Onward to Beloit.

We searched for the better part of an hour and located a place called "Club 88." Not bad at all. The pizza was good and we passed the evening playing pool.

We snuck through the back gates at camp and prepared to spend the night. It wasn't easy — walking through tall, wet grass to the communal bathhouse. Also the tent was unheated and it was cold. But the camper had a built in bed and with a sleeping bag for warmth, I forgot the hostile elements being only a layer of canvas away and slept.

Sept that is until 6 a.m. when there was a thud, thud, thud outside my zippered window. What was happening?

"IT'S TIME TO get up and eat breakfast. I'm chopping wood," the eager camper in the group said.

"Stop chopping that wood, we want to sleep," we answered. We figured there was no point in dragging the day out by getting up at 6 a.m. By 10 a.m. the noise of all the children in camp got to us and we had to get up. Now how to spend the next 14 hours.

It was too cold to go swimming. We took a 30 minute hike in the mucky woods and gave up on that. All the other campsites were brimming with squawking children so we ignored our neighbors.

Among our camping needs was a bar suitcase. It saved the day. We drug out the gin and tonic and settled down to a game of draw pitch. But it seems drinking was forbidden in this camp site, and the eager camper was alarmed at our wanton behavior.

SHE WALKED around spraying insecticide, lest anyone smell the gin.

It got to be a little nauseating, drinking gin and tonic with the smell of bug spray, so we returned to the pool tables at "Club 88."

Sunday we defied the children and slept until 11 a.m. We spent a rousing hour throwing the frisbee and casting fishing lines into the lake. Luckily we caught no fish.

At 1 p.m. we broke up camp and headed for the nearest car wash.

'Ho, Ho, Jim, You Make Me Nervous'

Jim Vesely, staff writer for Paddock, has a field day every now and then spoofing anti-communists.

His latest generous contribution of placing all anti-communist efforts in some mythical camp of kookery, concentrates on Rev. Paul Lindstrom's efforts to ridicule the UN, through burning the flag that represents their atheistic endeavors.

As fun goes, Vesely's article was humorous. It also goes a long way toward negating the necessary education concerning the UN and like Communist endeavors which is absolutely vital to assure Vesely the ink, presses, building and freedom of the press with which to further his meanderings.

There are two types of people in today's "enlightened" press who attack and ridicule the threat of communism. One group, small in numbers, who are unidentified members of the Communist Party, U.S.A., with a definite predetermined mission to perform, that of downgrading public knowledge of the communist apparatus within the United States.

A larger group, the vast majority of writers and editors, are young eager, generally very bright devoted persons who really think the two million persons in the United States who formerly belonged to the Communist Party, U.S.A., pose no threat to their security at all, much less the 18,000 members of the party Gus Hall reported last month.

Jolly, laughing Jim Vesely certainly must be in the latter group. I get a little nervous at his displayed lack of knowledge though.

Need 4th Planners

The Hoffman Estates Independence Day Committee is pleased with the excellent coverage you have given us during the year and especially the important weeks before the July 4 celebration.

The committee consists of a handful of "interested citizens" who meet every month of the year to plan the stay-at-home, all day celebration for Schaumburg Township residents.

WE WOULD LIKE that handful to multiply into a riotous. If every civic and social organization in the township would send a representative to the meetings we are sure interest will expand. We meet on the last Friday of each month in the Hoffman Estates Village Hall at 8:30 p.m.

Those families who attended last week's celebration know that every event was free and that there were attractions for every age. The only charges were for food and beverages. Throughout the years we have strived to keep the day as inexpensive as possible.

It has become the committee's intention that nothing other than food be sold. This kind of day is possible because of the financial assistance of the commercial establishments in the area.

Walkin' the Sidelines

by PAUL LOGAN

STRIKE ONE! All right. Way to go. Two more and we're out of the inning. Boooo! Come on, Jack. A hit could win it for us.

It's mid-July and the baseball season and hot weather are making their presence felt.

Baseball is even discussed more than the weather with two levels of ball getting a lot of the attention. Naturally the major leagues in general and the Cubs in particular draw the most comment from diamond devotees.

But legion ball has also modestly grown in popularity this season as witnessed by crowds of between 50 and 100 who have attended recent, non-rainy evening games. And this attendance is even more amazing because of the mixed up schedule that the district tries to follow.

Somewhat — carrier pigeon, two-way radios, telephone over the back yard fence or merely by chance — a boisterous crowd always seems to gather for the 6 p.m. encounter.

Maybe with better planning and organization in 1970 plus a capable legion czar and less rain, the attendance will be larger for the 18-and-under ball players.

This weekend — barring rain or a schedule change — the Ninth District playoffs will begin. Several of the teams in the Paddock area have a very good shot at advancing pretty far in the tourney, especially if there is fan support.

Lighted Field

REMEMBER THOSE hot fall afternoons when few people turned out for Saturday high school football games?

Well, three schools — Hersey, Forest View and Elk Grove — are in the home stretch toward lighting their football fields.

Hersey has already received its poles, they've been painted, and they are ready to be righted; Forest View's poles are on the way and should be arriving any day now, and Elk Grove — which started its drive a little later than the other two — has already placed its order.

"They'll be here and in by the first ballgame," said Bob Tipword, Grove's athletic director.

This is great news for all those who enjoy following prep football but couldn't get out for Saturday afternoon contests because of work, televised college games, odd jobs, etc.

So this fall all of District 214's six Mid-Suburban League schools will have lights. How about it, District 211?

"VERY SUCCESSFUL"

That's the way Frank May termed the car wash he and about 25 other Forest View students took part in last Saturday.

The project — which was held to raise money for the education of Hal Sprehe's three girls — was blessed with sunshine and this brought out about 100 cars, according to May.

In all the wash raised $186 to increase the total bank account of the "Frank May Project" to $908.56.

May asked that all who turned out to have their cars cleaned and all his fellow students who helped in the seven-hour session should be given a big "Thank you!" from him.

A picnic and a raffle are in the works for sometime in August, according to May. The picnic will be an "all-family outing" and "something where the kids can get together before heading off to college," May explained.

Besides raising money for the Sprehe family, May and some of his buddies have been making periodic stops at the Sprehe home to help out with odd jobs until Mrs. Sprehe can get things squared away.

These young adults should be saluted for the fine acts of charity they've been performing without the prompting of their elders. In a day and age when newspapers and newscasts are filled with what students are doing wrong, it's refreshing to write about something on the plus side of the ledger.

"My goal was $1000 before I go away to school and I think we'll hit it," May concluded.

This reporter never doubted it from the start of this drive last month. Hal Sprehe, who was struck down by a fatal accident, instilled in his student-athletes the desire to be gentlemen in every sense of the word.

Young men like Frank May are shining examples of the legacy that Sprehe has left behind.

A GAME OF IF'S. Baseball has been often called a game of inches, but Monday night it was re-termed a game of "if's" when these two plays occurred. If Scott Smith of Palatine (picture to left), angling away from Arlington Heights catcher Bruce Frase, had been able to score in the seventh inning, Palatine would have won the game right there. And if Frase, trying to slide under Palatine catcher Gerry Grybash's glove, had been able to make it safely home in the fourth, then Heights would have claimed the win. As it turned out, though, neither man made it home and the game was forced into an extra inning before Palatine recorded a 3-1 victory.

Giles Tosses 2-Hitter at EG As Wheeling Posts 8-1 Win

Dave Giles will be heard from in a big way next spring.

The Wheeling soon-to-be sophomore hurler stood toe to toe with Gordon Hollywood, one of the fine Mid-Suburban League lefties from Elk Grove, and outpitched him last Monday evening.

Giles backed by a pair of three-run innings spun a neat two-hitter at the Grenadiers to win, 8-1, at the Grove diamond.

Elk Grove got to Giles in the first when Kevin Chesney singled, stole second, took third when the throw to second went into center, and scored on an infield error.

After that, Giles relinquished just one more safety to blank the hosts the rest of the way.

Wheeling was first on the scoreboard in the initial frame when a Grenadier error in the outfield allowed Gary Schweitzer to score from second base.

In the second the Wildcats took the lead for good as John Dyson singled, was moved to second on a walk to Fred Benicivutto and was singled home by Steve Wieson.

The third inning saw the 'Cats tally three times. After a single by Dan Hull, a walk to Scott Day and a hit batsman — after Steve Sheridan, an infield out sent Hull across. Then Benicivutto unloaded a two-run single.

The other big outburst came in the fourth for Ron DeBolt's club. This is how it happened.

Schweitzer doubled off of Hollywood and Day singled him home. Day swiped second and came home on an error by the infield with Giles reaching on the miscue. Sheridan got a safety and went to second on the throw to the infield and Dyson singled home Giles.

Prep Net Action

It was a clean sweep for the Elk Grove tennis teams in their meeting with Prospect Heights last Friday in an O'Hare Suburban Tennis League battle.

The Grove high school boys team won 4-1 the girls won in a squeaker, 2-1, and the junior boys won 5-2.

For the high school boys, this is how it went.

Jack Carriglio outlasted Rick Leadley, 4-6 6-0 and 6-2. Pat Massey did the same with Tom Ruprecht, 4-6, 6-4, and 6-4; Ken Siebold handled Jim Cuca, 6-2 and 7-5, and Chuck Carroll rounded out the singles competition sweep with a 6-3, 6-3 decision. Coach Ken Rundquist's crew will take on Addison at Addison, this Friday at 1 p.m.

Giles fanned six and walked only two while recording his impressive victory.

Hollywood, who went all the way, also struck out six and walked five.

This was the second time that Wheeling had downed the Grenadiers. Earlier in the season, the Grove fell by a 3-1 count.

Loop Streak Ends at Eight

Wheeling Raps Palatine, 6-0

by GEORGE SAUERBERG

Palatine got only four hits off Wheeling's Dean Sheridan last night and is at Fremd Normally Post 690 might have won the game somehow, but not this time.

Wheeling Post 1968 went through three Palatine pitchers — the first two in a five-run third inning — as they ended Post 690's league winning streak at eight games, 6-0. The loss cut Palatine's Ninth District lead to one game over Park Ridge and Des Plaines.

The district title is on the line as Palatine visited Park Ridge last night and is at Forest View to play Des Plaines in the season finale tonight.

"I HAVE NO pitching at all," lamented Post 690 coach Bob Grybash. "We have four games in four days, and I have no pitchers."

Grybash didn't have a pitcher Tuesday — no as far as Wheeling was concerned anyway. Right hander Steve Hearn, who pitched a complete game victory in his first time on the mound last week, started for Post 690.

Hearn walked the bases full in the first inning but got out of that jam without giving up a run. Wheeling lashed out three consecutive singles in the second, but a perfect throw from left field by Al Bambrick nailed Greg Andrews at third, and center fielder Don Wickersham's strike to Ernie Puroli had Sheridan at the plate.

IN THE THIRD, however, Hearn was not so lucky. Wheeling sent ten men to the plate in that inning, hammering out five hits good for five big runs. Gary Schweitzer started off the super-rally by drawing a walk from Hearn. Steve Tonneff followed with a single to center, and Grybash brought Pat Doyle in from the bullpen.

Post 1968 had even more fun with the big right hander, who was responsible for three of the runs in the inning. Dan Hull bounced Doyle's first pitch over the fence in center field for a ground-rule double. Schweitzer scored on the play, and from that point on Wheeling stopped looking like a ball club with a 4-3 record.

Larry Anderson, a lefty, was on the mound for Post 690 at the start of the fourth. He finished up the game, allowing only three more hits and striking out four. The only run off Anderson came in the sixth, when he hit Tonneff with a pitch and Hull followed with a double to center.

HUDDLED THEN THE Palatine fans were waiting for the big come-back, but the hitless wonders of Post 690 couldn't pull it off this time. Sheridan made Post 690 hit the ball on the ground most of the time, and when they got it in the air Wheeling outfielders Paul Elisco, Speedy Weisen and George Solomon hauled it in — and not without a few exceptional catches.

"I used my curve ball all the way," beamed Sheridan, who won his first Legion game after two losses. "I had a little trouble late in the game, but that was because I wasn't bending far enough into my pitches."

Hearn's record was evened up at 1-1. He gave up four hits and walked four batters. He just didn't seem to have it, nor did Doyle, or Anderson. And when you don't hit, or your pitching gives out, well in the Wheeling Pony League.

Kole Surprises VFW in Pony

Kole won his first game and a handed VFW its first loss behind a distance performance by Gary Pagano. Gordy Nelson caught a good game throwing out two important runners at third in the late innings. Make O'Neil was tough at third. For VFW John Carlberg hit a pair of homers and Dale Kiffel a solo to keep the game close. Ron Hemricks took the loss as George Kaage hit a homer for the winners.

Dunhurst Drugs, with Tom Skinner picking up his second win, remained in first place with a thumping 16 to 1 win over Wheeling Jaycees. Gary Raupp hit a long homer and Mark Rowland continued his batting spree and is now seven for seven so far this year.

Off to the Moon-- What Do People Think?

by JOAN HANAUER
United Press International

All over the earth its people are watching—and weighing—the American effort to land the first men on the moon.

Admiration for the individual courage of the men involved is universal. United Press International found in a world-wide survey of public opinion but there are some doubters, both in the United States and abroad, who wonder if the billions spent on the moon program might not be put to better use for the improvement of life on earth.

Among the most enthusiastic Americans polled were the oldest and youngest questioned. Retired Rear Adm. Donald B. MacMillan, 94, of Provincetown, Mass., the last survivor of the first expedition to reach the North Pole in 1906, said: "I think it's wonderful, just wonderful. I only wish I could be going along."

The same kind of spirit came from Debbie Ritchie, 15, of Appleton, Wis., who called the moon shot "just about the greatest thing ever" and added:

"We have to expand, we have to explore what we don't know. We're trying to prepare for future generations, and we may need the moon's resources."

Joyce Murphy, 36, of Louisville, Ky., a teacher, looked back on the benefits already achieved through the space program. Mrs. Murphy said:

"Just look at the things that have been made possible by the program—new ways of processing food, miniature tools and health gadgets and a lot of other things, all making life easier for the everyday person."

Others, such as Joe Burns, 36, of Charlotte, N.C., a railroad traffic manager, looked at the Apollo moon program as a "great stepping stone for humanity." He said:

"It wasn't too long ago that people were scoffing at the first airplane flights or the first cars. Now look at modern transportation. Someday, probably not in my lifetime, we may be able to use space flight to find another planet which will support life and possibly use it to alleviate crowded conditions brought on by the population explosion."

American prestige and cold war success are the moon landing's most winning points for some Americans, such as Howard Laughlin, 54, a San Francisco bank official, who said:

"I'm glad to see we're going to beat the Russians to the moon. Just like everything else during the cold war, we've got to establish our prestige and pre-eminence or else we could be conquered."

Whether the project is worth the money occupies the thoughts of many, including Polly Burden, 68, a retired nurse from Philadelphia, Pa., who said: "It's such an awful waste of money. And for what? Nothing, when we need the money here at home. Sometimes I wish the Russians would have gotten there first so they could have put up a sign, 'There's nothing here.'"

Among those who believe the moon money should have been spent otherwise, there are differences as to what should hold higher priority.

A 21-year-old member of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) at George Washington University, Washington, D.C., asked to remain anonymous but said: "If this capitalistic society were interested in furthering the needs of its people—instead of big business and industry—they would be putting the money into the ghetto and poverty programs instead of building super rockets and going to the moon!"

Another view was expressed by Jack Henry, 58, a Pittsburgh stocks and bonds salesman, who said: "I think too great emphasis is being placed on a voyage that may not pay off for decades to come. While the moon landing project is a priority, other problems demand more immediate attention—crime in the streets, rising taxes and the fight of the middle class for survival."

A reason given by some people interviewed against the moon trip was fear of disease. Larry Taylor, 28, a Philadelphia chemical engineer, said for instance, "They're crazy. They're going to come back with some kind of disease nobody ever heard of."

Abroad, interest in the American achievement runs high and the gamut of opinion wide—in both East and West. In the Soviet Union the normally cautious

Russian man-on-the-street echoes comments heard in the rest of the world sometimes tinged with regret that his country did not make it first.

"We have been left behind by the Americans who appear to be stronger than us in this respect," a 35-year-old Moscow construction engineer said. "Possibly if there is any military significance in lunar conquest the Americans have an advantage over us."

A Moscow housewife, 46, said: "The Americans are a brave and adventurous people and they take risks when they feel like it. I wish them success even though I would have liked it more to have one of our cosmonauts get on the moon first."

In Warsaw, scores of Polish people daily have thrown caution to the wind and filed past watchful Polish police to enter the American Embassy to watch film presentations of the space effort. Warsaw's Grand Theater is drawing full houses with a 19th century ballet in which the hero, with the help of the devil, becomes the first Pole on the moon.

"In our situation," a 35-year-old Polish dentist said, "we look on the space race as a competition between the Soviet Union and the United States. I don't think many people will be sorry if the Americans reach the moon first."

Throughout the rest of Europe comment was varied. In West Berlin, East-West politics were underlined by outspoken comments such as that of Heinz Schroeder, 43, a construction worker, who said simply, "I am glad the Americans will beat the Russians to the moon." Enthusiasm in Frankfurt, Germany, was tinged with doubt, as one 25-year-old bank teller said, "It would be better to find a cure for the common cold than fly to the moon."

In the Orient, reaction ranged from sheer disbelief to great admiration to a repetition on the theme that the project was a waste of money.

A 45-year-old pedicab driver in Jakarta, Indonesia, said: "It's impossible that man can go to the moon. It is such a faraway place. Being a devout Moslem, I believe man can go there only if God permits him."

Leung Po, 58, a Hong Kong coolie, laughed when he was asked about the moon landing and said: "It is nonsense. How can you believe that man can land on the moon? The people must be crazy..."

The cold war was in the minds of some on Taipei, Formosa, such as taxi driver Cheng Wen-ming, 31, who said: "Of course, the United States should get to the moon first despite the costs. If they don't, the Russians will and we in the free world would lose face."

There was one thought that was expressed all over the planet earth, in the different ways of its varied people. In Pittsburgh, it was Mrs. Betty Calhoun, a comptometer operator in her late '50s, who said of the astronauts: "I wish them God speed and happy landings—both on the moon and on earth."

"HEEL" IS THE command demonstrated by dog obedience trainer Audrey Butenschoen and her "assistant," Don-da, in the class sponsored by Inverness Women's Club for area children.

Learning Can Be Fun For Inverness Kids

Sewing, tennis, dog obedience — school probably never sounded so good to Inverness and surrounding area kids. But that's the summer "learning" program offered to them by Inverness Women's Club.

The summer classes are a continuation of five years of efforts that have found classes varying in response to the demands of the children attending them.

The program developed from the club's initial sponsorship of a winter ice skating class. Tennis has been a popular activity, and last year's arts and crafts class has been replaced this year by a sewing class. In addition, local Girl Scouts are conducting a reading, and sometimes activity, program for pre-schoolers.

THREE OF THE programs are conducted at the Inverness fieldhouse. The sewing class takes place at the home of the instructor, Mrs. James Read, a former home economics teacher with a degree in home ec from Simpson College in Iowa.

Mrs. Read has two groups of girls, one beginners and the other girls with a little experience. In age, the girls attending range from seventh to 10th graders.

"The object of the classes," explained Mrs. Read, "is to give the girls a feeling for sewing so they will learn to like it and be able to help with their wardrobes later on."

Audrey Butenschoen will be a senior at Fremd High School this fall. She is an accredited dog trainer and judge and teaches the club's dog obedience class at the fieldhouse. There's one adult among the otherwise all-kids class so far. They will be meeting until the first week in August when the students hope to hold graduation exercises.

THE TENNIS CLASS, a prevailing favorite, is taught this summer by Candace Richards, a physical education major at Drake University in Iowa. Candace, who will be a junior this fall, holds second place on the Drake tennis team and has taught tennis at the college level to beginning and intermediate groups. Both boys and girls from fifth grade through high school are learning to return those volleys on the court, and there is also a class for women and private classes one day a week.

The club's library project resulted from efforts of the education committee, headed by Mrs. David Nelson. She explained that the community-supported library opened May 17 in the Inverness fieldhouse as a volunteer endeavor. Area residents do-noted 2,500 books and paperbacks. As a further step in utilizing the new library, Girl Scout Troop 983 suggested that its members conduct a story hour for pre-schoolers.

THE STORY HOUR was set up primarily to acquaint younger children with the library so they would enjoy the experience and return of their own volition later on.

Mrs. Andrew deVournsey, who was leader of the troop until its members advance from a junior troop to cadet scouting, explained that the girls participating in the story hour program received instruction and information on how to conduct such a program during a visit to the Palatine Library.

In addition to reading to the children, the girls often play records, lead games and take the youngsters outdoors. They serve juice and cookies during the session, too.

Earning badge points for their volunteer efforts so far have been Donna Wehner, Jean Orlebeke, Lynn Gunderson and Andrea deVournsey. Currently conducting the program are Jeanne Weggel and Jody Gilman.

This may be a hot summer, but the Inverness Women's Club has done its share to keep it a busy one for area youth.

GIRL SCOUT JEANNE Weggel, 12, reads to a group of youngsters during the summer program conducted by the Women's Club at the library in the Inverness Fieldhouse.

Jeanne shares reading duty with fellow Scouter Jody Gilman with both girls earning badge points for their efforts.

Twirlers Plan Antique Show

THE YOUNG AND OLD are ready for next week's antique show and sale sponsored by Jo-Gay Baton Corps, a group of girls from the northwest suburbs. One of the "old" features of the benefit event is an antique bench owned by Mrs. Michael Yore of Arlington Heights. Twirlers shown are Colleen Faul, Lorna List and Pam Barr, all of Palatine.

The Jo-Gay Baton Corps of the northwest suburbs is trying a different activity this summer in order to raise funds for a trip to national competition in Syracuse, N.Y. The girls are sponsoring their first antique show and sale July 23-24 at the Des Plaines Elks Club, 495 Lee St.

Wednesday hours will be 10:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Thursday from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

DEALERS FROM ALL over the area will display their antiques, among them Nate Subrin of Wheeling who has a collection of coins "for the serious collector"; June Johnson and Bea Cole who operate "Antiques Etcetera," and the Heritage Book Shop in Long Grove.

Constance Yore of Arlington Heights is show manager. She is currently establishing her own "Days of Yore" shop in Arlington.

Jo-Gay Baton Corps is made up of girls from 11 to 20 years of age throughout the northwest suburbs. They compete whenever possible and just last year won first in the state contest and second place in the nationals in Mississippi.

To earn money for their trips around the country, the girls sponsor fund-raising projects such as this antique show.

CORPS MOTHERS will have homemade cake and coffee prepared for visitors to the show, and luncheon and dinner will be available in the Elks Club Dining Room.

Advance tickets to the show, selling at half-price, can be purchased from Mrs. Yore, 355-1963, Mrs. William List, 358-6213, and from members of the Baton Corps.

Graduation and Wedding Make June 7 Her Big Day

The wedding day of Linda Anderson of Mount Prospect started early, with her graduation from Northern Illinois University followed by her marriage at 5 o'clock on June 7 in the First United Methodist Church of Des Plaines. The groom is 2nd Lt. Michael Dey, son of Col. and Mrs. Edward Dey of Milwaukee.

The Robert C. Anderson home at 209 N. Russell, Mount Prospect, was the gathering place for relatives and friends from all over the country. The bride's uncle, the Rev. Roy B. Anderson, who is a Baptist minister in Los Angeles, performed the double ring rites and her brother, Pvt. James Anderson, arrived from Ft. Lewis, Wash., to take part in the ceremony before leaving for duty in Vietnam.

SEVERAL OTHERS in the wedding party came from out-of-town, among them four of the bride's attendants who were classmates at NIU and the best man and two ushers who were classmates of the groom.

Also coming in from the west coast was the bride's aunt, Jean Grant, soloist for the wedding ceremony.

Patricia Cotter was maid of honor, and bridesmaids included Constance Keyes,

Mary Ellen Laatz, Suzanne Dam and the groom's sister, Sharon Dey. Best man was Barry Clause from Fayetteville, N. C., where the groom attended high school. Seating the guests were Pvt. James Anderson; the groom's brother, William Dey; and his classmates at Marquette Univer-

Women in Accounting

Mrs. L. Van Foeken, Arlington Heights, is among the elected directors of the Chicago Suburban Chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants.

The new group will be presented its charter at an All Illinois-Wisconsin Day meeting (Saturday) at the Marriott Motor Hotel, Park Ridge.

sity, William Knight and Richard Kashy. AS SHE WAS GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire gown of imported rayon organza with ribbon lace trim at the sabrina neckline and on the wattleau chapel train. A floor-length mantilla edged with matching ribbon lace complemented the gown, and the bride carried a cascade arrangement of miniature carnations, stephanotis, mums, baby's breath and ivy.

Her attendants were all gowned alike in pink faille floor-length dresses with a matching veil and bow headpiece, and they carried pink carnations with white mums and ivy.

For the wedding and the dinner reception which followed in the Wellwood Room of Plentywood Farm, Bensenville, the bride's mother was attired in an aqua sheath with matching lace coat and the groom's mother in a beige sheath. Both had pink cymbidium orchids at their shoulder.

The newlyweds spent a week's honeymoon in Nassau and the Bahamas before going to Ft. Benning, Ga., where the groom is stationed in the army.

The bride is a graduate of Prospect High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Nelson

At Home in Tulsa

Recent graduates of George Williams College, Downers Grove, were married June 7 and are now living in Tulsa, Okla., where the bridegroom, Patrick Lynn Nelson, will be the director of physical fitness at the downtown YMCA.

The bride is the former Katherine Marie Ray, daughter of the Gordon Keith Rays, 11 N. Wilshire Lane, Arlington Heights. The groom's parents are the L. J. Nelsons of Big Spring, Texas.

The couple exchanged vows and rings before the Rev. Dr. Charles Jarvis at 7:30 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church in Arlington Heights. Later there was a reception in the church fellowship hall.

THE BRIDE HAD her sister, Ann Ray, as maid of honor, and her four bridesmaids were Sandra Ripkey, Des Plaines, along with three George Williams College friends, Linda Hilton, Susan Lindetter and Dale Johnson. All were attired in pale pink and carried white baskets filled with mixed flowers.

The bride's cousin Kimberly Evans, 5, of Libertyville, was flower girl.

Bill McKensie, also a student at George Williams College, was best man, and several of the groom's other college friends ushered. They included Sherwood Edwards, Richard Fisher, Don Shaw and Jim Dumochel. The bride's brother, Daniel Ray, was also among the ushers.

Scotch Golf Outing

The Kappa Kappa Gamma alumni of the Arlington Heights area will entertain their husbands this Saturday with a scotch four-some golf outing at Mount Prospect Country Club.

Golfing begins at 4:45 p.m. followed by dinner at the home of Mrs. Robert Fletcher, 1315 Watling Road, Arlington Heights.

Reservations and further information can be obtained by calling Mrs. Douglas Whitehead, 392-1163, social chairman.

Sip a Soup-on-the-Rocks Appetizer

Fortunate is the chef who cooks in the open, for he shall find a measure of satisfaction — big as all outdoors. And this pleasure will be all the richer if he has a frosty drink of beef broth — Soup-on-the-Rocks — to sip as he turns the meat. The whole family can enjoy this cooling appetizer with him.

Soup-on-the-Rocks is the perfect summertime appetizer, and its devotees claim it is the most exciting idea in hot weather eating since the invention of the ice cube. It contains protein from fine lean beef. The delicious flavor and low calorie content contribute to the rising popularity of this soup drink. Serve it in gay paper cups for easy clean-up.

STACKED TOMATO-POTATO Salad is another innovation in outdoor eating. It is a delicious layering of tomatoes and potato salad that will delight the eye as well as the palate. Marinated shoulder lamb chops are in the budget meat class but are sometimes shunned because they're a bit fatty.

Barbecuing is the answer. It grills away the fat and leaves the flavorful roasted meat. Ever know a man who didn't flip over brownies? Teamed with fruit, they provide a happy ending to this meal.

SOUP ON THE ROCKS

3 cans (10½ ounces each) condensed Campbell's beef broth
Ice cubes
Pour beef broth right from the can over ice cubes or cracked ice, allowing ½ can per serving. Garnish each serving with a slice of lime or lemon if desired. Makes 6 servings.

MARINATED BARBECUED LAMB CHOPS

6 shoulder lamb chops, about ½ inch thick
¼ cup salad oil
¼ cup vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon oregano
Dash pepper
Dash garlic powder
Arrange chops in shallow dish. Combine remaining ingredients in jar with cover, shake well; pour over chops. After 15 minutes, turn chops and marinate another 15 minutes. Cook chops over hot glowing charcoal about 20 minutes or until tender; brushing with left over marinade as chops are turned. Makes 6 servings.

STACKED TOMATO-POTATO SALAD
6 firm, ripe medium tomatoes
½ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne pepper
1 green onion, thinly sliced
3 cups sliced cooked potatoes
Remove stems from tomatoes; cut each tomato into 3 thick slices. Combine mayonnaise with vinegar, seasonings and green onion; mix with fork. Pour over potatoes; toss gently until well mixed. Spoon potato salad onto bottom tomato slice, cover with another slice, more potato salad and a top slice of tomato.

BROWNIES MEN LOVE

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1/3 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
¾ cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped nuts

In medium-sized saucepan slowly melt chocolate and butter or margarine. Add sugar and eggs; beat well. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; stir into chocolate mixture. Stir in nuts. Spread in greased 8 inch square pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 to 35 minutes. Makes 16 2-inch squares.

Slice Roast in Sandwiches

Whether meat's been roasted on the rotisserie or in the oven, a few slices from it make a delightful sandwich offering for supper.

Beef, pork, lamb or veal may be used for this open-face sandwich, topped with a two-cheese mixture that's broiled.

To retain flavor and juices, refrigerate leftover meat as soon as possible. Cooked roasts are best when stored closely covered.

within ½ inch from the edge of the meat. Sprinkle parsley on top. Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees) for 6 to 10 minutes. Makes 4 sandwiches.

Fat Content Is Varied in Beef

Ground beef is served two or more times a week in the average home. That all-time favorite is marketed under several other names: "hamburger," "ground chuck" and "ground round."

All refer to a ground beef product, but there is a difference. Hamburger and ground beef usually contain up to 30 percent fat, although the latter more often has 20 percent to 25 percent.

Ground chuck varies from 15 percent to 25 percent and ground round has approximately 11 percent. You can buy the product with more or less lean and fat to fit your menu needs and family preferences.

SUNDAY SUPPER SANDWICH

4 slices cooked lamb, beef, pork or veal
4 slices bread
Butter or margarine
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese
1 tablespoon crumbled blue cheese
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
Toast bread on one side. Butter untoasted side. Place meat on buttered side of bread slices. Cream together cheese, mustard and onion. Place 2 tablespoons mixture on each sandwich and spread to

Coffees Are Big For Newcomers

July begins a busy season for the Palatine Newcomers Club's sixth year with a series of coffee hours and other social events. First on the agenda, revealed social chairman, Mrs. Betty Moosberg, is a pot party and midnight buffet Saturday, July 26, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Guts, 540 Warwick, and swimming in the Willow Woods pool.

The first coffee will be given Tuesday, July 29 at the home of Mrs. James Holder, 508 S. Bennett. Mrs. Robert Emmens will be co-hostess. A second coffee will be held July 30 at the home of Mrs. Thomas Fortner, 1250 Norman Drive.

Coming up Aug. 12 will be two more coffees and a trip into the city to see the Jim Conway T.V. show.

The home of Mrs. James Sheldon, 609 Rohlfing Road, will be the setting for the annual tea to be held Sunday, Sept. 7. The tea serves as a kick-off for fall and winter activities and also gives newcomers a chance to learn more about the club's activities.

Frankfurters, Sausage Need Only Be Heated

Frankfurters and other smoked sausage links are already cooked. They may be heated but are better if not cooked.

To do this, drop the hot dogs or smoked sausages in boiling water. Cover and let simmer. Simmering temperature is quite a bit below boiling. It's water bubbling around the edges of the pan, just below the surface.

Usually it takes five to ten minutes to heat hot dogs or sausages. Range is given because so much depends upon the size.

Unmold Gelatin

To unmold gelatin, dip the mold in warm (not hot) water to the depth of its contents. Loosen around the edge with the tip of a paring knife. Place a serving dish tightly on top of the mold and turn it upside down.

Shake, holding the serving dish to the mold. If gelatin does not readily slip out, repeat the procedure. The same process applies for unmolding loaf pans.

For family service, you may use a bowl or individual dessert dishes for any recipe that calls for a mold. This eliminates unmolding; for the bowl, just scoop out with a large spoon.

Plan TV Broadcast

HOUSTON — Apollo 11 is on its second day of its history-making trip to the moon after a flawless count down and launch yesterday.

Among the activities planned today for the three Apollo astronauts, Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins, are a second midcourse correction, if necessary and a 15-minute television broadcast about 6:30 p.m.

Fighting Continues

HONDURAS — El Salvador is claiming sweeping advances on all fronts in its war with Honduras. Salvadorean tank-led infantrymen, apparently ignoring a cease-fire order from the Organization of American States were reported advancing as far as 45 miles into Honduras in a drive on the Honduran capital city of Tegucigalpa.

The exact cause of the conflict is not clear, but it is believed to involve land rights between the two countries.

Nixon Calls Holiday

WASHINGTON — Pres. Nixon has asked America to spend next Monday concentrating in a "national day of participation" on the Apollo 11 moon landing mission.

The chief executive ordered government offices closed and urged governors, mayors, school systems and private employers to give the day off to as many people as possible so they can follow the mission.

Military Heads Meet

SAIGON — The three highest ranking U.S. officers concerned with the Vietnam war began secret strategy talks yesterday to help decide whether and how U.S. forces will respond to the lull in Communist attacks.

Arriving aboard separate planes were Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. John S. McCain, commander of all U.S. forces in the Pacific. They joined military commanders in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in a series of meetings and field trips.

Bond Set at $25,000

CHICAGO — Jeff Fort, reputed leader of the Black P Stone Nation and two other high-ranking gang officials, were being held late yesterday under $25,000 bond in connection with Tuesday night's ambush of a south side man.

Fort, 22, Charles E. Bey, 25, and Andrew McChristian, 20, all members of the "Black 21" leadership of the Black P Stones, were arrested by Intelligence Unit members of the Chicago police on charges of ambushing Jackie Turner, 22.

Testify to Ignorance

CHICAGO — Illinois Supreme Court Justices Ray I. Klingbeil and Roy J. Solisburg testified yesterday they were unaware that a former state official whose criminal indictment was before the high court had an interest in a bank which they obtained stock.

The two are accused of impropriety in a petition filed by legal researcher Sherman Skolnick which asked the court to reconsider its 1967 ruling that former State Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs could not be prosecuted for conflict of interest charges.

STUDENT IS TEACHER now as Erin Sheehan, who will be in seventh grade in September, provides art instruction for Rae Ann Mondro, 4, at session of the neighborhood play school on Wedgewood Lane in Schaumburg. Ten pupils attend the school. Neighborhood mothers are pleased with the attention their youngsters are getting at the school.

12-Month School, Yea!

by DON BRANNAN

Some pupils might object to a 12-month school year, but there are four Schaumburg youngsters who actually enjoy it.

The four, who attend Dist. 54 schools during the regular school year, are operating a neighborhood play school on Wedgewood Lane this summer for 10 pupils, most of whom are between 4 and 6-years-old.

School sessions are held from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday on the patio of the Frank Sheehan residence, 1814 Wedgewood. Pupils are charged 25 cents a day.

INSTRUCTORS FOR the play school are Erin Sheehan and Debbie Kathe, both 12-years-old; and Keith Paul and Kevin Sheehan, both 10. Alternating with the boys, the two girls will instruct the 2-and-3-year-olds at one session and the older children at the next session.

A typical "school day" consists of an art project, a field trip, games, songs, and the reading of stories. All of the activities are planned by the young teachers.

Meanwhile, the mothers in the neighborhood are very happy that their children can be supervised for a few hours and allow them some free time.

"THE BOYS are very good at teaching the children games and songs," said one mother, "while the girls are best at the arts and crafts." Both Debbie and Erin said they would like to be teachers someday. They plan to continue the play school throughout the summer.

Student field trips have included trips to the play park at the corner of Warwick and Webster lanes, a trip to see Black Angus cows on Walnut Lane, and walks to the Campanelli School playground.

Recent art projects were making a hand puppet from a paper sack, and making a caterpillar from an egg carton.

"Conducting the school has made the older youngsters more creative," said Mrs. Keith Paul.

Group to Continue

"We are still in business. We are not going to disband," declared Mrs. Gordon Mullins, co-chairman of the Schaumburg School Study Committee at Monday's committee meeting. Mrs. Jean Guthrie is the other chairman.

The independent citizens committee was formed by the two women to investigate the feasibility of disbanding Schaumburg schools from Dist. 54 elementary district. The committee was established in February, and since that time "much of the progress to date has been in the area of research," Mrs. Mullins said.

The committee hopes to reach a decision to disband or not to disband by the end of this year, Mrs. Mullins said.

IF THEIR COMMITTEE decides to disband, which is apparently their intent, Mrs. Mullins said she hoped that an "amicable divorce" from Dist. 54 could be arranged.

A subcommittee on procedural aspects of disbanding is to be named in the near future, according to the two co-chairmen. Next meeting of the full committee will be Sept. 15. Mrs. Guthrie's husband, James, an attorney, will furnish legal advice in deciding a future course of action, it was indicated.

Clinging the voting trend in last October's bond referendum in Dist. 54, the two women expressed concern that Hoffman Estates residents would not support school referenda once school needs in Hoffman Estates were fulfilled.

Thirty-two teens have been placed in summer jobs to date through the employment service of the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth, it was reported at Tuesday's COY meeting.

Barry Schoenbrod, COY youth worker, said 84 youths registered with the committee this summer for jobs. The summer employment program is designed to provide earning opportunities for youths between 13 and 16.

Jobs provided for the teens have included lawn care, general maintenance, assistance to mothers, babysitting, tutoring of children, and store clerical. Burger King in Hoffman Estates has hired a number of teens, according to Schoenbrod.

SCHAUMBURG Township homeowners who desire to hire a teen for lawn work should contact the COY office, 2 N. Golf Road Plaza, 894-5242, between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. daily.

The summer employment service operated by the township youth committee is responsible for introducing many teens to a job application form for the first time, according to Schoenbrod.

William Ohlson, youth committee chairman, emphasized that employers hiring teens should remember they are dealing with adolescents and not adults.

"You have to realize what kids are," Ohlson said, "and just what kind of person you are working with. I have 17 youths working for me at the Schaumburg Community Pool, and there is a wide range in their ability to accept responsibility. It is wrong to expect a teen to perform as well as an adult, because he is not yet an adult."

"WE COULD USE more jobs for both boys and girls," added Schoenbrod.

Schoenbrod also reported that the township youth committee will explore the possibility of establishing a teen coffee house in the basement of Jennings House. There is presently no place where Weathersfield teens can go for relaxation and conversation, according to the COY youth worker.

The proposed teen center would be a place where teens could go to talk and drink coffee, Schoenbrod said. It would not be a teen nightclub. He indicated that the teen establishment would have adult supervision.

The township youth committee did not take any action on a request from a group of Schaumburg teens to sponsor a dance at the Great Hall. More information is desired before any decision regarding sponsorship is made.

Book Circulation

Schaumburg Township Library is expected to circulate a record-breaking 22,000 volumes this month, according to librarian Michael Madden.

Last month the library established the current record with a circulation totaling 18,500 books. But circulation has been at a greater pace during July, Madden said.

"One day last week we had a circulation of 1,700 books alone," he said.

Madden will present a report for the first quarter of the fiscal year at the meeting of the township board of auditors on July 23.

THE SCHAUMBURG Township Library Board interviewed six architect firms Tuesday and Wednesday evenings this week. The six firms reported on projects designed by their firms.

Long-range plans for a 7,800-square-foot addition to the library are being arranged by the library board and the township librarian. The addition is expected to cost about $200,000. And the selection of a suitable architect is one phase of the planning for the project.

The library board will hold its next meeting Aug. 6, and candidates for a board vacancy will be interviewed.

Residents Complain of Noisy Pool Parties

by SHERI DILL

Temper flared Monday night at the Hoffman Estates Village Board meeting in a discussion between Tropicana Pool Pres. Larry Koontz and irate residents of the area who were present to complain of noisy pool parties and parking problems.

Koontz and two other officials of the pool appeared after residents of Arcadia Court presented a petition, last week requesting no parking provisions on Audubon Street where the pool is located, and complained of noise.

About 10 residents were also present to voice their opinions.

Koontz said the pool is a non profit club. Ten parties at the pool are open to the public and more than 200 teens usually attend. Bands at teen parties stop playing at 9:30 and adult parties usually end at 11 p.m., he said.

"THIS IS THE FIRST time in six years we have been asked to appear at a village board meeting," he said. "We try to do anything the residents want us to do in an effort to be good neighbors. We would like for these people to join our club."

Koontz said the pool would be more than happy to zone the area for no parking. "Parking is a problem for us, too. If temporary signs would be best, we would be glad to take care of providing the signs and putting them out," he said.

Koontz said the pool had more than adequate parking facilities but customers of the pool often didn't use them.

The petition signed by residents called for no parking on the east side of Audubon Street from Arbor Court to Arcadia Court. Mrs. Albert L. Jensen, 110 Arcadia Court, who presented the petition last week, said the residents' proposal involved no parking in front of two houses.

KOONTZ SUGGESTED the no parking area should extend from Higgins Road to Thacker Street and should involve the four corners near the pool. One resident charged Koontz with "being ridiculous."

After discussion, the village board authorized an ordinance for no parking on the east side of Audubon Street from Higgins Road to Arcadia Court, and suggested the village engineer conduct a traffic study of Audubon to Thacker.

In a discussion of noise at pool parties, the residents said adult, rather than teen, parties were the problem. "The teenagers leave quietly. Why can't the adults act like adults?" asked one resident.

Village Atty. E. C. Hofert repeated his statement of last week's board meeting that the village has adequate noise ordinances, and it is up to the residents to sign complaints and appear in court against specific offenders.

HIS COMMENT brought the question of who the residents were supposed to prosecute. "Do we go after the band, the pool president, everyone at the party in a group? Who?" asked Mrs. Jensen.

Hofert said specific individuals making the largest amount of noise were the only ones that could be prosecuted.

Tropicana area residents obviously were unhappy that nothing more could be done when Village Pres. Frederick Downey closed the discussion.

In other business involving the Audubon Street area residents, the village board approved the expenditure of not more than $75 to repair landscaping on the island of Arcadia Court.

AFTER RECEIVING a petition calling for landscape improvements and sidewalk and street repairs from residents last week, the board requested Kenneth Dean, village superintendent of streets, to study the area and make a recommendation to the board.

Dean said the island is in need of new landscaping work which would cost between $50 and $75. Sidewalks and the intersection of Audubon Street and Higgins Road are in need of repair but will be covered in regular maintenance work this summer.

He said residents had agreed to maintain landscaping on the island once the village did the work.

Stones need to be removed, the area filled with black dirt and seeded, and have several shrubs replaced or transplanted, Dean said.

Rocket Sales, Too, Go Up

A button is pressed. The motor ignites and with a "whoosh" the rocket soars upward.

An Apollo shot at Cape Kennedy? No, it's a local amateur rocket enthusiast launching a model rocket.

Tony Crabtree of Tony's Hobby Lobby shop in Wheeling reported that sales of model rockets have gone up in recent years, due to the American and Russian space programs.

"People have been hearing about these missions and have become more interested in space travel and exploration," Crabtree explained. He added that older people as well as youngsters are taking up the hobby.

Crabtree has been building model rockets himself for the past three or four years and has assisted many would-be "rocketeers" in assembling their own models.

LAST JULY 4 THE SHOPS sponsored a rocket launching program for local model rocket buffs at the Wheeling High School football field. The shop, which sponsors the event each year, provided rocket engines, launching pads and ignition systems to those who brought their own rocket.

Crabtree said most model rockets are between six and 42 inches long, can reach speeds of up to 800 miles per hour and heights of 3,000 feet.

He explained that a variety of model rocket kits are now on the market.

"Most models are made of heavy paper and balsa wood and are powered by a motor containing a solid propellant similar to gunpowder but with a controlled burning rate," he said.

"These rockets aren't dangerous in themselves," Crabtree continued. "A lot of people connect rockets with fireworks, but there is no similarity. Rockets can be misused, but they don't explode or misfire. I don't know of anyone in this area who has ever been injured by a model rocket."

CRABTREE SAID A COMMON rocket, such as the 18-inch ones he enjoys building, takes about two hours to assemble and another two hours to sand and paint.

"The smoother the finish is on the rocket, the less friction it will have with the air and the faster it will fly," he said.

The rocket is launched from a wooden tri-pod launching pad, Crabtree explained. He said that a rocket is ignited when an electrical charge from a battery is sent through a nichrome wire to the rocket engine. The electrical charge makes the metal wire hot, which in turn ignites the solid propellant.

Cotton wadding protects the rest of the rocket from the heat of the engine and a plastic parachute is pushed open by a piston later in the flight to slow down the rocket and enable it to float unharmed to the ground. It can then be shot off again when another engine is inserted in the rocket.

CRABTREE EXPLAINED that a simple model of this type would cost only a few dollars. More elaborate rockets could run as high as $18 and extremely simple ones can be made from a badminton shuttlecock for only 50 cents.

Crabtree said some rockets are now on the market which have two or three engines which fire in stages. Others come with gliders attached to the rocket.

MODEL ROCKET enthusiast Tony Crabtree displays a model that is popular with amateur rocket builders in the area. Sales of the paper and balsa rockets have gone up in recent years, due to increasing interest in the space program.

To Change Accounting Method

A recommendation by Hoffman Estates Pres. Frederick Downey to adopt a policy directing the treasurer not to submit bills for payment unless the village has funds to pay them led to an involved discussion of village accounting procedures at Monday night's board meeting.

Downey said he recently had signed checks for bills which were several months old because revenues had just come in enabling the village to pay. One bill was for a newspaper advertisement wishing residents a merry Christmas in December.

"Obviously the village is not in very good financial shape if we can't pay for a December bill until the following June," he said. SEVERAL TRUSTEES suggested that the village accounting procedures need to be updated so trustees would know what funds were available before approving expenditures.

Most were opposed to Downey's suggestion, however, because bills were likely to get lost or trustees would forget what the payments were for by the time they came before the board.

At a hint by Trustee Virginia Hayter that the present board would not have the problem had it been handled properly in the past, Trustee James Sloan said, "I resent the statement that it hasn't been handled before because it has. Seven people have sat here every year and figured it out."

AFTER A HALF HOUR of discussion and several mentions by Downey of bills that had not been paid, the trustees decided to contact the auditor for recommendations on more sophisticated accounting procedures.

"We've waited this long. I suppose it won't matter if we wait a little longer to get our bills paid," Downey said.

Three area girls have attended freshman orientation sessions at Iowa State University, Ames, Ia.

They are Marion Gamenthaler, Gayle Haight and Mary Milner, all of Arlington Heights.

Sewer Permit Reaction Mixed

Area township officials are showing mixed attitudes on the Metropolitan Sanitary District's (MSD) proposal to restrict the issuance of sanitary sewer permits.

Under the new ordinance adopted by the MSD board of trustees, sanitary sewer permits would be issued only to municipalities, governmental agencies such as townships, utility companies, or private individuals whose property lies next to an MSD sewer. The plan goes into effect Jan. 1, 1970.

Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said, "I feel it is a genuine service we can provide. I'm hopeful we can get started by Jan. 1."

ELK GROVE TOWNSHIP Supervisor William Rohlfing said of the plan, "Once they (the MSD) go through with it, the townships can take care of it (permit issuance) better than the MSD." He added, "It might work."

Russell Bramwell, an auditor in Palatine Township, said the board of auditors had not yet discussed it. "I would be for it 100 per cent, though," he said. Bramwell said that more than half the land within the township is unincorporated.

And in Schaumburg Township, Vernon Laubenstein, supervisor, said, "The auditors had discussed the MSD proposal at their meeting last month. We consulted with our attorneys and it appeared to us that we have only a limited amount of unincorporated territory."

Laubenstein said that Schaumburg presently planned no participation in the new plan. However, he added that the matter would probably be brought up at another township meeting.

"WE WOULD BE IN the position of hiring engineering talent and getting into the sewer business when there is no immediate need for this," said Laubenstein. He explained that in Schaumburg Township the pattern has been for villages to annex any developed land.

Frederick Juliano, MSD engineer for local sewer systems, said the plan was initiated because the MSD often has problems "hunking down builders and developers of subdivisions" when problems with sanitary sewers arise. "The builders don't seem to understand that once they have a sanitary sewer permit they are forevermore responsible for that sewer unless there is a formal change of responsibility filed in writing with the MSD."

JULIANO SAID THAT in some cases, irate homeowners blame the MSD for sewer breakdowns. He emphasized the MSD only operates large interceptor sewers and treatment plants.

In proposing the new ordinance, the MSD said statutes were in effect that would allow townships to operate their own sanitary sewer systems.

Presently two townships in Cook County, Northfield and Leyden, are already doing this.

Wednesday night the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors attended a sewer board meeting at the Northfield Township seeking information on township-operated sewer systems.

Mark Clayton, Northfield Township supervisor, said that under their system when a developer asks for a sewer permit from the township, he is first required to submit plans and specification of the new system.

"WE RETAIN AN ENGINEERING firm which reviews the plans and okay's them," said Clayton. The engineer also is required to inspect the system during its construction.

Clayton said that Northfield actually has two systems: One that was built to replace septic tanks, and a second that was built by a developer and turned over to the township for maintenance. "The developer's system has turned out to be our biggest headache," Clayton said.

The subdivider's system turned out to be inadequate, and the township spent several years trying to get approval to sell bonds.

Clayton said that at first the township had difficulty collecting usage fees. "So we started suing people after they got three fiscal quarters behind in their payments," he said. "Collections are no longer a problem," said Clayton, "because simply put a lien on their houses."

CLAYTON EMPHASIZED that general township funds cannot be used to pay for the sewer system. When the Northfield Township auditors meet to discuss sewer system problems, they meet as a sewer board.

"Inspection of the sewers is the most important aspect of our program," said Clayton.

Mrs. Kolerus said Wheeling Township's next move would be to have Richard Cowen, the township attorney, draw up a list of necessary steps the township must take.

Mrs. Kolerus said she plans to approach Elk Grove, Palatine and Northfield Townships on the possibility of "pooling the engineers and inspection employees."

Rohlfing, of Elk Grove, agreed with Mrs. Kolerus: "I think it would be a good idea because there wouldn't be enough work for an engineer in one township."

Income from Pool Tops Last Year's

Income from the Hoffman Estates swimming pool this summer already has exceeded income for all the last year.

Finance Chairman William Cowin told the village board Monday night that proceeds from the pool totaled $16,713 for the summer. The figure represents about a $1,500 increase over last year's income, he said.

New deck areas opened within the past week should help increase income even more, Cowin said, because people no longer will have to be turned away because the pool is too full.

Given Old Magazine

Schaumburg Township Library is donating bound copies of a children's magazine published 70 years ago to the U.S. Library of Congress.

The magazine, "The Myrtle," was published in the United States in the 1890's. Magazine issues for the years 1896-1898 will be given to the national library, after having been given to the township library earlier as a gift.

"These are the only copies of this magazine available for this period, as far as we know," said Librarian Michael Madden.

Electrocuted In Arlington

A Colorado man, working on a high tension utility pole at Rand and Kennicott in Arlington Heights, was electrocuted Wednesday when 2,160 volts of electricity passed through his body.

Larry D. Drake, 37, 710 7th Street, Glenwood Springs, Colo. was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital at 2:15 p.m.

Arlington Heights police said Drake, who was working for the Aldridge Electric Co., of Lake Forest, was splicing wires together atop the pole when the accident occurred.

THEY SAID HIS elbow and leg apparently touched the pole causing the current to surge through his body.

Police and fire department rescue squads failed to revive him by mouth to mouth resuscitation or external cardiac massage.

Youth Job Talks Slated Tuesday

Second in a series of job orientation talks arranged by the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth is scheduled Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Jennings House.

A carpenter will be featured at this program, which is intended to develop and foster constructive interests among junior high and senior high youths. Earlier this year, an airline pilot addressed local teens and discussed his job.

THE CARPENTER invited for Tuesday's program will talk about his trade and the educational requirements for this particular vocation, according to COY youth worker Barry Schoenbrod.

Additional job orientation sessions are planned for the future by the youth committee.

Bond Set at $25,000

CHICAGO — Jeff Fort, reputed leader of the Black P Stone Nation and two other high-ranking gang officials, were being held late yesterday under $25,000 bond in connection with Tuesday night's ambush of a south side man.

Fort, 22, Charles E. Bey, 25, and Andrew McChristian, 20, all members of the "Main 21" leadership of the Black P Stones, were arrested by Intelligence Unit members of the Chicago police on charges of ambushing Jackie Turner, 22.

Testify to Ignorance

CHICAGO — Illinois Supreme Court Justices Ray I. Klingbiel and Roy J. Solisburg testified yesterday they were unaware that a former state official whose criminal indictment was before the high court had an interest in a bank which they obtained stock.

The two are accused of impropriety in a petition filed by legal researcher Sherman Skolnick which asked the court to reconsider its 1967 ruling that former State Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs could not be prosecuted on conflict of interest charges.

MODEL ROCKET enthusiast Tony Crabtree displays a model that is popular with amateur rocket builders in the area. Sales of the paper and balsa rockets have gone up in recent years, due to increasing interest in the space program.

Rocket Sales, Too, Go Up

A button is pressed. The motor ignites and with a "whoosh" the rocket soars upward.

An Apollo shot at Cape Kennedy? No, it's a local amateur rocket enthusiast launching a model rocket.

Tony Crabtree of Tony's Hobby Lobby shop in Wheeling reported that sales of model rockets have gone up in recent years, due to the American and Russian space programs.

"People have been hearing about these missions and have become more interested in space travel and exploration," Crabtree explained. He added that older people as well as youngsters are taking up the hobby.

Crabtree has been building model rockets himself for the past three or four years and has assisted many would-be "rocketeers" in assembling their own models.

LAST JULY 4 THE SHOPS sponsored a rocket launching program for local model rocket buffs at the Wheeling High School football field. The shop, which sponsors the event each year, provided rocket engines, launching pads and ignition systems to those who brought their own rockets.

Crabtree said most model rockets are between six and 42 inches long, can reach speeds of up to 80 miles per hour and heights of 3,000 feet.

He explained that a variety of model rocket kits are now on the market.

Dist. 26 Hires 2 Principals

The school board of Dist. 26 hired two men Tuesday night to be principals in district schools.

Three schools in the area need principals but the board is not assigning the men to certain schools until three men are hired.

Those schools with vacancies are Bond, Indian Grove and Eugene Field.

Hired Tuesday night were David Dossett and Matthew Meisterheim.

Dossett has been a mathematics teacher at Lake Forest Academy and School Dist. 95 in Brookfield. He received his bachelor's degree in mathematics at Wabash College in Crawfordsville, Ind. and his master's degree in mathematics at Northwestern University. He is completing his doctoral course work at Northwestern.

THIS PAST YEAR, Dossett served as an administrative intern in a program supervised by the National Association for Secondary Education Principals.

Meisterheim has had six years teaching experience in Des Plaines and served as principal of a Lombard junior high school for three years.

Meisterheim completed his course work toward his doctoral degree this past year at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb. He has done work at DePaul University and at San Francisco State.

Both men are new to Dist. 26. The requirements to become a principal in the district include four years of teaching, a master's degree, and some course work in teaching administration for all-grade supervisory.

"Most models are made of heavy paper and balsa wood and are powered by a motor containing a solid propellant similar to gunpowder but with a controlled burning rate," he said.

"These rockets aren't dangerous in themselves," Crabtree continued. "A lot of people connect rockets with fireworks, but there is no similarity. Rockets can be misused, but they don't explode or misfire. I don't know of anyone in this area who has ever been injured by a model rocket."

CRABTREE SAID A COMMON rocket, such as the 18-inch ones he enjoys building, takes about two hours to assemble and another two hours to sand and paint.

"The smoother the finish is on the rocket, the less friction it will have with the air and the faster it will fly," he said.

The rocket is launched from a wooden tripod launching pad, Crabtree explained. He said that a rocket is ignited when an electrical charge from a battery is sent through a nichrome wire to the rocket engine. The electrical charge makes the metal wire hot, which in turn ignites the solid propellant.

Cotton wadding protects the rest of the rocket from the heat of the engine and a plastic parachute is pushed open by a piston later in the flight to slow down the rocket and enable it to float unharmed to the ground. It can then be shot off again when another engine is inserted in the rocket.

CRABTREE EXPLAINED that a simple model of this type would cost only a few dollars. More elaborate rockets could run as high as $16 and extremely simple ones can be made from a badminton shuttlecock for only 50 cents.

Crabtree said some rockets are now on the market which have two or three engines which fire in stages. Others come with gliders attached to the rocket.

Valuation Leap Predicted

Assessed valuation in Buffalo Grove will jump by 60 per cent in the next year, Trustee Robert Gleason, chairman of the village board's finance committee, has predicted.

He also predicted the income for the fiscal year would total $251,200. Gleason said the revenue for the last fiscal year totaled $272,553. More than 60 per cent of that figure, or $170,850, was of the nonrecurring type, however. Gleason expects the anticipated income for this year to be almost evenly split between the recurring and the nonrecurring type.

LAST YEAR the village spent $314,000, he said. However, of that amount, approximately $37,000 was a loan to the water and sewer fund. According to Gleason, with the exception of the loan, the village spent $287,000, leaving the village with a surplus for the year of approximately $5,000 to $6,000.

Gleason emphasized that though the village spent more money than was called for in its budget, it did not spend more than was outlined in its appropriations ordinance.

BY LAW a village cannot spend more than is allocated in the appropriations ordinance.

Gleason also announced that progress on the appropriations ordinance for this year had been delayed. At the July 7 meeting he had said it would be ready Monday for consideration. The ordinance must be submitted to the state by July 31.

Unexpectedly, no discussion on the budget occurred at the meeting Monday. Because of the argument among the trustees at the July 7 meeting, additional discussion on Buffalo Grove's budget was expected.

Gleason contends that a budget is useless unless the village sets up a system to monitor how closely village departments are following the budget. He charged three newly elected trustees with procrastination in choosing the type of system to be used.

Rezoning Is Near

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert Tuesday night reassured local builder Salvatore DiMucci that the village trustees would render a final decision on a rezoning petition for a five-acre tract at Golf and Busse roads at the next village board meeting Aug. 5.

DiMucci appeared before the board to request an immediate decision on his petition. "My property has been tied up too long already in negotiation. I would greatly appreciate an answer one way or the other so I could continue with my plans for the land," DiMucci said.

If the village board approves the rezoning request, DiMucci will sell an adjacent 18-acre tract to the park district for the proposed West Park and lake-retention basin.

IF THE PETITION IS denied, DiMucci

is expected to develop the entire 23-acre site for single-family residences.

Teichert explained that a decision by the village board is pending a special judiciary committee hearing slated for July 30.

"The judiciary committee will consider commission recommendations and study reports on the petition. The village board will make the final decision on the case pending the committee's recommendation for the proposed land use," Teichert said.

The plan commission, having studied the DiMucci request, recommended in its monthly report to the village board that petition be denied on the grounds that the builder failed to submit a tentative plan of development on the site.

DiMucci is requesting a rezoning classification from single-family to multiple-family residences.

Reaction Is Mixed On Sewer Permits

Area township officials are showing mixed attitudes on the Metropolitan Sanitary District's (MSD) proposal to restrict the issuance of sanitary sewer permits.

Under the new ordinance adopted by the MSD board of trustees, sanitary sewer permits would be issued only to municipalities, governmental agencies such as townships, utility companies, or private individuals whose property lies next to an MSD sewer. The plan goes into effect Jan. 1, 1970.

Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said, "I feel it is a genuine service we can provide. I'm hopeful we can get started by Jan. 1."

ELK GROVE TOWNSHIP Supervisor William Rohling said of the plan, "Once they (the MSD) go through with it, the townships can take care of it (permit issuance) better than the MSD." He added, "It might work."

Russell Bramwell, an auditor in Palatine Township, said the board of auditors had not yet discussed it. "I would be for it 100 per cent, though," he said. Bramwell said that more than half the land within the township is unincorporated.

And in Schaumburg Township, Vernon Laubenstein, supervisor, said, "The auditors had discussed the MSD proposal at their meeting last month. We consulted with our attorneys and it appeared to us that we have only a limited amount of unincorporated territory."

Laubenstein said that Schaumburg presently planned no participation in the new plan. However, he added that the matter would probably be brought up at another township meeting.

"WE WOULD BE IN the position of hiring engineering talent and getting into the sewer business when there is no immediate need for this," said Laubenstein. He explained that in Schaumburg Township the pattern has been for villages to annex any developed land.

Frederick Juliano, MSD engineer for local sewer systems, said the plan was initiated because the MSD often has problems "hunting down builders and developers of subdivisions" when problems with sanitary sewers arise. "The builders don't seem to understand that once they have a sanitary sewer permit they are forevermore responsible for that sewer unless there is a formal change of responsibility filed in writing with the MSD."

JULIANO SAID THAT in some cases, irate homeowners blame the MSD for sewer breakdowns. He emphasized the MSD only operates large interceptor sewers and treatment plants.

In proposing the new ordinance, the MSD said statutes were in effect that would allow townships to operate their own sanitary sewer systems.

Presently two townships in Cook County, Northfield and Leyden, are already doing this.

Wednesday night the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors attended a sewer board meeting at the Northfield Township seeking information on township-operated sewer systems.

Mark Clayton, Northfield Township supervisor, said that under their system when a developer asks for a sewer permit from the township, he is first required to submit plans and specification of the new system.

"WE RETAIN AN ENGINEERING firm which reviews the plans and okays them," said Clayton. The engineer also is required to inspect the system during its construction.

Clayton said that Northfield actually has two systems: One that was built to replace septic tanks, and a second that was built by a developer and turned over to the township for maintenance. "The developer's system has turned out to be our biggest headache," Clayton said.

The subdividers' system turned out to be inadequate, and the township spent several years trying to get approval to sell bonds.

Clayton said that at first the township had difficulty collecting usage fees. "So we started suing people after they got three fiscal quarters behind in their payments," he said. "Collections are no longer a problem," said Clayton, "because we simply put a lien on their houses."

CLAYTON EMPHASIZED that general township funds cannot be used to pay for the sewer system. When the Northfield Township auditors meet to discuss sewer system problems, they meet as a sewer board.

"Inspection of the sewers is the most important aspect of our program," said Clayton.

Mrs. Kolerus said Wheeling Township's next move would be to have Richard Cowen, the township attorney, draw up a list of necessary steps the township must take.

Mrs. Kolerus said she plans to approach Elk Grove, Palatine and Northfield Townships on the possibility of "pooling the engineers and inspection employees."

To Name Manager

Wheeling's trustees have narrowed the number of applicants for village manager and will begin interviews this week.

Trustee Ira Bird told the Herald yesterday that one candidate for the post will be interviewed this week. The trustees hope to interview several more next week.

Bird, who is chairman of the board's judiciary and purchasing committee, said at a Monday meeting that the manager "is coming soon."

HE SAID THE board had narrowed the number of applicants from 15 to 20 to six or eight. He said that of the remaining applicants, three are from nearby areas in Illinois. Another lives farther away in the state. The remainder of the applicants are from out of state.

Candidates living within the state will be interviewed first, he said. He told the Herald that several of the applicants "look good on paper" and that they "seem anxious" about being interviewed.

Wheeling has been without a manager since May when former Village Mgr. C. E. Olsen left for a post in Apple Valley, Minn. Olsen resigned at the board's request.

Women's Club Donates $100 to School Dist.

The Glenview Women's Club has given $100 to School Dist. 21 which will be used to give emergency medical and dental aid to children of migrant workers attending Dist. 21 schools.

Mrs. George Fromm, club president, philanthropy chairman Mrs. C. Woodruff and past philanthropy chairman Mrs. Carol Murawchick presented the money Wednesday to Mrs. Catherine Samsel, principal of Holmes Junior High School.

The women's club gave a similar donation to the school district last year, which was used to pay the medical expenses for several children with broken arms and to purchase glasses for several others.

Teen Is Injured In Auto Accident

Linda Rezimer, 17, of Northbrook was treated for minor injuries at Holy Family Hospital Tuesday following an auto accident at 700 W. Dundee Road in Wheeling.

The accident at 5:49 p.m. resulted in about $200 damages to a car driven by Andrew F. Eckmaver, 18, of Burlington, Wis. Miss Rezimer was a passenger in his car.

Eckmaver was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and will appear in Arlington Heights District Court on Aug. 5.

The driver of the other car, Timothy John Howard, 26, of 2 Meadow Lane, Wheeling, was not charged in connection with the accident. Police had no estimate of damages to his car.

Man Presents Check To Area CYO Director

A check for $84,196 was presented to the executive director of the Catholic Youth Organization recently by a Prospect Heights man who directed the youth fund drive with the Knights of Columbus.

V. Andrew Balducci, 36 Glenbrook, presented the check to Magr. Edward J. Kelly at the Knights of Columbus victory ball in the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

The money will be used for summer recreation at parish and park centers.

BATON TWIRLING ISN'T supposed to be painful, but the expressions on the faces of Punkie Rocheleau, left, 3, and Sheila Kozak, 4, indicate that it isn't all that easy or fun. The young ladies are participating in a Rolling Meadows Park District program.

Real Estate Transfers

The Kroger Co., Inc. purchased the property at 1910 Lillian Lane, Arlington Heights, from Donald E. Phillips for $47,000.

The purchase was announced in the latest monthly Wheeling Township real estate transfer report from County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen.

There were 63 sales in Arlington Heights, 17 in Mount Prospect, 11 in Prospect Heights, nine in Buffalo Grove and in Des Plaines, and nine in Wheeling and the rest of the township.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1.00 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

The transfers are:

Water Profits Total $22,000 in Last Year

Buffalo Grove Trustee Robert Gleeson, chairman of the financial committee, said Monday night, "After looking at our receipts the water business is a good one to be in."

He reported the village had made $22,000 last year. Presently there are 716 users hooked in to the village's utility.

Gleeson's figures were presented in an operating report for the utility.

Also at the meeting, Gleeson brought up the problem of homeowners failing to contact the utility to have the water shut off when they move out of the house.

Because of this the water is not turned off and, as a result, sometimes the home's new owner faces a large water bill when he moves in.

Bible School Opens At Baptist Church

Vacation Bible school will be held daily at the Village Baptist Church in Buffalo Grove next Monday through Friday.

Bill and Doris Smallman, missionary candidates for Brazil, will help with the program throughout the week.

All children six years old through mid-teens are eligible to enroll. Activities will include songs, stories, games, handicraft and projects from 9 to 11 a.m. each day.

'Disregard Ad On Lighting'

Village Pres. Donald Thompson advised Buffalo Grove residents "to disregard" a classified newspaper ad that had been published warning Buffalo Grove residents that streetlighting was about to be installed.

The ad stated the electrical contractor would not be responsible in connection with the street light installation.

Thompson said the installation was to take place in the Strathmore subdivision area of the village.

"ESCROW FUNDS" are available to pay for any damage," said Thompson. He said he had checked with the electrical contractor.

He added that the trench to be dug for the installation was only about six inches to a foot wide and a few feet deep.

Thompson pointed out that any owner having a fence on the easement for the lights would be responsible for it, however.

New Wheeling Library Officers are Listed

New officers of the Wheeling Public Library District took office July 1.

Charlotte M. Dolgopel is the district's new president. Other officers include Wallace C. Olson, secretary and Larry D. Sampson, treasurer.

Three appointed trustees also will serve on the board this year. They are Fred Schneller, Charles J. DuBois Jr., and Frederick O. Schubert.

Mrs. W. Lischett is the librarian. The board of trustees meets the first Tuesday of each month at 8:30 p.m. in the library.

Zoners Will Discuss 'Old Buildings' Law

Wheeling's Zoning Board of Appeals has called a public hearing to discuss amending an ordinance which sets deadlines for the removal of old buildings and residential areas.

The amendment would also set deadlines for the elimination of old buildings from commercial and industrial areas in the village.

Another provision of the amendment would authorize or eliminate structures failing to conform to the existing zoning map of the village.

The hearing is set for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 5 in the village hall.

Vandalism Reported

Palatine police are investigating complaints of property damage from 15 to 20 residents on Stuart Lane, and Dorset and Bennett Avenues. Reports of a blue aerosol paint and Christmas snow sprayed on cars, garage doors and fronts of homes were reported to police yesterday morning.

One resident said he saw three teenage boys on the street about 2 a.m. but did not realize then that any damage had occurred. Police said the vandalism was probably done between midnight Tuesday and 3 a.m. Wednesday.

Former Smokers Give Reply

by JOAN KLUSMAN

"I thought my head would blow off," This statement, together with dizziness, nausea and nervousness were listed as withdrawal symptoms by those who successfully conquered cigarettes after attending a Northwest Community Hospital clinic.

United by a single desire, about 150 residents attended the four-week "Stop Smoking Clinic" sponsored by the hospital early this year. Questionnaires sent to the first two groups in May brought responses from one-third of those attending. One-third of those responding won their battle.

Unanimous in their praise of the clinic's purpose and format, most individuals who are still clutching cigarettes admit to poor will power. Others listed weight gain, stress, boredom and a strong craving for a cigarette following meals as reasons they have not been able to cease smoking.

ONE WOMAN, who stopped and resumed, said her husband still smoked and his cigarettes and ashtrays proved too tempting. The couple factor may be important — one man and wife stopped on the same day, some weeks after the session ended.

Another hopeful who tried in vain to stop said that whenever she thought of the graphic pictures shown at clinic sessions she crushed out the cigarette she was currently smoking.

The clinics, held once a week, featured talks by hospital physicians, a psychiatrist, X-ray demonstrations and films. Those attending were not asked to stop smoking at a particular time, but were presented with the correlation of lung cancer and other diseases to smoking.

IN THE PERSONAL opinion section of the questionnaire, one resident asked for a special session for dropouts and another asked for longer and additional programs.

One man even sent the Cancer Society a gift. He had found a special dial which could be used to control the amount of smoke inhaled. The percentage not wanted escaped into the air.

Receives Shock, Dies

A Colorado man, working on a high tension utility pole at Rand and Kennicott in Arlington Heights, was electrocuted Wednesday when 2,160 volts of electricity passed through his body.

Larry D. Drake, 37, 710 7th Street, Glenwood Springs, Colo. was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital at 2:15 p.m.

Arlington Heights police said Drake, who was working for the Aldridge Electric Co., of Lake Forest, was splicing wires together atop the pole when the accident occurred.

Church Schedules Ice Cream Social

An ice cream social will be held today from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the corner of United Methodist Church at the corner of Dundee and Sanders roads in Northbrook.

Homemade cakes and pies topped with ice cream, along with sundaes, black cows and sodas will be available.

MoJo the Clown, a Shriner from the Medinah Temple Clown Unit, will be at the social to entertain the children.

Attend Orientation

Three area girls have attended freshman orientation sessions at Iowa State University, Ames, Ia.

They are Marion Gamenthaler, Gayle Haight and Mary Miller, all of Arlington Heights.

Plan TV Broadcast

HOUSTON — Apollo 11 is on its second day of its history-making trip to the moon after a flawless count down and launch yesterday.

Among the activities planned today for the three Apollo astronauts, Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins, are a second midcourse correction, if necessary and a 15-minute television broadcast about 6:30 p.m.

Fighting Continues

HONDURAS — El Salvador is claiming sweeping advances on all fronts in its war with Honduras. Salvadorean tanked-in infantrymen, apparently ignoring a cease-fire order from the Organization of American States were reported advancing as far as 45 miles into Honduras in a drive on the Honduran capital city of Tegucigalpa.

The exact cause of the conflict is not clear, but it is believed to involve land rights between the two countries.

Nixon Calls Holiday

WASHINGTON — Pres. Nixon has asked America to spend next Monday concentrating in a "national day of participation" on the Apollo 11 moon landing mission.

The chief executive ordered government offices closed and urged governors, mayors, school systems and private employers to give the day off to as many people as possible so they can follow the mission.

Military Heads Meet

SAIGON — The three highest ranking U.S. officers concerned with the Vietnam war began secret strategy talks yesterday to help decide whether and how U.S. forces will respond to the full in Communist attacks.

Arriving aboard separate planes were Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. John S. McCain, commander of all U.S. forces in the Pacific. They joined military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in a series of meetings and field trips.

Bond Set at $25,000

CHICAGO — Jeff Fort, reputed leader of the Black P. Stone Nation and two other high-ranking gang officials, were being held late yesterday under $25,000 bond in connection with Tuesday night's ambush of a south side man.

Fort, 22, Charles E. Bey, 25, and Andrew McChristian, 20, all members of the "Main 21" leadership of the Black P. Stones, were arrested by Intelligence Unit members of the Chicago police on charges of ambushing Jackie Turner, 22.

Testify to Ignorance

CHICAGO — Illinois Supreme Court Justices Ray I. Klingbeil and Roy J. Solisburg testified yesterday they were unaware that a former state official whose criminal indictment was before the house court had an interest in a bank which they obtained stock.

The two are accused of impropriety in a petition filed by legal researcher Sherman Skolnick which asked the court to reconsider its 1967 ruling that former State Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs could not be prosecuted on conflict of interest charges.

MODEL ROCKET enthusiast Tony Crabtree displays a model that is popular with amateur rocket builders in the area. Sales of the paper and balsa rockets have gone up in recent years, due to increasing interest in the space program.

Rocket Sales, Too, Go Up

A button is pressed. The motor ignites and with a "whoosh" the rocket soars upward.

An Apollo shot at Cape Kennedy? No, it's a local amateur rocket enthusiast launching a model rocket.

Tony Crabtree of Tony's Hobby Lobby shop in Wheeling reported that sales of model rockets have gone up in recent years, due to the American and Russian space programs.

"People have been hearing about these missions and have become more interested in space travel and exploration," Crabtree explained. He added that older people as well as youngsters are taking up the hobby.

Crabtree has been building model rockets himself for the past three or four years and has assisted many would-be "rocketeers" in assembling their own models.

LAST JULY 4 THE SHOPS sponsored a rocket launching program for local model rocket buffs at the Wheeling High School football field. The shop, which sponsors the event each year, provided rocket engines, launching pads and ignition systems to those who brought their own rockets.

Crabtree said most model rockets are between six and 42 inches long, can reach speeds of up to 800 miles per hour and heights of 3,000 feet.

He explained that a variety of model rocket kits are now on the market.

Dist. 26 Hires 2 Principals

The school board of Dist. 26 hired two men Tuesday night to be principals in district schools.

Three schools in the area need principals but the board is not assigning the men to certain schools until three men are hired.

Hired Tuesday night were David Dossett and Mathew Meisterheim.

Dossett has been a mathematics teacher at Lake Forest Academy and School Dist. 95 in Brookfield. He received his bachelor's degree in mathematics at Wabash College in Crawfordsville, Ind. and his master's degree in mathematics at Northwestern University. He is completing his doctoral course work at Northwestern.

THIS PAST year, Dossett served as an administrative intern in a program supervised by the National Association for Secondary Education Principals.

Meisterheim has had six years teaching experience in Des Plaines and served as principal of a Lombard junior high school for three years.

Meisterheim completed his course work toward his doctoral degree this past year at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb. He has done work at DePaul University and at San Francisco State.

Both men are new to Dist. 26. The requirements to become a principal in the district include four years of teaching, a master's degree, and some course work in teaching administration for all-grade supervisory.

"Most models are made of heavy paper and balsa wood and are powered by a motor containing a solid propellant similar to gunpowder but with a controlled burning rate," he said.

"These rockets aren't dangerous in themselves," Crabtree continued. "A lot of people connect rockets with fireworks, but there is no similarity. Rockets can be misused, but they don't explode or misfire. I don't know of anyone in this area who has ever been injured by a model rocket."

CRABTREE SAID A COMMON rocket, such as the 18-inch ones he enjoys building, takes about two hours to assemble and another two hours to sand and paint.

"The smoother the finish is on the rocket, the less friction it will have with the air and the faster it will fly," he said.

The rocket is launched from a wooden tri-pod launching pad, Crabtree explained. He said that a rocket is ignited when an electrical charge from a battery is sent through a nichrome wire to the rocket engine. The electrical charge makes the metal wire hot, which in turn ignites the solid propellant.

Cotton wadding protects the rest of the rocket from the heat of the engine and a plastic parachute is pushed open by a piston later in the flight to slow down the rocket and enable it to float unharmed to the ground. It can then be shot off again when another engine is inserted in the rocket.

CRABTREE EXPLAINED that a simple model of this type would cost only a few dollars. More elaborate rockets could run as high as $16 and extremely simple ones can be made from a badminton shuttlecock for only 50 cents.

Crabtree said some rockets are now on the market which have two or three engines which fire in stages. Others come with gliders attached to the rocket.

Valuation Leap Predicted

Assessed valuation in Buffalo Grove will jump by 60 per cent in the next year, Trustee Robert Gleason, chairman of the village board's finance committee, has predicted.

He also predicted the income for the fiscal year would total $251,200. Gleason said the revenue for the last fiscal year totaled $272,353. More than 60 per cent of that figure, or $170,850, was of the nonrecurring type, however. Gleason expects the anticipated income for this year to be almost evenly split between the recurring and the nonrecurring type.

LAST YEAR the village spent $314,000, he said. However, of that amount, approximately $37,000 was a loan to the water and sewer fund. According to Gleason, with the exception of the loan, the village spent $277,000, leaving the village with a surplus for the year of approximately $5,000 to $6,000.

Gleason emphasized that though the village spent more money than was called for in its budget, it did not spend more than was outlined in its appropriations ordinance.

BY LAW a village cannot spend more than is allocated in the appropriations ordinance.

Gleason also announced that progress on the appropriations ordinance for this year had been delayed. At the July 7 meeting he had said it would be ready Monday for consideration. The ordinance must be submitted to the state by July 31.

Unexpectedly, no discussion on the budget occurred at the meeting Monday. Because of the argument among the trustees at the July 7 meeting, additional discussion on Buffalo Grove's budget was expected.

Gleason contends that a budget is useless unless the village sets up a system to monitor how closely village departments are following the budget. He charged three newly elected trustees with procrastination in choosing the type of system to be used.

Rezoning Is Near

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert Tuesday night reassured local builder Salvatore DiMucci that the village trustees would render a final decision on a rezoning petition for a five-acre tract at Golf and Busse roads at the next village board meeting Aug. 5.

DiMucci appeared before the board to request an immediate decision on his petition. "My property has been tied up too long already in negotiation. I would greatly appreciate an answer one way or the other so I could continue with my plans for the land," DiMucci said.

If the village board approves the rezoning request, DiMucci will sell an adjacent 18-acre tract to the park district for the proposed West Park and lake-retention basin.

IF THE PETITION IS denied, DiMucci

is expected to develop the entire 23-acre site for single-family residences.

Teichert explained that a decision by the village board is pending a special judiciary committee hearing slated for July 30.

"The judiciary committee will consider commission recommendations and study reports on the petition. The village board will make the final decision on the case pending the committee's recommendation for the proposed land use," Teichert said.

The plan commission, having studied the DiMucci request, recommended in its monthly report to the village board that petition be denied on the grounds that the builder failed to submit a tentative plan of development on the site.

DiMucci is requesting a rezoning classification from single-family to multiple-family residences.

Reaction Is Mixed On Sewer Permits

Area township officials are showing mixed attitudes on the Metropolitan Sanitary District's (MSD) proposal to restrict the issuance of sanitary sewer permits.

Under the new ordinance adopted by the MSD board of trustees, sanitary sewer permits would be issued only to municipalities, governmental agencies such as townships, utility companies, or private individuals whose property lies next to an MSD sewer. The plan goes into effect Jan. 1, 1970.

Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said, "I feel it is a genuine service we can provide. I'm hopeful we can get started by Jan. 1."

ELK GROVE TOWNSHIP Supervisor William Rohlfing said of the plan, "Once they (the MSD) go through with it, the townships can take care of it (permit issuance) better than the MSD." He added, "It might work."

Russell Bramwell, an auditor in Palatine Township, said the board of auditors had not yet discussed it. "I would be for it 100 per cent, though," he said. Bramwell said that more than half the land within the township is unincorporated.

And in Schaumburg Township, Vernon Laubenstein, supervisor, said, "The auditors had discussed the MSD proposal at their meeting last month. We consulted with our attorneys and it appeared to us that we have only a limited amount of unincorporated territory."

Laubenstein said that Schaumburg presently planned no participation in the new plan. However, he added that the matter would probably be brought up at another township meeting.

"WE WOULD BE IN the position of hiring engineering talent and getting into the sewer business when there is no immediate need for this," said Laubenstein. He explained that in Schaumburg Township the pattern has been for villages to annex any developed land.

Frederick Juliano, MSD engineer for local sewer systems, said the plan was initiated because the MSD often has problems "hunting down builders and developers of subdivisions" when problems with sanitary sewers arise. "The builders don't seem to understand that once they have a sanitary sewer permit they are forevermore responsible for that sewer unless there is a formal change of responsibility filed in writing with the MSD."

JULIANO SAID THAT in some cases, irate homeowners blame the MSD for sewer breakdowns. He emphasized the MSD only operates large interceptor sewers and treatment plants.

In proposing the new ordinance, the MSD said statutes were in effect that would allow townships to operate their own sanitary sewer systems.

Presently two townships in Cook County, Northfield and Leyden, are already doing this.

Wednesday night the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors attended a sewer board meeting at the Northfield Township seeking information on township-operated sewer systems.

Mark Clayton, Northfield Township supervisor, said that under their system when a developer asks for a sewer permit from the township, he is first required to submit plans and specification of the new system.

"WE RETAIN AN ENGINEERING firm which reviews the plans and okays them," said Clayton. The engineer also is required to inspect the system during its construction.

Clayton said that Northfield actually has two systems: One that was built to replace septic tanks, and a second that was built by a developer and turned over to the township for maintenance. "The developer's system has turned out to be our biggest headache," Clayton said.

The subdivider's system turned out to be inadequate, and the township spent several years trying to get approval to sell bonds.

Clayton said that at first the township had difficulty collecting usage fees. "So we started suing people after they got three fiscal quarters behind in their payments," he said. "Collections are no longer a problem," said Clayton, "because we simply put a lien on their houses."

CLAYTON EMPHASIZED that general township funds cannot be used to pay for the sewer system. When the Northfield Township auditors meet to discuss sewer system problems, they meet as a sewer board.

"Inspection of the sewers is the most important aspect of our program," said Clayton.

Mrs. Kolerus said Wheeling Township's next move would be to have Richard Cowen, the township attorney, draw up a list of necessary steps the township must take.

Mrs. Kolerus said she plans to approach Elk Grove, Palatine and Northfield Townships on the possibility of "pooling the engineers and inspection employees."

To Name Manager

Wheeling's trustees have narrowed the number of applicants for village manager and will begin interviews this week.

Trustee Ira Bird told the Herald yesterday that one candidate for the post will be interviewed this week. The trustees hope to interview several more next week.

Bird, who is chairman of the board's judiciary and purchasing committee, said at a Monday meeting that the manager "is coming soon."

HE SAID THE board had narrowed the number of applicants from 15 or 20 to six or eight. He said that of the remaining

Women's Club Donates $100 to School Dist.

The Glenview Women's Club has given $100 to School Dist. 21 which will be used to give emergency medical and dental aid to children of migrant workers attending Dist. 21 schools.

Mrs. George Fromm, club president, philanthropy chairman Mrs. C. Woodruff and past philanthropy chairman Mrs. Carol Murovich presented the money Wednesday to Mrs. Catherine Samsel, principal of Holmes Junior High School.

The women's club gave a similar donation to the school district last year, which was used to pay the medical expenses for several children with broken arms and to purchase glasses for several others.

Teen Is Injured In Auto Accident

Linda Reznier, 17, of Northbrook was treated for minor injuries at Holy Family Hospital Tuesday following an auto accident at 700 W. Dundee Road in Wheeling.

The accident at 5:49 p.m. resulted in about $200 damages to a car driven by Andrew F. Eckmaver, 18, of Burlington, Wis. Miss Reznier was a passenger in his car.

Eckmaver was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and will appear in Arlington Heights District Court on Aug. 5.

The driver of the other car, Timothy John Howard, 26, of 2 Meadow Lane, Wheeling, was not charged in connection with the accident. Police had no estimate of damages to his car.

Man Presents Check To Area CYO Director

A check for $84,198 was presented to the executive director of the Catholic Youth Organization recently by a Prospect Heights man who directed the youth fund drive with the Knights of Columbus.

V. Andrew Balducci, 36 Glenbrook, presented the check to Magr. Edward J. Kelly at the Knights of Columbus victory ball in the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

The money will be used for summer recreation at parish and park centers.

Real Estate Transfers

The Kroger Co., Inc. purchased the property at 1910 Lillian Lane, Arlington Heights, from Donald E. Phillips for $47,000.

The purchase was announced in the latest monthly Wheeling Township real estate transfer report from County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen.

There were 63 sales in Arlington Heights, 17 in Mount Prospect, 11 in Prospect Heights, nine in Buffalo Grove, one in Des Plaines, and nine in Wheeling and the rest of the township.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1.00 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

Water Profits Total $22,000 in Last Year

Buffalo Grove Trustee Robert Gleeson, chairman of the financial committee, said Monday night, "After looking at our receipts the water business is a good one to be in."

He reported the village had made $22,000 last year. Presently there are 716 users hooked in to the village's utility.

Gleeson's figures were presented in an operating report for the utility.

Also at the meeting, Gleeson brought up the problem of homeowners failing to contact the utility to have the water shut off when they move out of the house.

Because of this the water is not turned off and, as a result, sometimes the home's new owner faces a large water bill when he moves in.

Bible School Opens At Baptist Church

Vacation Bible school will be held daily at the Village Baptist Church in Buffalo Grove next Monday through Friday.

Bill and Doris Smallman, missionary candidates for Brazil, will help with the program throughout the week.

All children six years old through activities are eligible to enroll. Activities will include songs, stories, games, handwork and projects from 9 to 11 a.m. each day.

'Disregard Ad On Lighting'

Village Pres. Donald Thompson advised Buffalo Grove residents "to disregard" a classified newspaper ad that had been published warning Buffalo Grove residents that streetlighting was about to be installed.

The ad stated the electrical contractor would not be responsible in connection with the street light installation.

Thompson said the installation was to take place in the Strathmore subdivision area of the village.

"ESCROW FUNDS are available to pay for any damage," said Thompson. He said he had checked with the electrical contractor.

He added that the trench to be dug for the installation was only about six inches to a foot wide and a few feet deep.

Thompson pointed out that any owner having a fence on the easement for the lights would be responsible for it, however.

New Wheeling Library Officers are Listed

New officers of the Wheeling Public Library District took office July 1.

Charlotte M. Dolgop is the district's new president. Other officers include Wallace C. Olson, secretary and Larry D. Sampson, treasurer.

Three appointed trustees also will serve on the board this year. They are Fred Schneider, Charles J. DuBois Jr., and Frederick O. Schubert.

The board of trustees meets the first Tuesday of each month at 8:30 p.m. in the library.

Zoners Will Discuss 'Old Buildings' Law

Wheeling's Zoning Board of Appeals will call a public hearing to discuss amending an ordinance which sets deadlines for the removal of old buildings and residential areas.

The amendment would also set deadlines for the elimination of old buildings from commercial and industrial areas in the village.

Another provision of the amendment would authorize or eliminate structures failing to conform to the existing zoning map of the village.

Vandalism Reported

Palatine police are investigating complaints of property damage from 15 to 20 residents on Stuart Lane, and Dorset and Bennett Avenues. Reports of a blue aerosol paint and Christmas snow sprayed on cars, garage doors and front porches were reported to police yesterday morning.

One resident said he saw three teenage boys on the street about 2 a.m. but did not realize then that any damage had occurred. Police said the vandalism was probably done between midnight Tuesday and 3 a.m. Wednesday.

Former Smokers Give Reply

"I thought I'd blow off" said one of the former smokers. The statement was made during a discussion on the effects of smoking. The speaker listed as withdrawal symptoms, dizziness, nausea and loss of appetite. He also mentioned that he had successfully quit smoking after attending a Northwest Community Hospital clinic.

United by a single desire, about 150 residents attended the four-week "Stop Smoking Clinics" sponsored by the hospital. Questionnaires sent to the first two groups in May brought responses from one-third of those attending. One-third of those responding won their battle.

Unanimous in their praise of the clinic's purpose and format, most individuals who are still clutching cigarettes admit to poor will power. Others listed weight gain, stress, boredom and a strong craving for a cigarette following meals as reasons they have not been able to cease smoking.

ONE WOMAN, who stopped and resumed, said her husband still smoked and his cigarettes and ashtrays proved too tempting. The couple factor may be important — one man and wife stopped on the same day, some weeks after the session ended.

Another hopeful who tried in vain to stop said that whenever she thought of the graphic pictures shown at clinic sessions she crushed out the cigarette she was currently smoking.

The clinics, held once a week, featured talks by hospital physicians, a psychiatrist, X-ray demonstrations and films. Those attending were not asked to stop smoking at a particular time, but were presented with the correlation of lung cancer and other diseases to smoking.

IN THE PERSONAL opinion section of the questionnaire, one resident asked for a special session for dropouts and another asked for longer and additional programs.

One man even sent the Cancer Society a gift. He had found a special dial which could be used to control the amount of smoke inhaled. The percentage not wanted escaped into the air.

Receives Shock, Dies

A Colorado man, working on a high tension utility pole at Rand and Kennicott in Arlington Heights, was electrocuted Wednesday when 2,160 volts of electricity passed through his body.

Larry D. Drake, 37, 710 7th Street, Glenwood Springs, Colo. was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital at 2:15 p.m.

Arlington Heights police said Drake, who was working for the Aldridge Electric Co., of Lake Forest, was splicing wires together atop the pole when the accident occurred.

Church Schedules Ice Cream Social

An ice cream social will be held today from 8:30 to 9 p.m. at the corner of United Methodist Church at the corner of Dundee and Sanders roads in Northbrook. Homemade cakes and pies topped with ice cream, along with sundaes, black cows and sodas will be available.

MoJo the Clown, a Shriner from the Medinah Temple Clown Unit, will be at the social to entertain the children.

Attend Orientation

Three area girls have attended freshman orientation sessions at Iowa State University, Ames, Ia.

They are Marion Gamenthaler, Gayle Haight and Mary Milner, all of Arlington Heights.

Bible School Classes To Begin at St. Peter

Vacation Bible school classes will begin Monday at St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights.

Parents may register boys and girls from age 3 through sixth grad age on Monday at 9 a.m.

"Living God's Way" is the theme around which the Bible study, worship services and music will be centered for the two-week session. The program is under the direction of the Rev. Walter Wenck, minister of education, and Dennis Andreasen, Sunday school superintendent.

Supervisors of various departments for the program include Mrs. John Simmons, pre-school; Mrs. Wallace Bolte, kindergarten; and Mrs. Arnold Scharringhausen, primary.

All area youngsters have been invited to attend the Bible school classes.

Deception Is Charged To Wheeling Tenant

Wallace M. Obermoeller, of 55 W. Strong St., Wheeling, was charged with deceptive practices by Wheeling Police Wednesday.

Obermoeller is charged with paying his rent with $975 worth of bad checks. Police reports indicated that Obermoeller delivered checks to the J.A.N. Builders, in McHenry for his apartment's rent on May 23, June 10, and June 21, all of which were returned by the bank for insufficient funds.

Police arrested Obermoeller at 8:15 a.m. Wednesday and he was released on $500 bond. An Aug. 5 court hearing in Arlington Heights District Court has been set.

Trails Building Bids To Be Opened Aug. 14

The River Trails Park District will open bids Aug. 14 on the construction of a combination office and recreation center at Burning Trails Park, Euclid Avenue and Lee Street.

It was erroneously reported in Monday's Herald that bids would be opened July 18.

The proposed building will include the park district offices, storage space and two multi-purpose rooms. A large room, including kitchen facilities, will be designed to accommodate group activities.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Thursday, July 17, the 196th day of 1969 with 167 to follow. The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter. On this day in history:

In 1936 the Spanish Civil War began with Gen. Francisco Franco leading army troops against the government.

In 1948 southern Democrats from 13 states organized a States' Rights party to oppose the regular Truman-Barkley ticket. They wrote a presidential ticket headed by Strom Thurmond.

In 1955 Arco, Idaho, a town of some 1,300 people, became the first community in the world to receive all its light and power from atomic energy.

In 1966 a National Airlines jetliner with 64 aboard was hijacked to Cuba.

Plan TV Broadcast

HOUSTON — Apollo 11 is on its second day of its history-making trip to the moon after a flawless count down and launch yesterday.

Among the activities planned today for the three Apollo astronauts, Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins, are a second midcourse correction, if necessary and a 15-minute television broadcast about 6:30 p.m.

Fighting Continues

HONDURAS — El Salvador is claiming sweeping advances on all fronts in its war with Honduras. Salvadorean tank-led infantrymen, apparently ignoring a ceasefire order from the Organization of American States were reported advancing as far as 45 miles into Honduran territory in a drive on the Honduran capital city of Tegucigalpa.

The exact cause of the conflict is not clear, but it is believed to involve land rights between the two countries.

Nixon Calls Holiday

WASHINGTON — Pres. Nixon has asked America to spend next Monday concentrating in a "national day of participation" on the Apollo 11 moon landing mission.

The chief executive ordered government offices closed and urged governors, mayors, school systems and private employers to give the day off to as many people as possible so they can follow the mission.

Military Heads Meet

SAIGON — The three highest ranking U.S. officers concerned with the Vietnam war began secret strategy talks yesterday to help decide whether and how U.S. forces will respond to the lull in Communist attacks.

Arriving aboard separate planes were Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. John S. McCain, commander of all U.S. forces in the Pacific. They joined military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in a series of meetings and field trips.

Bond Set at $25,000

CHICAGO — Jeff Fort, reputed leader of the Black P-Stone Nation and two other high-ranking gang officials, were being held late yesterday under $25,000 bond in connection with Tuesday night's ambush of a South Side man.

Fort, 22, Charles E. Bey, 25, and Andrew McChristian, 20, all members of the "Main 21" leadership of the Black P-Stones, were arrested by Intelligence Unit members of the Chicago Police on charges of ambushing Jackie Turner, 22.

Testify to Ignorance

CHICAGO — Illinois Supreme Court Justices Ray I. Klingbiel and Roy J. Solisburg testified yesterday they were unaware that a former state official whose criminal indictment was before the high court had an interest in a bank which they obtained stock.

The two are accused of impropriety in a petition filed by legal researcher Sherman Skolnick which asked the court to reconsider its 1967 ruling that former State Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs could not be prosecuted on conflict of interest charges.

MODEL ROCKET enthusiast Tony Crabtree displays a model that is popular with amateur rocket builders in the area. Sales of the paper and balsa rockets have gone up in recent years, due to increasing interest in the space program.

Rocket Sales, Too, Go Up

A button is pressed. The motor ignites and with a "whoosh" the rocket soars upward.

An Apollo shot at Cape Kennedy? No, it's a local amateur rocket enthusiast launching a model rocket.

Tony Crabtree of Tony's Hobby Lobby shop in Wheeling reported that sales of model rockets have gone up in recent years, due to the American and Russian space programs.

"People have been hearing about these missions and have become more interested in space travel and exploration," Crabtree explained. He added that older people as well as youngsters are taking up the hobby.

Crabtree has been building model rockets himself for the past three or four years and has assisted many would-be "rocketeers" in assembling their own models.

LAST JULY 4 THE SHOPS sponsored a rocket launching program for local model rocket buffs at the Wheeling High School football field. The shop, which sponsors the event each year, provided rocket engines, launching pads and ignition systems to those who brought their own rockets.

Crabtree said most model rockets are between six and 42 inches long, can reach speeds of up to 800 miles per hour and heights of 3,000 feet.

He explained that a variety of model rocket kits are now on the market.

Dist. 26 Hires 2 Principals

The school board of Dist. 26 hired two men Tuesday night to be principals in district schools.

Three schools in the area need principals but the board is not assigning the men to certain schools until three men are hired.

Those schools with vacancies are Bond, Indian Grove and Eugene Field.

Hired Tuesday night were David Dossett and Matthew Meisterheim.

Dossett has been a mathematics teacher at Lake Forest Academy and School Dist. 95 in Brookfield. He received his bachelor's degree in mathematics at Wabash College in Crawfordsville, Ind. and his master's degree in mathematics at Northwestern University. He is completing his doctoral course work at Northwestern.

THIS PAST year, Dossett served as an administrative intern in a program supervised by the National Association for Secondary Education Principals.

Meisterheim has had six years teaching experience in Des Plaines and served as principal of a Lombard junior high school for three years.

Meisterheim completed his course work toward his doctoral degree this past year at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb. He has done work at DePaul University and at San Francisco State.

Both men are new to Dist. 26. The requirements to become a principal in the district include four years of teaching, a master's degree, and some course work in teaching administration for all-grade supervisory.

"Most models are made of heavy paper and balsa wood and are powered by a motor containing a solid propellant similar to gunpowder but with a controlled burning rate," he said.

"These rockets aren't dangerous to themselves," Crabtree continued. "A lot of people connect rockets with fireworks, but there is no similarity. Rockets can be misused, but they don't explode or misfire. I don't know of anyone in this area who has ever been injured by a model rocket."

CRABTREE SAID A COMMON rocket, such as the 18-inch ones he enjoys building, takes about two hours to assemble and another two hours to sand and paint.

"The smoother the finish is on the rocket, the less friction it will have with the air and the faster it will fly," he said.

The rocket is launched from a wooden tri-pod launching pad, Crabtree explained. He said that a rocket is ignited when an

Valuation Leap Predicted

Assessed valuation in Buffalo Grove will jump by 60 per cent in the next year, Trustee Robert Gleason, chairman of the village board's finance committee, has predicted.

He also predicted the income for the fiscal year would total $251,200. Gleason said the revenue for the last fiscal year totaled $272,553. More than 60 per cent of that figure, or $170,850, was of the nonrecurring type, however. Gleason expects the anticipated income for this year to be almost evenly split between the recurring and the nonrecurring type.

LAST YEAR the village spent $314,000, he said. However, of that amount, approximately $37,000 was a loan to the water and sewer fund. According to Gleason, with the exception of the loan, the village spent $267,000, leaving the village with a surplus for the year of approximately $5,000 to $8,000.

Gleason emphasized that though the village spent more money than was called

Reaction Is Mixed On Sewer Permits

Area township officials are showing mixed attitudes on the Metropolitan Sanitary District's (MSD) proposal to restrict the issuance of sanitary sewer permits.

Under the new ordinance adopted by the MSD board of trustees, sanitary sewer permits would be issued only to municipalities, governmental agencies such as townships, utility companies, or private individuals whose property lies next to an MSD sewer. The plan goes into effect Jan. 1, 1970.

Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said, "I feel it is a genuine service we can provide. I'm hopeful we can get started by Jan. 1."

ELK GROVE TOWNSHIP Supervisor William Rohlwing said of the plan, "Once they (the MSD) go through with it, the townships can take care of it (permit issuance) better than the MSD." He added, "It might work."

Russell Bramwell, an auditor in Palatine Township, said the board of auditors had not yet discussed it. "I would be for it 100 per cent, though," he said. Bramwell said that more than half the land within the township is unincorporated.

And in Schaumburg Township, Vernon Laubenstein, supervisor, said, "The auditors had discussed the MSD proposal at their meeting last month. We consulted with our attorneys and it appeared to us that we have only a limited amount of unincorporated territory."

Laubenstein said that Schaumburg presently planned no participation in the new plan. However, he added that the matter would probably be brought up at another township meeting.

"WE WOULD BE IN the position of hiring engineering talent and getting into the sewer business when there is no immediate need for this," said Laubenstein. He explained that in Schaumburg Township the pattern has been for villages to annex any developed land.

Frederick Juliano, MSD engineer for local sewer systems, said the plan was initiated because the MSD often has problems "hunting down builders and developers of subdivisions" when problems with sanitary sewers arise. "The builders don't seem to understand that once they have a sanitary sewer permit they are forevermore responsible for that sewer unless there is a formal change of responsibility filed in writing with the MSD."

JULIANO SAID THAT in some cases, irate homeowners blame the MSD for sewer breakdowns. He emphasized the MSD only operates large interceptor sewers and treatment plants.

In proposing the new ordinance, the MSD said statutes were in effect that would allow townships to operate their own sanitary sewer systems.

Presently two townships in Cook County, Northfield and Leyden, are already doing this.

Wednesday night the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors attended a sewer board meeting at the Northfield Township seeking information on township-operated sewer systems.

Mark Clayton, Northfield Township supervisor, said that under their system when a developer asks for a sewer permit from the township, he is first required to submit plans and specification of the new system.

"WE RETAIN AN ENGINEERING firm which reviews the plans and okays them," said Clayton. The engineer also is required to inspect the system during its construction.

Clayton said that Northfield actually has two systems: One that was built to replace septic tanks, and a second that was built by a developer and turned over to the township for maintenance. "The developer's system has turned out to be our biggest headache," Clayton said.

The subdivisor's system turned out to be inadequate, and the township spent several years trying to get approval to sell bonds.

Clayton said that at first the township had difficulty collecting usage fees. "So we started suing people after they got three fiscal quarters behind in their payments," he said. "Collections are no longer a problem," said Clayton, "because we simply put a lien on their houses."

CLAYTON EMPHASIZED that general township funds cannot be used to pay for the sewer system. When the Northfield Township auditors meet to discuss sewer system problems, they meet as a sewer board.

"Inspection of the sewers is the most important aspect of our program," said Clayton.

Mrs. Kolerus said Wheeling Township's next move would be to have Richard Cowen, the township attorney, draw up a list of necessary steps the township must take.

Mrs. Kolerus said she plans to approach Elk Grove, Palatine and Northfield Townships on the possibility of "pooling the engineers and inspection employees."

To Name Manager

Wheeling's trustees have narrowed the number of applicants for village manager and will begin interviews this week.

Trustee Ira Bird told the Herald yesterday that one candidate for the post will be interviewed this week. The trustees hope to interview several more next week.

Bird, who is chairman of the board's judiciary and purchasing committee, said at a Monday meeting that the manager "is coming soon."

HE SAID THE board had narrowed the number of applicants from 15 or 20 to six or eight. He said that of the remaining

Women's Club Donates $100 to School Dist.

The Glenview Women's Club has given $100 to School Dist. 21 which will be used to give emergency medical and dental aid to children of migrant workers attending Dist. 21 schools.

Mrs. George Fromm, club president, philanthropy chairman Mrs. C. Woodruff and past philanthropy chairman Mrs. Carol Murovich presented the money Wednesday to Mrs. Catherine Samsel, principal of Holmes Junior High School.

The women's club gave a similar donation to the school district last year, which was used to pay the medical expenses for several children with broken arms and to purchase glasses for several others.

Teen Is Injured In Auto Accident

Linda Rezinier, 17, of Northbrook was treated for minor injuries at Holy Family Hospital Tuesday following an auto accident at 700 W. Dundee Road in Wheeling.

The accident at 5:40 p.m. resulted in about $200 damages to a car driven by Andrew F. Eckmaver, 18, of Burlington, Wis. Miss Rezinier was a passenger in his car.

Eckmaver was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and will appear in Arlington Heights' District Court on Aug. 5.

The driver of the other car, Timothy John Howard, 26, of 2 Meadow Lane, Wheeling, was not charged in connection with the accident. Police had no estimate of damages to his car.

Man Presents Check To Area CYO Director

A check for $34,136 was presented to the executive director of the Catholic Youth Organization recently by a Prospect Heights man who directed the youth fund drive with the Knights of Columbus.

V. Andrew Bakkucchi, 36 Glenbrook, presented the check to Magr. Edward J. Kelly at the Knights of Columbus victory ball in the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

The money will be used for summer recreation at parish and park centers.

BATON TWIRLING ISN'T supposed to be painful, but the expressions on the faces of Punkie Rochelleau, left, 3, and Sheila Kozak, 4, indicate that it isn't all that easy or fun. The young ladies are participating in a Rolling Meadows Park District program.

Real Estate Transfers

The Kroger Co., Inc. purchased the property at 1910 Lillian Lane, Arlington Heights, from Donald E. Phillips for $47,000.

The purchase was announced in the latest monthly Wheeling Township real estate transfer report from County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen.

There were 63 sales in Arlington Heights, 17 in Mount Prospect, 11 in Prospect Heights, nine in Buffalo Grove and one in Des Plaines, and nine in Wheeling and the rest of the township.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1.00 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

Board Plans Cleaning Of Residential Sewers

The Buffalo Grove Village Board plans to have sewers in the Lincoln Terrace, Rosewood and St. Mary's Parkway area cleaned out by a power rodding service.

Trustee Kenneth Felten, chairman of the public improvements committee, said public works department crews had cleaned out the openings. However, he said the village crews were unable to clean out the entire sewers.

According to Felten cost of the cleaning would be about $800. The village board voted to advertise for bids in connection with the project.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Thursday, July 17, the 198th day of 1969 with 167 to follow. The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1936 the Spanish Civil War began with Gen. Francisco Franco leading army troops against the government.

In 1948 southern Democrats from 13 states organized a States' Rights party to oppose the regular Truman-Barkley ticket. They wrote a presidential ticket headed by Strom Thurmond.

In 1955 Arco, Idaho, a town of some 1,300 people, became the first community in the world to receive all its light and power from atomic energy.

In 1968 a National Airlines jetliner with 64 aboard was hijacked to Cuba.

Water Profits Total $22,000 in Last Year

Buffalo Grove Trustee Robert Gleeson, chairman of the financial committee, said Monday night, "After looking at our receipts the water business is a good one to be in."

He reported the village had made $22,000 last year. Presently there are 716 users hooked in to the village's utility.

Gleeson's figures were presented in an operating report for the utility.

Also at the meeting, Gleeson brought up the problem of homeowners failing to contact the utility to have the water shut off when they move out of the house.

Because of this the water is not turned off and, as a result, sometimes the home's new owner faces a large water bill when he moves in.

Bible School Opens At Baptist Church

Vacation Bible school will be held daily at the Village Baptist Church in Buffalo Grove next Monday through Friday.

Bill and Doris Smallman, missionary candidates for Brazil, will help with the program throughout the week.

All children six years old through mid-teens are eligible to enroll. Activities will include songs, stories, games, handwork and projects from 9 to 11 a.m. each day.

'Disregard Ad On Lighting'

Village Pres. Donald Thompson advised Buffalo Grove residents "to disregard" a classified newspaper ad that had been published warning Buffalo Grove residents that streetlighting was about to be installed.

The ad stated the electrical contractor would not be responsible in connection with the street light installation.

Thompson said the installation was to take place in the Strathmore subdivision area of the village.

"ESCROW FUNDS are available to pay for any damage," said Thompson. He said he had checked with the electrical contractor.

He added that the trench to be dug for the installation was only about six inches to a foot wide and a few feet deep.

Thompson pointed out that any owner having a fence on the easement for the lights would be responsible for it, however.

New Wheeling Library Officers are Listed

New officers of the Wheeling Public Library District took office July 1.

Charlotte M. Dolgopoli is the district's new president. Other officers include Wallace C. Olson, secretary and Larry D. Sampson, treasurer.

Three appointed trustees also will serve on the board this year. They are Fred Schneller, Charles J. DuBois Jr., and Frederick O. Schubert.

Mrs. W. Lischett is the librarian. The board of trustees meets the first Tuesday of each month at 8:30 p.m. in the library.

Zoners Will Discuss 'Old Buildings' Law

Wheeling's Zoning Board of Appeals has called a public hearing to discuss amending an ordinance which sets deadlines for the removal of old buildings and residential areas.

The amendment would also set deadlines for the elimination of old buildings from commercial and industrial areas in the village.

Another provision of the amendment would authorize or eliminate structures failing to conform to the existing zoning map of the village.

The hearing is set for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 5 in the village hall.

Vandalism Reported

Palatine police are investigating complaints of property damage from 15 to 20 residents on Stuart Lane, and Dorset and Bennett Avenues. Reports of a blue aerosol paint and Christmas snow sprayed on cars, garage doors and fronts of homes were reported to police yesterday morning.

One resident said he saw three teenage boys on the street about 2 a.m. but did not realize then that any damage had occurred. Police said the vandalism was probably done between midnight Tuesday and 3 a.m. Wednesday.

United by a single desire, about 150 residents attended the four-week "Stop Smoking Clinics" sponsored by the hospital early this year. Questionnaires sent to the first two groups in May brought responses from one-third of those attending. One-third of those responding won their battle.

Unanimous in their praise of the clinic's purpose and format, most individuals who are still clutching cigarettes admit to poor will power. Others listed weight gain, stress, boredom and a strong craving for a cigarette following meals as reasons they have not been able to cease smoking.

ONE WOMAN, who stopped and resumed, said her husband still smoked and his cigarettes and ashtrays proved too tempting. The couple factor may be important — one man and wife stopped on the same day, some weeks after the session ended.

Receives Shock, Dies

A Colorado man, working on a high tension utility pole at Rand and Kennicott in Arlington Heights, was electrocuted Wednesday when 2,160 volts of electricity passed through his body.

Larry D. Drake, 37, 710 7th Street, Glenwood Springs, Colo. was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital at 2:15 p.m.

Arlington Heights police said Drake, who was working for the Aldridge Electric Co. of Lake Forest, was splicing wires together atop the pole when the accident occurred.

Church Schedules Ice Cream Social

An ice cream social will be held today from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the corner of United Methodist Church at the corner of Dundee and Sanders roads in Northbrook.

Homemade cakes and pies topped with ice cream, along with sundaes, black cows and sodas will be available.

Attend Orientation

Three area girls have attended freshman orientation sessions at Iowa State University, Ames, Ia.

They are Marion Gamenthaler, Gayle Haight and Mary Miller, all of Arlington Heights.

Plan TV Broadcast

HOUSTON — Apollo 11 is on its second day of its history-making trip to the moon after a flawless count down and launch yesterday.

Among the activities planned today for the three Apollo astronauts, Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins, are a second midcourse correction, if necessary and a 15-minute television broadcast about 6:30 p.m.

Fighting Continues

HONDURAS — El Salvador is claiming sweeping advances on all fronts in its war with Honduran Salvadorean tank-led infantrymen, apparently ignoring a cease-fire order from the Organization of American States were reported advancing as far as 45 miles into Honduras in a drive on the Honduran capital city of Tegucigalpa.

The exact cause of the conflict is not clear, but it is believed to involve land rights between the two countries.

Nixon Calls Holiday

WASHINGTON — Pres. Nixon has asked America to spend next Monday concentrating in a "national day of participation" on the Apollo 11 moon landing mission.

The chief executive ordered government offices closed and urged governors, mayors, school systems and private employers to give the day off to as many people as possible so they can follow the mission.

Military Heads Meet

SAIGON — The three highest ranking U.S. officers concerned with the Vietnam war began secret strategy talks yesterday to help decide whether and how U.S. forces will respond to the full in Communist attacks.

Arriving aboard separate planes were Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. John S. McCain, commander of all U.S. forces in the Pacific. They joined military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in a series of meetings and field trips.

Bond Set at $25,000

CHICAGO — Jeff Fort, reputed leader of the Black P. Stone Nation and two other high-ranking gang officials, were being held late yesterday under $25,000 bond in connection with Tuesday night's ambush of a south side man.

Fort, 22, Charles E. Bey, 25, and Andrew McChristian, 20, all members of the "Main 21" leadership of the Black P. Stones, were arrested by Intelligence Unit members of the Chicago police on charges of ambushing Jackie Turner, 22.

Testify to Ignorance

CHICAGO — Illinois Supreme Court Justices Ray I. Klingbiel and Roy J. Solisburg testified yesterday they were unaware that a former state official whose criminal indictment was before the high court had an interest in a bank which they obtained stock.

The two are accused of impropriety in a petition filed by legal researcher Sherman Skolnick which asked the court to reconsider its 1967 ruling that former State Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs could not be prosecuted on conflict of interest charges.

Drop Park Dissolution

CONSCIENTIOUS STUDENTS are the ones who join the summer school instrumental music program, says George Huffman, Dist. 15 instrumental music teacher.

Individual attention is given to elementary school students who sign up for the five-week study and practice session. This week, the last one of summer school, students practiced in full-band sessions for tonight's three performances at Winston Churchill, Plum Grove, and Carl Sandburg schools.

er. Individual attention is given to elementary school students who sign up for the five-week study and practice session. This week, the last one of summer school, students practiced in full-band sessions for tonight's three performances at Winston Churchill, Plum Grove, and Carl Sandburg schools.

3 Concerts Set Tonight

Five weeks of study and practice in summer school will end tonight for more than 250 elementary school students participating in the Dist. 15 summer enrichment program. They will perform in three summer concerts at Winston Churchill, Plum Grove, and Carl Sandburg schools.

Students in fourth through eighth grades have rehearsed an hour each day in both small group and full band practices. About one-half of the students in the regular school instrumental program are participating in the summer program.

THIS SUMMER is the second year for a summer program for string instruments. Directed by Miss Elizabeth Losch, district director, a 25-string orchestra will perform with beginning and advanced bands in the program at Carl Sandburg school at 8 p.m. George Yingst will direct the band and a cornet trio.

At Winston Churchill school, students from the Winston Park area will perform in ensembles and combined band at 7:30 p.m. with George Huffman directing.

Palatine area students will perform in an intermediate and concert band at the Plum Grove school at 7 p.m. The bands, made up of students from the summer programs at Gray M. Sanborn school and Plum Grove school, will be directed by Sam Malambri and Neil Benson. The program will also feature a brass and woodwind ensemble.

Trails Building Bids To Be Opened Aug. 14

The River Trails Park District will open bids Aug. 14 on the construction of a combination office and recreation center at Burning Trails Park, Euclid Avenue and Lee Street.

It was erroneously reported in Monday's Herald that bids would be opened July 18.

The proposed building will include the park district offices, storage space and two multi-purpose rooms. A large room, including kitchen facilities, will be designed to accommodate group activities.

Lobbying Can Be Big Business

by JUDY BRANDES

"Lobbying is the thing to do in Washington," Mrs. Dortha Gilpin, Palatine Library trustee, says. "It's the way to get things done and to get a message across to legislators."

The message Mrs. Gilpin and 150 trustees from libraries across the country wanted to give their Congressmen last week was not to cut appropriations from library related programs.

"President Nixon has recommended to the House Appropriations Subcommittee that Title II of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act receive no funds next year and that funds for the Library Services and Construction Act be cut from $166 million to $23 million."

MRS. GILPIN'S one-day trip to Washington was her first experience with lobbying.

"We started about 8:30 a.m. The American Library Association organized an introductory meeting with Sen. Yarborough of Texas. He told us the cost of the appropriations would average out to 42 cents per school child for the year. It takes $21,000 per year to shoot one Viet Cong."

"Some of the larger lobbies have more to gain than we do. Contractors get more money in one job than all the library appropriations are worth."

After the meeting, the delegation broke up into state groups to talk to specific Congressmen. "Totally, we talked to 95 Congressmen and 89 said they were in favor of larger library appropriations or sympathetic to us. The eight Illinois trustees talked to Congressman Roman Pucinski and Daniel Ronman, of Chicago, Charlotte Reid, Aurora, and Melvin Price, East St. Louis."

THE DELEGATIONS met at 2 p.m. to report on their efforts. "I hope in the long run we did some good. The new administration came in to cut taxes, but perhaps there are other places to cut rather than libraries and education."

"Now our plans are to encourage individual citizens to write their Congressman."

A letter from a single interested citizen is a small lobby itself. If a Congressman gets them rather than form letters and telegrams, they are more effective."

AS THE HEAD librarian at Warren Township High School is a public library trustee, Mrs. Gilpin was interested in school library appropriations, too. "You can't really disconnect the two — public libraries and education. The subcommittee was considering all phases of library funding. In some areas, like school library resources, the President recommended no funds be allocated."

"Almost all of the money funded for libraries has been used to its fullest extent."

I think it is one area where there hasn't been much boondoggling."

MRS. GILPIN'S trip was financed by the Palatine Public Library. "I was the only one from the North Suburban Library System who went. It is difficult to get people to take the time to go to Washington. I went as a trustee, an elected representative of the taxpayers, as did the others in the delegation."

"My efforts don't stop here. The only way to get ourselves heard is to go and talk to them. We left the road open for letters, and I hope people will begin writing. Somewhere we hope to get the message across not to cut library appropriations."

Propose Open Housing Law

by BOB ZANIC

A proposed open-housing ordinance that would regulate the conduct of real estate transactions, provide remedies and penalties for violations of regulations and create a Human Relations Commission will be presented to the Rolling Meadows City Council Tuesday.

The ordinance is proposed to the city council by the Rolling Meadows Human Relations Council.

David Sundling, Human Relations Council president, said the ordinance provides "home rule housing legislation."

"I believe the community should handle its own problems and should have this ordinance on the books," he said.

THE ORDINANCE lists standards of conduct for real estate brokers, who must be licensed by the city. The standards would make it illegal for brokers to act in the following manner:

—Fail to show any person who has specified his needs and has reasonably indicated his financial qualifications the list and other records identifying all real estate reasonably meeting such needs and qualifications which the broker has access to in the course of business, including any multiple listing.

—Circulate, advertise, display of any communications which states or implies any limitation on or conditions to the sale of any real estate predicated on the race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry of any prospective buyer, lessee, or renter of such or other real estate.

—Fail to show real estate to any person who has reasonably indicated in a manner required of all persons requesting to be shown similar real estate his financial qualifications in relations to said real estate.

—Recommend, solicit or encourage, in any manner, any restrictions upon the listing, showing, sale, leasing, rental, financing, improvement, acquisition of real estate, or to knowingly participate in any discriminatory practice or action relating

Mosquito Control Is Urged

A majority of the mosquitoes seem to be here to stay until other areas around the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District establish their own mosquito abatement, Wilbur Mitchell, district director said at the Elk Grove Village Board of Health meeting Wednesday.

Questions about how mosquito abatement was handled in Elk Grove prompted the meeting with Mitchell.

The Northwest Mosquito Abatement District covers eight townships over a 245 square mile area. This includes 16 towns and villages, 4 airports, 16 golf courses, 113 natural lakes, 11 creeks, 5 drainage ditches, 3 rivers and 48 square miles of forest preserve, Mitchell said.

TRUCKS ARE spraying the district constantly and ponds are covered with an oil film to kill the larvae, he said. But many of the mosquitoes are being blown in from the north, south and west and there's not much we can do about it, he said.

There is no mosquito abatement in DuPage and Lake Counties and none west of Elgin. The forest preserve doesn't allow mosquito abatement either, he said.

WHEN QUESTIONED about the harm done from mosquito spraying Mitchell explained that the district uses no DDT but Malathion, another insecticide.

Most of the harm done from spraying is from spraying done by people themselves, he said. "People can buy chemical sprays which we aren't even allowed to have in our research laboratories," he said.

There are several things people can do to lower the mosquito rate, according to Mitchell. Any standing water should be flushed away within a week, including swimming pools that have standing water around the edges.

Nothing should be thrown in standing water, Mitchell cautioned. "People who throw grass clippings in standing water are inviting mosquitoes."

PEOPLE COULD also encourage surrounding counties to begin mosquito abatement districts, he said.

"Anyone with asthma, heart trouble or allergies can call and request that no spraying be done around their home. The trucks will stop spraying two houses before and begin two houses after a person's home if a resident feels the spraying is not good for their health," Mitchell said.

Rocket Sales, Also, Blast Off

MODEL ROCKET enthusiast Tony Crabtree displays a model that is popular with amateur rocket builders in the area. Sales of the paper and balsa rockets have gone up in recent years, due to increasing interest in the space program.

A button is pressed. The motor ignites and with a "whoosh" the rocket soars upward.

An Apollo shot at Cape Kennedy? No, it's a local amateur rocket enthusiast launching a model rocket.

Tony Crabtree of Tony's Hobby Lobby shop in Wheeling reported that sales of model rockets have gone up in recent years, due to the American and Russian space programs.

"People have been hearing about these missions and have become more interested in space travel and exploration," Crabtree explained. He added that older people as well as youngsters are taking up the hobby.

Crabtree has been building model rockets himself for the past three or four years and has assisted many would-be "rocketeers" in assembling their own models.

LAST JULY 4 THE SHOPS sponsored a rocket launching program for local model rocket buffs at the Wheeling High School football field. The shop, which sponsors the event each year, provided rocket engines, launching pads and ignition systems to those who brought their own rocket.

Crabtree said most model rockets are between six and 42 inches long, can reach speeds of up to 800 miles per hour and heights of 3,000 feet.

He explained that a variety of model rocket kits are now on the market.

"Most models are made of heavy paper and balsa wood and are powered by a motor containing a solid propellant similar to gunpowder but with a controlled burning rate," he said.

"These rockets aren't dangerous in themselves," Crabtree continued. "A lot of people connect rockets with fireworks, but there is no similarity. Rockets can be misused, but they don't explode or misfire. I don't know of anyone in this area who has ever been injured by a model rocket."

CRABTREE SAID A COMMON rocket, such as the 18-inch ones he enjoys building, takes about two hours to assemble and another two hours to sand and paint.

"The smoother the finish is on the rocket, the less friction it will have with the air and the faster it will fly," he said.

The rocket is launched from a wooden tripod launching pad, Crabtree explained. He said that a rocket is ignited when an electrical charge from a battery is sent through a nichrome wire to the rocket engine. The electrical charge makes the metal wire hot, which in turn ignites the solid propellant.

Cotton wadding protects the rest of the rocket from the heat of the engine and a plastic parachute is pushed open by a piston later in the flight to slow down the rocket and enable it to float unharmed to the ground. It can then be shot off again when another engine is inserted in the rocket.

CRABTREE EXPLAINED that a simple model of this type would cost only a few dollars. More elaborate rockets could run as high as $16 and extremely simple ones can be made from a badminton shuttlecock for only 50 cents.

Crabtree said some rockets are now on the market which have two or three engines which fire in stages. Others come with gliders attached to the rocket.

2 Youths Charged With Auto Theft

Two Mount Prospect youths were apprehended Sunday night while driving a stolen car, shortly after the theft was reported to area police.

Palatine police identified the car by its license plates as it was traveling west on Route 14.

When police, driving an unmarked cruiser, curbed the car, the two boys, one 14 and one 16, got out of the car and ran through backyards on Linden Avenue.

The driver was caught with a stolen traffic ticket. The second youth was picked up a block away.

Open Housing Law Proposed

—Cheat exploit or overcharge any person or persons seeking residential housing, or to cause undue expense or hardship to be incurred by same

THE ORDINANCE WOULD not bar any religious institution, or any charitable or educational organization operated, controlled or supervised by a religious institution or authority from limiting living accommodations, or giving preference to persons of the same religions, would it apply to the leasing or renting of rooms to no more than two persons in a single-family dwelling occupied by the household of the owner

It also would not prohibit the owner of a single-family dwelling from determining qualifications required of any prospective purchaser provided that the offer to sell the dwelling is in no way communicated or advertised by any means for which compensation may be offered or rendered and the owner offers for sale no more than one single-family dwelling within the city in any twenty-four month period.

The ordinance would also create a human relations commission, which would seek, through mediation and conciliation, voluntary compliance with the provisions of the ordinance

The commission would be composed of five voting and two nonvoting members, the nonvoting members being the city attorney and representative of the real estate brokers licensed in the city and appointed by the mayor, who would also appoint the five voting members.

COMMISSIONERS WOULD be residents of the city, serve a term of one year, except at the inception of the commission when three commissioners would be appointed for two years.

Commissioners would be eligible for reappointment and would elect one commissioner chairman for one year. The commission would review complaints, notify all parties involved in the complaint, give all persons involved the opportunity to appear before the commission before disposition of the complaint and after it to mediate or conciliate grievances arising from ordinance violations

If necessary, the commission also would seek court action to restrain ordinance violators and would subpoena witnesses, pertinent documents and records.

The ordinance would call for complaints to be filed with the city clerk within 60 days of violations. Complaints would be reviewed and disposition completed within 60 days of filing.

Penalties for violation of the ordinance would be fines of not more than $500 per offense, with each day of violation being considered a separate offense.

Sewer Permit Reaction Mixed

Area township officials are showing mixed attitudes on the Metropolitan Sanitary District's (MSD) proposal to restrict the issuance of sanitary sewer permits.

Under the new ordinance adopted by the MSD board of trustees, sanitary sewer permits would be issued only to municipalities, governmental agencies such as townships, utility companies, or private individuals whose property lies next to an MSD sewer. The plan goes into effect Jan. 1, 1970.

Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said, "I feel it is a genuine service we can provide. I'm hopeful we can get started by Jan. 1"

ELK GROVE TOWNSHIP Supervisor William Rohlwing said of the plan, "Once they (the MSD) go through with it, the townships can take care of it (permit issuance) better than the MSD." He added, "It might work."

Russell Bramwell, an auditor in Palatine Township, said the board of auditors had not yet discussed it. "I would be for it 100 per cent, though," he said. Bramwell said that more than half the land within the township is unincorporated.

And in Schaumburg Township, Vernon Laubenstein, supervisor, said, "The auditors had discussed the MSD proposal at their meeting last month. We consulted with our attorneys and it appeared to us that we have only a limited amount of unincorporated territory."

Laubenstein said that Schaumburg presently planned no participation in the new plan. However, he added that the matter would probably be brought up at another township meeting.

"WE WOULD BE IN the position of hiring engineering talent and getting into the sewer business when there is no immediate need for this," said Laubenstein. He explained that in Schaumburg Township the pattern has been for villages to annex any developed land.

Frederick Juliano, MSD engineer for local sewer systems, said the plan was initiated because the MSD often has problems "hunting down builders and developers of subdivisions" when problems with sanitary sewers arise. "The builders don't seem to understand that once they have a sanitary sewer permit they are forevermore responsible for that sewer unless there is a formal change of responsibility filed in writing with the MSD"

JULIANO SAID THAT in some cases, irate homeowners blame the MSD for sewer breakdowns. He emphasized the MSD only operates large interceptor sewers and treatment plants.

In proposing the new ordinance, the MSD said statutes were in effect that would allow townships to operate their own sanitary sewer systems

Presently two townships in Cook County, Northfield and Leyden, are already doing this.

Wednesday night the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors attended a sewer board meeting at the Northfield Township seeking information on township-operated sewer systems.

Mark Clayton, Northfield Township supervisor, said that under their system when a developer asks for a sewer permit from the township, he is first required to submit plans and specification of the new system.

"WE RETAIN AN ENGINEERING firm which reviews the plans and okay's them," said Clayton. The engineer also is required to inspect the system during its construction.

Clayton said that Northfield actually has two systems: One that was built to replace septic tanks, and a second that was built by a developer and turned over to the township for maintenance. "The developer's system has turned out to be our biggest headache," Clayton said.

The subdivider's system turned out to be inadequate, and the township spent several years trying to get approval to sell bonds.

Clayton said that at first the township had difficulty collecting usage fees. "So we started suing people after they got three fiscal quarters behind in their payments," he said. "Collections are no longer a problem," said Clayton, "because we simply put a lien on their houses."

CLAYTON EMPHASIZED that general township funds cannot be used to pay for the sewer system. When the Northfield Township auditors meet to discuss sewer system problems, they meet as a sewer board

"Inspection of the sewers is the most important aspect of our program," said Clayton.

Mrs. Kolerus said Wheeling Township's next move would be to have Richard Cowen, the township attorney, draw up a list of necessary steps the township must take.

Mrs. Kolerus said she plans to approach Elk Grove, Palatine and Northfield Townships on the possibility of "pooling the engineers and inspection employees"

Rohlwing, of Elk Grove, agreed with Mrs. Kolerus: "I think it would be a good idea because there wouldn't be enough work for an engineer in one township."

To Boast Country Flavor

A country atmosphere is planned for a new development Dawn Gate, being built in Rolling Meadows.

Rolling, wooded terrain and an Early American emphasis will be features of the development said Bob Kennedy, of Kennedy Bros., Northbrook.

Dawn Gate will be similar to the Charmagne development the Kennedy Bros. built in Northbrook, he said.

He said there will be some Spanish, French and English architecture included in the 47 lot community. An additional feature will be two private parking areas for homeowners

Police Lodge Five Charges Against Man

It's the second time around for Eugene A. Hunt and the Rolling Meadows Police.

Two years ago, Hunt, an employee at Arlington Park race track, was issued traffic citations for having no tail lights, no valid auto registration and no drivers license.

Hunt, however, jumped bond and was never brought to court on the charges, according to police. Almost two years to the day, Hunt was issued five tickets July 15 in Rolling Meadows.

THE CHARGES include no valid operators license, improper use of title, no valid registration, failure to transfer registration upon buying an automobile and failure to transfer title

Hunt was unable to post $500 bond and is being held in the Rolling Meadows jail. Even if he did post bond he would be held until Friday under an order issued by Cook County, according to police.

Hunt will not face the charges from two years ago, when he forfeited bond, police said.

If he cannot post bond Friday, he will be bound over to Cook County jail, police said. Hunt's court date has been set for Aug. 26.

Want Street Safer

Palatine residents living along Hart Street want drivers to pass through their neighborhood slowly, so village officials are looking for a way to caution motorists.

A petition from 87 per cent of the homeowners was presented to the village board of trustees this week requesting a reduction of the speed limit and a caution sign for the street.

However, it's not as easy as posting a couple of new signs in the area. Traffic studies and warrants to justify a speed limit reduction are necessary first, according to Village Mgr. Berton Braun.

Furthermore, a "Children Playing" sign has no legal significance.

"As a matter of policy, we have not installed these signs because of the tendency of both parents and children to consider them a guarantee of the street as a safe playground," explained Braun

HOWEVER, RESIDENTS on the block-long street would not give up and explained the necessity of finding some kind of traffic control.

The problem is a bill in the middle of the block which impairs vision for motorists approaching in either direction.

"We feel we have a unique hazard here," said a Hart Street resident, Mrs. Boyd Saum.

She added, "If a car is going just the speed limit (30 miles per hour) coming up that hill and a child darts across the street, the driver would not be able to see him until it's too late."

The board of trustees discussed several different methods of cautioning motorists approaching the hill. Probably the most effective way would be to put a crosswalk in the middle of the longer than average block with warning signs, according to James Bennett, public works director

The board instructed Bennett to meet with residents of the area to find a solution

Nursery Registration On

The First Baptist Church of Palatine is now beginning registration for the fall nursery school session.

This year's session will begin Sept. 8, and will generally follow the public school calendar.

There will be a session for 4-year-olds on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week and sessions for 3-year-olds on Tuesdays and Thursdays. All sessions are from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. Charles Chaney, director of the school, said the sessions will be held in new and enlarged facilities this year. Sessions will meet in the new educational building of the church.

MRS. CHANEY said the school concentrated on general pre-school education, with emphasis on creative activities and group play time.

It is designed, she said, to provide a pleasant and wholesome atmosphere where children can learn basic skills with their hands, can come to enjoy playing and sharing with others and can, with the help of a trained staff, experience personality growth.

Fees for the 3-year-old sessions are $15 monthly and $18 monthly for the 4-year-old sessions. There is an additional $5 fee at registration.

Plan TV Broadcast

HOUSTON — Apollo 11 is on its second day of its history-making trip to the moon after a flawless count down and launch yesterday.

Among the activities planned today for the three Apollo astronauts, Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins, are a second midcourse correction, if necessary and a 15-minute television broadcast about 6:30 p.m.

Fighting Continues

HONDURAS — El Salvador is claiming sweeping advances on all fronts in its war with Honduras. Salvadorean tank-led infantrymen, apparently ignoring a cease-fire order from the Organization of American States were reported advancing as far as 45 miles into Honduras in a drive on the Honduran capital city of Tegucigalpa.

The exact cause of the conflict is not clear, but it is believed to involve land rights between the two countries.

Nixon Calls Holiday

WASHINGTON — Pres. Nixon has asked America to spend next Monday concentrating in a "national day of participation" on the Apollo 11 moon landing mission.

The chief executive ordered government offices closed and urged governors, mayors, school systems and private employers to give the day off to as many people as possible so they can follow the mission.

Military Heads Meet

SAIGON — The three highest ranking U.S. officers concerned with the Vietnam war began secret strategy talks yesterday to help decide whether and how U.S. forces will respond to the lull in Communist attacks.

Arriving aboard separate planes were Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. John S. McCain, commander of all U.S. forces in the Pacific. They joined military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in a series of meetings and field trips.

Bond Set at $25,000

CHICAGO — Jeff Fort, reputed leader of the Black P Stone Nation and two other high-ranking gang officials, were being held late yesterday under $25,000 bond in connection with Tuesday night's ambush of a south side man.

Fort, 22, Charles E. Bey, 25, and Andrew McChristian, 20, all members of the "Main 21" leadership of the Black P Stones, were arrested by Intelligence Unit members of the Chicago police on charges of ambushing Jackie Turner, 22.

Testify to Ignorance

CHICAGO — Illinois Supreme Court Justices Ray L. Klingbiel and Roy J. Solisburg testified yesterday they were unaware that a former state official whose criminal indictment was before the high court had an interest in a bank which they obtained stock.

The two are accused of impropriety in a petition filed by legal researcher Sherman Skolnick which asked the court to reconsider its 1967 ruling that former State Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs could not be prosecuted on conflict of interest charges.

Housing Law Proposed

by BOB ZANIC

A proposed open-housing ordinance that would regulate the conduct of real estate transactions, provide remedies and penalties for violations of regulations and create a Human Relations Commission will be presented to the Rolling Meadows City Council Tuesday.

The ordinance is proposed to the city council by the Rolling Meadows Human Relations Council.

David Sundling, Human Relations Council president, said the ordinance provides "home rule housing legislation."

"I believe the community should handle its own problems and should have this ordinance on the books," he said.

THE ORDINANCE lists standards of conduct for real estate brokers, who must be licensed by the city. The standards would make it illegal for brokers to act in the following manner:

—Fail to show any person who has specified his needs and has reasonably indicated his financial qualifications the list and other records identifying all real estate reasonably meeting such needs and qualifications which the broker has access to in the course of business, including any multiple listing.

—Circulate, advertise, display of any communications which states or implies any limitation on or conditions to the sale of any real estate predicated on the race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry of any prospective buyer, lessee, or renter of such or other real estate.

—Fail to show real estate to any person who has reasonably indicated in a manner required of all persons requesting to be shown similar real estate his financial qualifications in relations to said real estate.

—Recommend, solicit or encourage, in any manner, any restrictions upon the listing, showing, sale, leasing, rental, financing, improvement, acquisition of real estate, or to knowingly participate in any discriminatory practice or action relating

CONSCIENTIOUS STUDENTS are the ones who join the summer school instrumental music program, says George Huffman, Dist. 15 instrumental music teacher. Individual attention is given to elementary school students who sign up for the five-week study and practice session. This week, the last one of summer school, students practiced in full-band sessions for tonight's three performances at Winston Churchill, Plum Grove, and Carl Sandburg schools.

3 Concerts Set Tonight

Five weeks of study and practice in summer school will end tonight for more than 250 elementary school students participating in the Dist. 15 summer enrichment program. They will perform in three summer concerts at Winston Churchill, Plum Grove, and Carl Sandburg schools.

Students in fourth through eighth grades have rehearsed an hour each day in both small group and full band practices. About one-half of the students in the regular school instrumental program are participating in the summer program.

THIS SUMMER is the second year for a summer program for string instruments. Directed by Miss Elizabeth Losch, district director, a 25-string orchestra will perform with beginning and advanced bands in the program at Carl Sandburg school at 8 p.m. George Yingst will direct the band and a cornet trio.

At Winston Churchill school, students from the Winston Park area will perform in ensembles and combined band at 7:30 p.m. with George Huffman directing.

Palatine area students will perform in an intermediate and concert band at the Plum Grove school at 7 p.m. The bands, made up of students from the summer programs at Gray M. Sanborn school and Plum Grove school, will be directed by Sam Malambri and Neil Benson. The program will also feature a brass and woodwind ensemble.

Trails Building Bids To Be Opened Aug. 14

The River Trails Park District will open bids Aug. 14 on the construction of a combination office and recreation center at Burning Trails Park, Euclid Avenue and Lee Street.

It was erroneously reported in Monday's Herald that bids would be opened July 18.

The proposed building will include the park district offices, storage space and two multi-purpose rooms. A large room, including kitchen facilities, will be designed to accommodate group activities.

BATON TWIRLING ISN'T supposed to be painful, but the expressions on the faces of Punkie Rochelleau, left, 3, and Sheila Kozak, 4, indicate that it isn't all that easy or fun. The young ladies are participating in a Rolling Meadows Park District program.

Park Case Dropped

A petition to dissolve the Palatine Rural Park District was dismissed in Circuit Court yesterday.

Dismissal of the case was requested by Roger Bjorvik, attorney for more than 100 homeowners in Rolling Meadows and Palatine who originally sought dissolution of the district.

Action to dissolve the district primarily was started because homeowners within its boundaries were interested in joining either the Palatine or Rolling Meadows Park Districts.

Before that can happen, official disannexation from the Palatine Rural Park District must be accomplished.

"Because rural park board members have agreed to take prompt action on the disannexation cases, homeowners decided it no longer was necessary to press for dissolution," Bjorvik said.

SIGNATURES from people living in Banbury Lane and Pebbie Creek of Palatine and Creekside and Forest Estates of Rolling Meadows were attached to the petition.

The group charged the Palatine Rural Park District board of commissioners with several violations of Illinois statute which are given as just cause for dissolution in the code.

Pending since April 1, the court case was postponed until yesterday when park board members indicated they were willing to take speedy action to disannex the subdivisions.

In the meantime, two residents of the subdivision involved in the petition unseated incumbent board members in the April election.

When the subdivisions disannexed, both Patrick Gilligan and John Scollay no longer will be eligible for the park board and two new members will be appointed.

OTHER subdivisions seeking disannexation from the rural district include Cannongate, Cambridge, Hunting Ridge and Kenilwicke.

Another site involved was Palatine Hills Golf Course owned by the Palatine Park District and within the boundaries of the rural park district. In March a disannexation petition was presented to the board, but no action was taken.

Blame Outside Bug

A majority of the mosquitoes seem to be here to stay until other areas around the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District establish their own mosquito abatement, Wilbur Mitchell, district director said at the Elk Grove Village Board of Health meeting Wednesday.

Questions about how mosquito abatement was handled in Elk Grove prompted the meeting with Mitchell.

The Northwest Mosquito Abatement District covers eight townships over a 245 square mile area. This includes 16 towns and villages, 4 airports, 16 golf courses, 113 natural lakes, 11 creeks, 5 drainage ditches, 3 rivers and 48 square miles of forest preserve, Mitchell said.

TRUCKS ARE spraying the district constantly and ponds are covered with an oil film to kill the larvae, he said. But many of the mosquitoes are being blown in from the north, south and west and there's not much we can do about it, he said.

There is no mosquito abatement in DuPage and Lake Counties and none west of Elgin. The forest preserve doesn't allow mosquito abatement either, he said.

WHEN QUESTIONED about the harm done from mosquito spraying Mitchell explained that the district uses no DDT but Malathion, another insecticide.

Most of the harm done from spraying is from spraying done by people themselves, he said. "People can buy chemical sprays which we aren't even allowed to have in our research laboratories," he said.

There are several things people can do to lower the mosquito rate, according to Mitchell. Any standing water should be flushed away within a week, including swimming pools that have standing water around the edges.

Nothing should be thrown in standing water, Mitchell cautioned. "People who throw grass clippings in standing water are inviting mosquitoes."

PEOPLE COULD also encourage surrounding counties to begin mosquito abatement districts, he said.

"Anyone with asthma, heart trouble or allergies can call and request that no spraying be done around their home. The trucks will stop spraying two houses before and begin two houses after a person's home if a resident feels the spraying is not good for their health," Mitchell said.

Rocket Sales, Also, Blast Off

MODEL ROCKET enthusiast Tony Crabtree displays a model that is popular with amateur rocket builders in the area. Sales of the paper and balsa rockets have gone up in recent years, due to increasing interest in the space program.

A button is pressed. The motor ignites and with a "whoosh" the rocket soars upward.

An Apollo shot at Cape Kennedy? No, it's a local amateur rocket enthusiast launching a model rocket.

Tony Crabtree of the Hobby Lobby shop in Wheeling reported that sales of model rockets have gone up in recent years, due to the American and Russian space programs.

"People have been hearing about these missions and have become more interested in space travel and exploration," Crabtree explained. He added that older people as well as youngsters are taking up the hobby.

Crabtree has been building model rockets himself for past three or four years and has assisted many would-be "rocketeers" in assembling their own models.

LAST JULY 4 THE SHOPS sponsored a rocket launching program for local model rocket buffs at the Wheeling High School football field. The shop, which sponsors the event each year, provided rocket engines, launching pads and ignition systems to those who brought their own rocket.

Crabtree said most model rockets are between six and 42 inches long, can reach speeds of up to 800 miles per hour and heights of 3,000 feet.

He explained that a variety of model rocket kits are now on the market.

"Most models are made of heavy paper and balsa wood and are powered by a motor containing a solid propellant similar to gunpowder but with a controlled burning rate," he said.

"These rockets aren't dangerous on themselves," Crabtree continued. "A lot of people connect rockets with fireworks, but there is no similarity. Rockets can be misused, but they don't explode or misfire. I don't know of anyone in this area who has ever been injured by a model rocket."

CRABTREE SAID A COMMON rocket, such as the 18-inch ones he enjoys building, takes about two hours to assemble and another two hours to sand and paint.

"The smoother the finish is on the rocket, the less friction it will have with the air and the faster it will fly," he said.

The rocket is launched from a wooden tri-pod launching pad, Crabtree explained. He said that a rocket is ignited when an electrical charge from a battery is sent through a nichrome wire to the rocket engine. The electrical charge makes the metal wire hot, which in turn ignites the solid propellant.

Cotton wadding protects the rest of the rocket from the heat of the engine and a plastic parachute is pushed open by a piston later in the flight to slow down the rocket and enable it to float unharmed to the ground. It can then be shot off again when another engine is inserted in the rocket.

CRABTREE EXPLAINED that a simple model of this type would cost only a few dollars. More elaborate rockets could run as high as $16 and extremely simple ones can be made from a badminton shuttlecock for only 50 cents.

Crabtree said some rockets are now on the market which have two or three engines which fire in stages. Others come with gliders attached to the rocket.

2 Youths Charged With Auto Theft

Two Mount Prospect youths were apprehended Sunday night while driving a stolen car, shortly after the theft was reported to area police.

Palatine police identified the car by its license plates as it was traveling west on Route 14.

When police, driving an unmarked cruiser, curbed the car, the two boys, one 14 and one 16, got out of the car and ran through backyards on Linden Avenue.

The driver was caught with a stolen traffic ticket. The second youth was picked up a block away.

Former Smokers Give Reply

by JOAN KLUSSMAN
"I thought my head would blow off." This statement, together with dizziness, nausea and nervousness were listed as withdrawal symptoms by those who successfully conquered cigarettes after attending a Northwest Community Hospital clinic.

United by a single desire, about 150 residents attended the four-week "Stop Smoking Clinics" sponsored by the hospital early this year. Questionnaires sent to the first two groups in May brought responses from one-third of those attending. One-third of those responding won their battle. Unanimous in their praise of the clinic's purpose and format, most individuals who are still clutching cigarettes admit to poor will power. Others listed weight gain, stress, boredom and a strong craving for a cigarette following meals as reasons they have not been able to cease smoking.

ONE WOMAN, who stopped and resumed, said her husband still smoked and his cigarettes and ashtrays proved too tempting. The couple factor may be important — one man and wife stopped on the same day, some weeks after the session ended.

Another hopeful who tried in vain to stop said that whenever she thought of the graphic pictures shown at clinic sessions she crushed out the cigarette she was currently smoking.

The clinics, held once a week, featured talks by hospital physicians, a psychiatrist, X-ray demonstrations and films. Those attending were not asked to stop smoking at a particular time, but were presented with the correlation of lung cancer and other diseases to smoking.

IN THE PERSONAL opinion section of the questionnaire, one resident asked for a special session for dropouts and another asked for longer and additional programs.

One man even sent the Cancer Society a gift. He had found a special dial which could be used to control the amount of smoke inhaled. The percentage not wanted escaped into the air.

Open Housing Law Proposed

—Cheer, explicit or overcharge any person or persons seeking residential housing, or to cause undue expense or hardship to be incurred by same.

THE ORDINANCE WOULD not bar any religious institution, or any charitable or educational organization operated, controlled or supervised by a religious institution or authority, from limiting living accommodations, or giving preference to persons of the same religions, would it apply to the leasing or renting of rooms to no more than two persons in a single-family dwelling occupied by the household of the owner.

It also would not prohibit the owner of a single-family dwelling from determining qualifications required of any prospective purchaser provided that the offer to sell the dwelling is in no way communicated or advertised by any means for which compensation may be offered or rendered and the owner offers for sale no more than one single-family dwelling within the city in any twenty-four month period.

The ordinance would also create a human relations commission, which would seek, through mediation and conciliation, voluntary compliance with the provisions of the ordinance.

The commission would be composed of five voting and two nonvoting members, the nonvoting members being the city attorney and representative of the real estate brokers licensed in the city and appointed by the mayor, who would also appoint the five voting members.

COMMISSIONERS WOULD be residents of the city, serve a term of one year, except at the inception of the commission when three commissioners would be appointed for two years.

Commissioners would be eligible for reappointment and would elect one commissioner chairman for one year. The commission would review complaints, notify all parties involved in the complaint, give all persons involved the opportunity to appear before the commission before disposition of the complaint and attempt to mediate or conciliate grievances arising from ordinance violations.

If necessary, the commission also would seek court action to restrain ordinance violators and would subpoena witnesses, pertinent documents and records.

The ordinance would call for complaints to be filed with the city clerk within 60 days of violations. Complaints would be reviewed and disposition completed within 60 days of filing.

Penalties for violation of the ordinance would be fines of not more than $500 per offense, with each day of violation being considered a separate offense.

To Boast Country Flavor

A country atmosphere is planned for a new development, Dawn Gate, being built in Rolling Meadows.

Rolling, wooded terrain and an Early American emphasis will be features of the development said Bob Kennedy, of Kennedy Bros., Northbrook.

Dawn Gate will be similar to the Charmagne development the Kennedy Bros.

built in Northbrook, he said.

He said there will be some Spanish, French and English architecture included in the 47 lot community. An additional feature will be two private parking areas for homeowners.

The three to six bedroom homes will be in the $58,000 to $70,000 price range. Model homes are scheduled to be open in the fall.

Kennedy said other features include garden kitchens, patios, two car or larger garages.

Building materials will emphasize brick, cedar and aluminum, he said.

The land was purchased from Frank Petralito, a Chicago Realtor.

Tom LaDore of Jack L. Kemmerly Real Estate, Palatine, handled the transaction.

Kemmerly said Dawn Gate is among the first planned developments in the northwest suburbs. No two houses will be the same distance from the street, and no two will look alike, he said.

He said the parks would be under the supervision of a homeowner's association. Kemmerly said that people are looking for individuality and the Kennedys recognize this need in planning Dawn Gate.

Police Lodge Five Charges Against Man

It's the second time around for Eugene A. Hunt and the Rolling Meadows police.

Two years ago, Hunt, an employee at Arlington Park race track, was issued traffic citations for having no tail lights, no valid auto registration and no drivers license.

Hunt, however, jumped bond and was never brought to court on the charges, according to police. Almost two years to the day, Hunt was issued five tickets July 15 in Rolling Meadows.

In proposing the new ordinance, the MSD said statutes were in effect that would allow townships to operate their own sanitary sewer systems.

Presently two townships in Cook County, Northfield and Leyden, are already doing this.

Wednesday night the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors attended a sewer board meeting at the Northfield Township seeking information on township-operated sewer systems.

Mark Clayton, Northfield Township supervisor, said that under their system when a developer asks for a sewer permit from the township, he is first required to submit plans and specification of the new system.

"WE RETAIN AN ENGINEERING firm which reviews the plans and okays them," said Clayton. The engineer also is required to inspect the system during its construction.

Clayton said that Northfield actually has two systems: One that was built to replace septic tanks, and a second that was built by a developer and turned over to the township for maintenance. "The developer's system has turned out to be our biggest headache," Clayton said.

The subdividers' system turned out to be inadequate, and the township spent several years trying to get approval to sell bonds.

Clayton said that at first the township had difficulty collecting usage fees. "So we started suing people after they got three fiscal quarters behind in their payments," he said. "Collections are no longer a problem," said Clayton, "because we simply put a lien on their houses."

CLAYTON EMPHASIZED that general township funds cannot be used to pay for the sewer system. When the Northfield Township auditors meet to discuss sewer system problems, they meet as a sewer board.

"Inspection of the sewers is the most important aspect of our program," said Clayton.

Mrs. Kolerus said Wheeling Township's next move would be to have Richard Cowen, the township attorney, draw up a list of necessary steps the township must take.

Mrs. Kolerus said she plans to approach Elk Grove, Palatine and Northfield Townships on the possibility of "pooling the engineers and inspection employees."

Rohlfing, of Elk Grove, agreed with Mrs. Kolerus: "I think it would be a good idea because there wouldn't be enough work for an engineer in one township."

Plan TV Broadcast

HOUSTON — Apollo 11 is on its second day of its history-making trip to the moon after a flawless count down and launch yesterday.

Among the activities planned today for the three Apollo astronauts, Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins, are a second midcourse correction, if necessary and a 15-minute television broadcast about 6:30 p.m.

Fighting Continues

HONDURAS — El Salvador is claiming sweeping advances on all fronts in its war with Honduras. Salvadorean tank-led infantrymen, apparently ignoring a cease-fire order from the Organization of American States were reported advancing as far as 45 miles into Honduras in a drive on the Honduran capital city of Tegucigalpa.

The exact cause of the conflict is not clear, but it is believed to involve land rights between the two countries.

Nixon Calls Holiday

WASHINGTON — Pres. Nixon has asked America to spend next Monday concentrating in a "national day of participation" on the Apollo 11 moon landing mission.

The chief executive ordered government offices closed and urged governors, mayors, school systems and private employers to give the day off to as many people as possible so they can follow the mission.

Military Heads Meet

SAIGON — The three highest ranking U.S. officers concerned with the Vietnam war began secret strategy talks yesterday to help decide whether and how U.S. forces will respond to the lull in Communist attacks.

Arriving aboard separate planes were Gen. Charles G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. John S. McCain, commander of all U.S. forces in the Pacific. They joined military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in a series of meetings and field trips.

Bond Set at $25,000

CHICAGO — Jeff Fort reputed leader of the Black P. Stone Nation and two other high-ranking gang officials, were being held late yesterday under $25,000 bond in connection with Tuesday night's ambush of a south side man.

Fort, 22, Charles E. Bey, 25, and Andrew McChristian, 20, all members of the "Main 21" leadership of the Black P. Stones, were arrested by Intelligence Unit members of the Chicago police on charges of ambushing Jackie Turner, 22.

Testify to Ignorance

CHICAGO — Illinois Supreme Court Justices Ray J. Klinebier and Roy J. Solisburg testified yesterday they were unaware that a former state official whose criminal indictment was before the high court had an interest in a bank which they obtained stock.

The two are accused of impropriety in a petition filed by legal researcher Sherman Skolnick which asked the court to reconsider its 1967 ruling that former State Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs could not be prosecuted on conflict of interest charges.

Northfield Hears 13th Contenders

Needless government spending, the Vietnam war, ABM and inflation were the issues that 13th District Congressional candidates took to Northfield Township Wednesday night.

Eleven of the 12 GOP hopefuls campaigned ten intensive minutes before about 150 people in a second GOP township candidate's night.

Although endorsement by the Northfield Township GOP organization was to hinge on presentation, candidates spoke, knowing the local bid will surely go to Sam

Young, Northfield Township committeeman.

THE NEW TRIER Township GOP organization has already endorsed a candidate — Alan Johnston of Kenilworth.

Young, the last candidate to speak, was hardly applauded by the audience, although it was generous to all 11 candidates during a hot, rather routine two-hour session.

Only Brian Duff, Wilmette, was absent. The expected endorsement of Sam Young from his own organization was significant because he might be considered for endorsement in the three Western townships — Schaumburg, Palatine and Elk Grove.

Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights, the only candidate from the four western townships, is likely to get Wheeling Township's endorsement.

SCHLICKMAN Wednesday night came out against the proposed deployment of the ABM system. Just back from a trip to Washington, D.C., he listed components of the ABM system which have not been tested or proved workable.

Yale Roe, of Winnetka, provided spice in the evening by setting the audience to uneasy stirring as he spoke to positions considered liberal on Vietnam and military spending.

HE DREW SOME gasps by criticizing such Republican traditions as Sen. Everett Dirksen.

Roe clashed politely with candidate Phil Crane, formerly of Lake County, who said savings should be made in the area of domestic spending.

Other candidates speaking were Joseph Mathewson of Winnetka, Gerald Marks of Wilmette, Johnston of Kenilworth, John Nimrod of Skokie, David Roe of Glenview, Yale Roe, Young, Crane, Alban Weber of Evanston and Schlickman.

Blame Outside Bug

A majority of the mosquitoes seem to be here to stay until other areas around the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District establish their own mosquito abatement, Wilbur Mitchell, district director said at the Elk Grove Village Board of Health meeting Wednesday.

Questions about how mosquito abatement was handled in Elk Grove prompted the meeting with Mitchell.

The Northwest Mosquito Abatement District covers eight townships over a 245 square mile area. This includes 16 towns and villages, 4 airports, 16 golf courses, 113 natural lakes, 11 creeks, 5 drainage ditches, 3 rivers and 48 square miles of forest preserve, Mitchell said.

TRUCKS ARE spraying the district constantly and ponds are covered with an oil film to kill the larvae, he said. But many of the mosquitoes are being blown in from the north, south and west and there's not much we can do about it, he said.

There is no mosquito abatement in DuPage and Lake Counties and none west of Elgin. The forest preserve doesn't allow mosquito abatement either, he said.

WHEN QUESTIONED about the harm done from mosquito spraying Mitchell explained that the district uses no DDT but Malathion, another insecticide.

Most of the harm done from spraying is from spraying done by people themselves, he said. "People can buy chemical sprays which we aren't even allowed to have in our research laboratories," he said.

There are several things people can do to lower the mosquito rate, according to Mitchell. Any standing water should be flushed away within a week, including swimming pools that have standing water around the edges.

Nothing should be thrown in standing water, Mitchell cautioned. "People who throw grass clippings in standing water are inviting mosquitoes."

PEOPLE COULD also encourage surrounding counties to begin mosquito abatement districts, he said.

"Anyone with asthma, heart trouble or allergies can call and request that no spraying be done around their home. The trucks will stop spraying two houses before and begin two houses after a person's home if a resident feels the spraying is not good for their health," Mitchell said.

Time to Pay Property Tax

Personal property taxes come to everyone, especially township office holders and VIPs.

A survey of Elk Grove Township personal property roles show that most local officials are getting billed for the unpopular tax. Although their names are listed at the local office, each property owner still has some time left to pay their taxes to the Cook County Collector's office.

Some of the names on the tax rolls are: George R. Busse, township clerk — $18.59 tax on $215 assessed valuation.

Ronald L. Bradley, township highway commissioner — $12.97 on $120.

RICHARD M. HALL, township auditor — $36.18 on $375.

Charles Hodlmaier, township assessor — $73.22 on $806.

Bernard F. Lee township auditor — $44.63 on $190.

Arthur M. Stevens, township auditor — $172.70 on $2025.

Arnold Scharringhausen, township collector — $57.95 on $625.

David J. Regner, state representative — $10.04 on $110.

Jack Pahl, Elk Grove village mayor — $27.74 on $305.

Robert Teichert, Mount Prospect mayor — no figures listed.

Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township GOP committeeman — $35.03 on $385.

WILLIAM ROHLWING, Elk Grove Township supervisor — $27.74 on $305.

The deadline for payment of the personal property tax was July 1, but the bills can still be paid directly to the Cook County Collector's office in Chicago.

Sewer Permit Reaction Mixed

Area township officials are showing mixed attitudes on the Metropolitan Sanitary District's (MSD) proposal to restrict the issuance of new sewer permits.

Under the new ordinance adopted by the MSD board of trustees, sanitary sewer permits would be issued only to municipalities, governmental agencies such as townships, utility companies, or private individuals whose property lies next to an MSD sewer. The plan goes into effect Jan. 1, 1970.

Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said, "I feel it is a genuine service we can provide. I'm hopeful we can get started by Jan. 1."

ELK GROVE TOWNSHIP Supervisor William Rohlwing said of the plan, "Once they (the MSD) go through with it, the townships can take care of it (permit issuance) better than the MSD." He added, "It might work."

Russell Bramwell, an auditor in Palatine Township, said the board of auditors had not yet discussed it. "I would be for it 100 per cent, though," he said. Bramwell said that more than half the land within the township is unincorporated.

And in Schaumburg Township, Vernon Laubenstein, supervisor, said, "The auditors had discussed the MSD proposal at their meeting last month. We consulted with our attorneys and it appeared to us that we have only a limited amount of unincorporated territory."

Laubenstein said that Schaumburg presently planned no participation in the new plan. However, he added that the matter would probably be brought up at another township meeting.

"WE WOULD BE IN the position of hiring engineering talent and getting into the sewer business when there is no immediate need for this," said Laubenstein. He explained that in Schaumburg Township the pattern has been for villages to annex any developed land.

Fredrick Juliano, MSD engineer for local sewer systems, said the plan was initiated because the MSD often has problems "hunting down builders and developers of subdivisions" when problems with sanitary sewers arise. "The builders don't seem to understand that once they have a sanitary sewer permit they are forever more responsible for that sewer unless there is a formal change of responsibility filed in writing with the MSD."

JULIANO SAID THAT in some cases, irate homeowners blame the MSD for sewer breakdowns. He emphasized the MSD only operates large interceptor sewers and treatment plants.

In proposing the new ordinance, the MSD said statutes were in effect that would allow townships to operate their own sanitary sewer systems.

Presently two townships in Cook County, Northfield and Leyden, are already doing this.

Wednesday night the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors attended a sewer board meeting at the Northfield Township seeking information on township-operated sewer systems.

Mark Clayton, Northfield Township supervisor, said that under their system when a developer asks for a sewer permit from the township, he is first required to submit plans and specification of the new system.

"WE RETAIN AN ENGINEERING firm which reviews the plans and okay's them," said Clayton. The engineer also is required to inspect the system during its construction.

Clayton said that Northfield actually has two systems: One that was built to replace

PREPARATIONS for the Miss Illinois Pageant in Aurora including shopping, packing, reviewing the schedule, and of course, practicing. Miss Mount Prospect, Nancy Wangerin, finds that smiling for the camera is also a big part of a beauty queen's life.

Area Miss Is Set

Miss Mount Prospect "can't wait to get going" in the Miss Illinois Pageant which opens Sunday in Aurora.

Nancy Wangerin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Wangerin, 14 N. Louis, won the local Jaycees-sponsored contest four weeks ago in three phases of competition — swimsuit, evening gown and talent. She has spent the past week preparing for her second step on the way to the Miss America title.

Miss Wangerin will perform a Chopin waltz in E-minor for her piano solo in the talent competition, when she will also appear in a shocking pink formal that she made. Her evening gown is a chartreuse linen that accents her green eyes and brown hair.

"WE WILL BE doing something every minute," she said, looking over a morning-to-night schedule that "plans the whole week out" for the forty contestants from all over the state.

The girls will be divided into three groups, and will appear in one phase of competition on each of three preliminary nights of competition. This Saturday night finale will be televised at 8 p.m. on Channel 9. Much of the girl's time in Aurora will be spent rehearsing the production numbers for the show.

"People say 'isn't this glamorous' but it's not all glamor, it's a lot of hard work," the local queen said.

Miss Wangerin will appear in the talent preliminaries on the Friday of pageant week. She hopes "that a bunch of people will be able to come down" for her performance. The Jaycees are sponsoring a bus to Aurora, according to president Ken Scholten. Information is available by calling 437-2805.

ACCOMPANYING Miss Mount Prospect to the state finals is her chaperone, Mrs. Terrence Frakes, who will be "giving Nancy moral support and helping in any way possible."

Winning the Miss Illinois title is a dream for the present Miss Mount Prospect, but for her, it is secondary to "just going and having a good time." Her first goal, she says, is "representing the people of Mount Prospect the best I can."

Teachers Support Neuhauser

A group of teachers in school Dist. 59 have formed an organization aimed at electing Paul Neuhauser to the board of education, a spokesman has announced.

According to Toni Schmidt of Des Plaines, a group called Teachers for Neuhauser held its second meeting July 10.

"ALL DIST. 59 voting areas were repre-

Rocket Sales, Also, Blast Off

A button is pressed. The motor ignites and with a "whoosh" the rocket soars upward.

An Apollo shot at Cape Kennedy? No, it's a local amateur rocket enthusiast launching a model rocket.

Tony Crabtree of Tony's Hobby Lobby shop in Wheeling reported that sales of model rockets have gone up in recent years, due to the American and Russian space programs.

"People have been hearing about these missions and have become more interested in space travel and exploration," Crabtree explained. He added that older people as well as youngsters are taking up the hobby.

Crabtree has been building model rockets himself for the past three or four years and has assisted many would-be "rocketeers" in assembling their own models.

LAST JULY 4 THE SHOPS sponsored a rocket launching program for local model rocket buffs at the Wheeling High School football field. The shop, which sponsors the event each year, provided rocket engines, launching pads and ignition systems to those who brought their own rocket.

Crabtree said most model rockets are between six and 42 inches long, can reach speeds of up to 800 miles per hour and heights of 3,000 feet.

He explained that a variety of model rocket kits are now on the market.

"Most models are made of heavy paper and balsa wood and are powered by a motor containing a solid propellant similar to gunpowder but with a controlled burning rate," he said.

"These rockets aren't dangerous in themselves," Crabtree continued. "A lot of people connect rockets with fireworks, but there is no similarity. Rockets can be misused, but they don't explode or misfire. I don't know of anyone in this area who has ever been injured by a model rocket."

CRABTREE SAID A COMMON rocket, such as the 18-inch ones he enjoys building, takes about two hours to assemble and another two hours to sand and paint.

"The smoother the finish is on the rocket, the less friction it will have with the air and the faster it will fly," he said.

The rocket is launched from a wooden tripod launching pad, Crabtree explained. He said that a rocket is ignited when an electrical charge from a battery is sent through a nichrome wire to the rocket engine. The electrical charge makes the metal wire hot, which in turn ignites the solid propellant.

Cotton wadding protects the rest of the rocket from the heat of the engine and a plastic parachute is pushed open by a piston later in the flight to slow down the rocket and enable it to float unharmed to the ground. It can then be shot off again when another engine is inserted in the rocket.

CRABTREE EXPLAINED that a simple model of this type would cost only a few dollars. More elaborate rockets could run as high as $16 and extremely simple ones can be made from a badminton shuttlecock for only 50 cents.

Crabtree said some rockets are now on the market which have two or three engines which fire in stages. Others come with gliders attached to the rocket.

MODEL ROCKET enthusiast Tony Crabtree displays a model that is popular with amateur rocket builders in the area. Sales of the paper and balsa rockets have gone up in recent years, due to increasing interest in the space program.

Park Offer Attracts Banking Barons

by GERRY DE ZONNA
The Mount Prospect Park District came one step closer this week to fulfilling a goal which they set months ago.

The Northern Trust Co. of Chicago purchased the bonds to finance the park district's $2.4 million referendum which was approved by the voters last February.

At a 2 p.m. downtown bid opening, the list of interested buyers for the bonds read like a page out of Who's Who in the financial world.

More than 30 buyers gathered in the swank Syndicate Room at the First National Bank of Chicago to present their sealed bids on the Mount Prospect account.

Such banking barons as The Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Continental Illinois National Bank, and First National Bank of Chicago competed for a business deal in which hundreds of points made the only difference.

ACCOUNTANTS FOR the Northern Trust Co. had sharpened their pencils to the finest points. They were the lowest bidders with a 5.73 per cent net interest rate and a net interest cost of $1,256,692 extended over a 14-year period.

Northern Trust's closest competition was offered by Halsey, Stuart and Company, Inc., with a net interest rate of 5.78 per cent. The Harris Trust and Savings Bank bid 5.78 per cent on the bonds while Continental Illinois and First National bid 5.80 per cent and 5.82 per cent respectively.

"The park district received an excellent response from the market," said Frank Foster, bond consultant representative with Howard Voss Associates. "The bidding was competitive and of a high quality. I'm very satisfied with the lowest bid offered by Northern Trust, especially since these were the first bonds sold under the new 7 per cent state interest rate."

FOSTER, who handled the sale of the park district bonds, said that Mount Prospect has a good reputation on the municipal bond market. "The park district has an A-1 financial rating which can make a lot of difference on the market," he said. "Every bidder takes into account the financial index and bases his bid accordingly."

"The financial rating indicates to what extent the residents are burdened with municipal taxes. If a village shows any remote possibility of becoming overburdened, then it becomes a bad risk to any buyer."

"Mount Prospect has a good reputation as a financial stronghold in the Northwest suburban area. The stability of the community attracted many bidders, and besides the park district investment is sure to triple in value in the next 10 years," Foster said.

THE PARK DISTRICT expects to retire

the bonds within 14 years which Foster termed as "an aggressive departure from tradition." Most taxing bodies usually spread their bonds over a 20-year period in an effort to keep homeowners' tax rates as low as possible.

"Although a homeowner may pay a lower annual tax on the bonds," Foster said, "he inevitably winds up paying more in the long run because the tax is spread over a 20-year period."

"The park district will be saving residents almost $300,000 by retiring the bonds within 14 years rather than the traditional 20 years. This is aggressive financial planning which would benefit many school districts who are hung up with floating 20-year payments," he said.

The park district can expect a check for $2.5 million from Northern Trust by late August. It usually takes 30 to 40 days after the sale of the bonds to complete all the paper work.

COUNTY OFFICIALS will compute the tax rate to be levied beginning in 1972. If the park district does not purchase the controversial West Park site from Salvatore DiMucci, the bonds issued to finance the purchase of the property valued at $325,000 may be cancelled, Foster said.

If the money allocated by the referendum to purchase the land for the new park is not used, the tax rate will be adjusted to compensate for the decrease in park spending.

Former Smokers Give Reply

by JOAN KLUSMAN

"I thought my head would blow off." This statement, together with dizziness, nausea and nervousness were listed as withdrawal symptoms by those who successfully conquered cigarettes after attending a Northwest Community Hospital clinic.

United by a single desire, about 150 residents attended the four-week "Stop Smoking Clinics" sponsored by the hospital early this year. Questionnaires sent to the first two groups in May brought responses from one-third of those attending. One-third of those responding won their battle.

Unanimous in their praise of the clinic's purpose and format, most individuals who are still clutching cigarettes admit to poor will power. Others listed weight gain, stress, boredom and a strong craving for a cigarette following meals as reasons they have not been able to cease smoking.

ONE WOMAN, who stopped and resumed, said her husband still smoked and his cigarettes and ashtrays proved too tempting. The couple factor may be important — one man and wife stopped on the same day, some weeks after the session ended.

Another hopeful who tried in vain to stop said that whenever she thought of the graphic pictures shown at clinic sessions she crushed out the cigarette she was currently smoking.

The clinics, held once a week, featured talks by hospital physicians, a psychiatrist, X-ray demonstrations and films. Those attending were not asked to stop smoking at a particular time, but were presented with the correlation of lung cancer and other diseases to smoking.

IN THE PERSONAL opinion section of the questionnaire, one resident asked for a special session for dropouts and another asked for longer and additional programs.

One man even sent the Cancer Society a gift. He had found a special dial which could be used to control the amount of smoke inhaled. The percentage not wanted escaped into the air.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Thursday, July 17, the 198th day of 1969 with 167 to follow. The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter. On this day in history:

In 1936 the Spanish Civil War began with Gen. Francisco Franco leading army troops against the government.

In 1948 southern Democrats from 13 states organized a States' Rights party to oppose the regular Truman-Barkley ticket. They wrote a presidential ticket headed by Strom Thurmond.

In 1955 Arco, Idaho, a town of some 1,300 people, became the first community in the world to receive all its light and power from atomic energy.

In 1966 a National Airlines jetliner with 64 aboard was hijacked to Cuba.

Real Estate Transfers

The Kroger Co., Inc. purchased the property at 1910 Lillian Lane, Arlington Heights, from Donald E. Phillips for $47,000.

The purchase was announced in the latest monthly Wheeling Township real estate transfer report from County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen.

There were 63 sales in Arlington Heights, 17 in Mount Prospect, 11 in Prospect Heights, nine in Buffalo Grove one in Des Plaines, and nine in Wheeling and the rest of the township.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1.00 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

The transfers are: 725 S. CHESTNUT, Arlington Heights, William E. Phares to Elmer E. Schmoldt, RS$32.50; 1145 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights, Robert D. Bright to Robert J. Fata, RS$28; 631 S. ## The Lower World At Sidewalk Days

The "Lower World," a band from Prospect High School, will perform at the Arlington Heights Sidewalk Days Talented Teens Show at 8 p.m. July 25.

2 Youths Charged With Auto Theft

Two Mount Prospect youths were apprehended Sunday night while driving a stolen car, shortly after the theft was reported to area police.

Palatine police identified the car by its license plates as it was traveling west on Route 13.

When police, driving an unmarked cruiser, curbed the car, the two boys, one 14 and one 16, got out of the car and ran through backyards on Linden Avenue.

The driver was caught with a stolen traffic ticket. The second youth was picked up a block away.

Plan TV Broadcast

HOUSTON — Apollo 11 is on its second day of its history-making trip to the moon after a flawless count down and launch yesterday.

Among the activities planned today for the three Apollo astronauts, Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins, are a second midcourse correction, if necessary and a 15-minute television broadcast about 6:30 p.m.

Fighting Continues

HONDURAS — El Salvador is claiming sweeping advances on all fronts in its war with Honduras. Salvadoran tank-led infantrymen, apparently ignoring a cease-fire order from the Organization of American States were reported advancing as far as 45 miles into Honduras in a drive on the Honduran capital city of Tegucigalpa.

The exact cause of the conflict is not clear, but it is believed to involve land rights between the two countries.

Nixon Calls Holiday

WASHINGTON — Pres. Nixon has asked America to spend next Monday concentrating in a "national day of participation" on the Apollo 11 moon landing mission.

The chief executive ordered government offices closed and urged governors, mayors, school systems and private employers to give the day off to as many people as possible so they can follow the mission.

Military Heads Meet

SAIGON — The three highest ranking U.S. officers concerned with the Vietnam war began secret strategy talks yesterday to help decide whether and how U.S. forces will respond to the lull in Communist attacks.

Arriving aboard separate planes were Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. John S. McCain, commander of all U.S. forces in the Pacific. They joined military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in a series of meetings and field trips.

Bond Set at $25,000

CHICAGO — Jeff Fort, reputed leader of the Black P Stone Nation and other high-ranking gang officials, was being held late yesterday under $25,000 bond in connection with Tuesday night's ambush of a south side man.

Fort, 22, Charles E. Bey, 25, and Andrew McChristian, 20, all members of the "Main 21" leadership of the Black P Stones, were arrested by Intelligence Unit members of the Chicago police on charges of ambushing Jackie Turner, 22.

Testify to Ignorance

CHICAGO — Illinois Supreme Court Justices Ray F. Klingbiel and Roy J. Solisburg testified yesterday they were unaware that a former state official whose criminal indictment was before the high court had an interest in a bank which they obtained stock.

The two are accused of impropriety in a petition filed by legal researcher Sherman Skolnick which asked the court to reconsider its 1967 ruling that former State Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs could not be prosecuted on conflict of interest charges.

Northfield Hears 13th Contenders

Needless government spending, the Vietnam war, ABM and inflation were the issues that 13th District Congressional candidates took to Northfield Township Wednesday night.

Eleven of the 12 GOP hopefuls campaigned ten intensive minutes before about 150 people in a second GOP township candidate's night.

Although endorsement by the Northfield Township GOP organization was to hinge on presentation, candidates spoke, knowing the local bid will surely go to Sam

Young, Northfield Township committeeman.

THE NEW TRIER Township GOP organization has already endorsed a candidate — Alan Johnston of Kenilworth.

Young, the last candidate to speak, was hardly applauded by the audience, although it was generous to all 11 candidates during a hot, rather routine two-hour session.

Only Brian Duff, Wilmette, was absent. The expected endorsement of Sam Young from his own organization was significant because he might be considered for endorsement in the three Western townships — Schaumburg, Palatine and Elk Grove.

Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights, the only candidate from the four western townships, is likely to get Wheeling Township's endorsement.

SCHLICKMAN Wednesday night came out against the proposed deployment of the ABM system. Just back from a trip to Washington, D.C., he listed components of the ABM system which have not been tested or proved workable.

Yale Roe, of Winnetka, provided spice in the evening by setting the audience to uneasy stirring as he spoke to positions considered liberal on Vietnam and military spending.

HE DREW SOME gasps by criticizing such Republican traditions as Sen. Everett Dirksen.

Roe clashed politely with candidate Phil Crane, formerly of Lake County, who said savings should be made in the area of domestic spending.

Other candidates speaking were Joseph Mathewson of Winnetka, Gerald Marks of Wilmette, Johnston of Kenilworth, John Nimrod of Skokie, David Roe of Glenview, Yale Roe, Young, Crane, Alban Weber of Evanston and Schlickman.

Blame Outside Bug

A majority of the mosquitoes seem to be here to stay until other areas around the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District establish their own mosquito abatement. Wilbur Mitchell, district director said at the Elk Grove Village Board of Health meeting Wednesday.

Questions about how mosquito abatement was handled in Elk Grove prompted the meeting with Mitchell.

The Northwest Mosquito Abatement District covers eight townships over a 245 square mile area. This includes 16 towns and villages, 4 airports, 16 golf courses, 113 natural lakes, 11 creeks, 5 drainage ditches, 3 rivers and 48 square miles of forest preserve, Mitchell said.

TRUCKS ARE spraying the district constantly and ponds are covered with an oil film to kill the larvae, he said. But many of the mosquitoes are being blown in from the north, south and west and there's not much we can do about it, he said.

There is no mosquito abatement in DuPage and Lake Counties and none west of Elgin. The forest preserve doesn't allow mosquito abatement either, he said.

WHEN QUESTIONED about the harm done from mosquito spraying Mitchell explained that the district uses no DDT but Malathion, another insecticide.

Most of the harm done from spraying is from spraying done by people themselves, he said. "People can buy chemical sprays which we aren't even allowed to have in our research laboratories," he said.

There are several things people can do to lower the mosquito rate, according to Mitchell. Any standing water should be flushed away within a week, including swimming pools that have standing water around the edges.

Nothing should be thrown in standing water, Mitchell cautioned. "People who throw grass clippings in standing water are inviting mosquitoes."

PEOPLE COULD also encourage surrounding counties to begin mosquito abatement districts, he said.

"Anyone with asthma, heart trouble or allergies can call and request that no spraying be done around their home. The trucks will stop spraying two houses before and begin two houses after a person's home if a resident feels the spraying is not good for their health," Mitchell said.

Time to Pay Property Tax

Personal property taxes come to everyone, especially township office holders and VIP's.

A survey of Elk Grove Township personal property roles show that most local officials are getting billed for the unpopular tax. Although their names are listed at the local office, each property owner still has some time left to pay their taxes to the Cook County Collector's office.

Some of the names on the tax rolls are: George R. Busse, township clerk — $19.58 tax on $215 assessed valuation.

Ronald L. Bradley, township highway commissioner — $12.07 on $120.

RICHARD M. HALL, township auditor — $36.18 on $375.

Charles Hodlmaier, township assessor — $73.22 on $805.

Bernard F. Lee township auditor — $44.63 on $190.

Arthur M. Stevens, township auditor — $172.70 on $2025.

Arnold Scharringhausen, township collector — $57.95 on $625.

David J. Regner, state representative — $10.04 on $110.

Jack Pahl, Elk Grove village mayor — $27.74 on $305.

Robert Teichert, Mount Prospect mayor — no figures listed.

Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township GOP committeeman — $35.05 on $385.

WILLIAM ROHLWING, Elk Grove Township supervisor — $27.74 on $305.

The deadline for payment of the personal property tax was July 1, but the bills can still be paid directly to the Cook County Collector's office in Chicago.

Sewer Permit Reaction Mixed

Area township officials are showing mixed attitudes on the Metropolitan Sanitary District's (MSD) proposal to restrict the issuance of sanitary sewer permits.

Under the new ordinance adopted by the MSD board of trustees, sanitary sewer permits would be issued only to municipalities, governmental agencies such as townships, utility companies, or private individuals whose property lies next to an MSD sewer. The plan goes into effect Jan. 1, 1970.

Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said, "I feel it is a genuine service we can provide. I'm hopeful we can get started by Jan. 1."

ELK GROVE TOWNSHIP Supervisor William Rohlwing said of the plan, "Once they (the MSD) go through with it, the townships can take care of it (permit issuance) better than the MSD." He added, "It might work."

Russell Bramwell, an auditor in Palatine Township, said the board of auditors had not yet discussed it. "I would be for it 100 per cent, though," he said. Bramwell said that more than half the land within the township is unincorporated.

And in Schaumburg Township, Vernon Laubenstein, supervisor, said, "The auditors had discussed the MSD proposal at their meeting last month. We consulted with our attorneys and it appeared to us that we have only a limited amount of unincorporated territory."

Laubenstein said that Schaumburg presently planned no participation in the new plan. However, he added that the matter would probably be brought up at another township meeting.

"WE WOULD BE in the position of hiring engineering talent and getting into the sewer business when there is no immediate need for this," said Laubenstein. He explained that in Schaumburg Township the pattern has been for villages to annex any developed land.

Frederick Juliano, MSD engineer for local sewer systems, said the plan was initiated because the MSD often has problems "hunting down builders and developers of subdivisions" when problems with sanitary sewers arise. "The builders don't seem to understand that once they have a sanitary sewer permit they are forevermore responsible for that sewer unless there is a formal change of responsibility filed in writing with the MSD."

JULIANO SAID THAT in some cases, irate homeowners blame the MSD for sewer breakdowns. He emphasized the MSD only operates large interceptor sewers and treatment plants.

In proposing the new ordinance, the MSD said statutes were in effect that would allow townships to operate their own sanitary sewer systems.

Presently two townships in Cook County, Northfield and Leyden, are already doing this.

Wednesday night the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors attended a sewer board meeting at the Northfield Township seeking information on township-operated sewer systems.

Mark Clayton, Northfield Township supervisor, said that under their system when a developer asks for a sewer permit from the township, he is first required to submit plans and specification of the new system.

"WE RETAIN AN ENGINEERING firm which reviews the plans and okay's them," said Clayton. The engineer also is required to inspect the system during its construction.

Clayton said that Northfield actually has two systems: One that was built to replace

Prospect, Nancy Wangerin, finds that smiling for the camera is also a big part of a beauty queen's life.

Area Miss Is Set

Miss Mount Prospect "can't wait to get going" in the Miss Illinois Pageant which opens Sunday in Aurora.

Nancy Wangerin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Wangerin, 14 N. Louis, won the local Jaycees-sponsored contest four weeks ago in three phases of competition — swimsuit, evening gown and talent. She has spent the past week preparing for her second step on the way to the Miss America title.

Miss Wangerin will perform a Chopin waltz in E-minor for her piano solo in the talent competition, when she will also appear in a shocking pink formal that she made. Her evening gown is a chartreuse linen that accents her green eyes and brown hair.

"WE WILL BE doing something every minute," she said, looking over a morning-to-night schedule that "plans the whole week out" for the forty contestants from all over the state.

The girls will be divided into three groups, and will appear in one phase of competition on each of three preliminary nights of competition. This Saturday night finale will be televised at 8 p.m. on Channel 9. Much of the girl's time in Aurora will be spent rehearsing the production numbers for the show.

"People say 'isn't this glamorous' but it's not all glamor, it's a lot of hard work," the local queen said.

Miss Wangerin will appear in the talent preliminaries on the Friday of pageant week. She hopes "that a bunch of people will be able to come down" for her performance. The Jaycees are sponsoring a bus to Aurora, according to president Ken Scholten. Information is available by calling 437-2805.

ACCOMPANYING Miss Mount Prospect to the state finals is her chaperone, Mrs. Terrence Frakes, who will be "giving Nancy moral support and helping in any way possible."

Winning the Miss Illinois title is a dream for the present Miss Mount Prospect, but for her, it is secondary to "just going and having a good time." Her first goal, she says, is "representing the people of Mount Prospect the best I can."

Teachers Support Neuhauser

A group of teachers in school Dist. 59 have formed an organization aimed at electing Paul Neuhauser to the board of education, a spokesman has announced.

According to Toni Schmidt of Des Plaines, a group called Teachers for Neuhauser held its second meeting July 10.

"ALL DIST. 59 voting areas were repre-

Rocket Sales, Also, Blast Off

A button is pressed. The motor ignites and with a "whoosh" the rocket soars upward.

An Apollo shot at Cape Kennedy? No, it's a local amateur rocket enthusiast launching a model rocket.

Tony Crabtree of Tony's Hobby Lobby shop in Wheeling reported that sales of model rockets have gone up in recent years, due to the American and Russian space programs.

People have been hearing about these missions and have become more interested in space travel and exploration," Crabtree explained. He added that older people as well as youngsters are taking up the hobby.

Crabtree has been building model rockets himself for the past three or four years and has assisted many would-be "rocketeers" in assembling their own models.

LAST JULY 4 THE SHOPS sponsored a rocket launching program for local model rocket buffs at the Wheeling High School football field. The shop, which sponsors the event each year, provided rocket engines, launching pads and ignition systems to those who brought their own rocket.

Crabtree said most model rockets are between six and 42 inches long, can reach speeds of up to 800 miles per hour and heights of 3,000 feet.

He explained that a variety of model rocket kits are now on the market.

"Most models are made of heavy paper and balsa wood and are powered by a motor containing a solid propellant similar to gunpowder but with a controlled burning rate," he said.

"These rockets aren't dangerous in themselves," Crabtree continued. "A lot of people contact rockets with fireworks, but there is no similarity. Rockets can be misused, but they don't explode or misfire. I don't know of anyone in this area who has ever been injured by a model rocket."

CRABTREE SAID A COMMON rocket, such as the 18-inch ones he enjoys building, takes about two hours to assemble and another two hours to sand and paint.

"The smoother the finish is on the rocket, the less friction it will have with the air and the faster it will fly," he said.

The rocket is launched from a wooden tripod launching pad, Crabtree explained. He said that a rocket is ignited when an electrical charge from a battery is sent through a nichrome wire to the rocket engine. The electrical charge makes the metal wire hot, which in turn ignites the solid propellant.

Cotton wadding protects the rest of the rocket from the heat of the engine and a plastic parachute is pushed open by a piston later in the flight to slow down the rocket and enable it to float unharmed to the ground. It can then be shot off again when another engine is inserted in the rocket.

CRABTREE EXPLAINED that a simple model of this type would cost only a few dollars. More elaborate rockets could run as high as $16 and extremely simple ones can be made from a badminton shuttlecock for only 50 cents.

Crabtree said some rockets are now on the market which have two or three engines which fire in stages. Others come with gliders attached to the rocket.

MODEL ROCKET enthusiast Tony Crabtree displays a model that is popular with amateur rocket builders in the area. Sales of the paper and balsa rockets have gone up in recent years, due to increasing interest in the space program.

Park Offer Attracts Banking Barons

by GERRY DE ZONNA

The Mount Prospect Park District came one step closer this week to fulfilling a goal which they set months ago.

The Northern Trust Co. of Chicago purchased the bonds to finance the park district's $2.4 million referendum which was approved by the voters last February.

At a 2 p.m. downtown bid opening, the list of interested buyers for the bonds read like a page out of Who's Who in the financial world.

More than 30 buyers gathered in the swank Syndicate Room at the First National Bank of Chicago to present their sealed bids on the Mount Prospect account.

Such banking barons as The Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Continental Illinois National Bank, and First National Bank of Chicago competed for a business deal in which hundreds of points made the only difference.

ACCOUNTANTS FOR the Northern Trust Co. had sharpened their pencils to the finest points. They were the lowest bidders with a 5.73 per cent net interest rate and a net interest cost of $1,256,692 extended over a 14-year period.

Northern Trust's closest competition was offered by Halsey, Stuart and Company, Inc., with a net interest rate of 5.76 per cent. The Harris Trust and Savings Bank bid 5.78 per cent on the bonds while Continental Illinois and First National bid 5.80 per cent and 5.82 per cent respectively.

"The park district received an excellent response from the market," said Frank Foster, bond consultant representative with Howard Voss Associates. "The bidding was competitive and of a high quality. I'm very satisfied with the lowest bid offered by Northern Trust, especially since these were the first bonds sold under the new 7 per cent state interest rate."

FOSTER, who handled the sale of the park district bonds, said that Mount Prospect has a good reputation on the municipal bond market. "The park district has an A-1 financial rating which can make a lot of difference on the market," he said. "Every bidder takes into account the financial index and bases his bid accordingly."

"The financial rating indicates to what extent the residents are burdened with municipal taxes. If a village shows any remote possibility of becoming overburdened, then it becomes a bad risk to any buyer."

"Mount Prospect has a good reputation as a financial stronghold in the Northwest suburban area. The stability of the community attracted many bidders, and besides the park district investment is sure to triple in value in the next 10 years," Foster said.

THE PARK DISTRICT expects to retire

the bonds within 14 years which Foster termed as "an aggressive departure from tradition." Most taxing bodies usually spread their bonds over a 20-year period in an effort to keep homeowners' tax rates as low as possible.

"Although a homeowner may pay a lower annual tax on the bonds," Foster said, "he inevitably winds up paying more in the long run because the tax is spread over a 20-year period."

"The park district will be saving residents almost $300,000 by retiring the bonds within 14 years rather than the traditional 20 years. This is aggressive financial planning which would benefit many school districts who are hung up with floating 20-year payments," he said.

The park district can expect a check for $2.5 million from Northern Trust by late August. It usually takes 30 to 40 days after the sale of the bonds to complete all the paper work.

COUNTY OFFICIALS will compute the tax rate to be levied beginning in 1972. If the park district does not purchase the controversial West Park site from Salvatore DiMucci, the bonds issued to finance the purchase of the property valued at $325,000 may be cancelled, Foster said.

If the money allocated by the referendum to purchase the land for the new park is not used, the tax rate will be adjusted to compensate for the decrease in park spending.

Former Smokers Give Reply

by JOAN KLUSMAN

"I thought my head would blow off." This statement, together with dizziness, nausea and nervousness were listed as withdrawal symptoms by those who successfully conquered cigarettes after attending a Northwest Community Hospital clinic.

United by a single desire, about 150 residents attended the four-week "Stop Smoking Clinics" sponsored by the hospital early this year. Questionnaires sent to the first two groups in May brought responses from one-third of those attending. One-third of those responding won their battle.

Unanimous in their praise of the clinic's purpose and format, most individuals who are still clutching cigarettes admit to poor will power. Others listed weight gain, stress, boredom and a strong craving for a cigarette following meals as reasons they have not been able to cease smoking.

ONE WOMAN, who stopped and resumed, said her husband still smoked and his cigarettes and ashtrays proved too tempting. The couple factor may be important — one man and wife stopped on the same day, some weeks after the session ended.

Another hopeful who tried in vain to stop said that whenever she thought of the graphic pictures shown at clinic sessions she crushed out the cigarette she was currently smoking.

The clinics, held once a week, featured talks by hospital physicians, a psychiatrist, X-ray demonstrations and films. Those attending were not asked to stop smoking at a particular time, but were presented with the correlation of lung cancer and other diseases to smoking.

IN THE PERSONAL opinion section of the questionnaire, one resident asked for a special session for dropouts and another asked for longer and additional programs.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Thursday, July 17, the 198th day of 1969 with 167 to follow. The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history: In 1936 the Spanish Civil War began with Gen. Francisco Franco leading army troops against the government.

In 1948 southern Democrats from 13 states organized a States' Rights party to oppose the regular Truman-Barkeley ticket. They wrote a presidential ticket headed by Strom Thurmond.

Real Estate Transfers

The Kroger Co., Inc. purchased the property at 1910 Lillian Lane, Arlington Heights, from Donald E. Phillips for $47,000.

The purchase was announced in the latest monthly Wheeling Township real estate transfer report from County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen.

There were 63 sales in Arlington Heights, 17 in Mount Prospect, 11 in Prospect Heights, nine in Buffalo Grove one in Des Plaines, and nine in Wheeling and the rest of the township.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1.00 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

The transfers are: 725 S. CHESTNUT, Arlington Heights, William E. Phares to Elmer E. Schmoldt, RS$32.50; 1145 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights, Robert D. Bright to Robert J. Fata, RS$28; 631 S. ### Pool Attendance Up

Despite 12 rainy weekends in a row that plagued early summer, attendance at Mount Prospect Park District pools was up 12,500 over 1968, according to Tom Cooper, director of parks and recreation.

A total of 45,015 persons visited the district's pools, compared to last year's 32,551.

"But the pools were actually emptier this year," said Cooper. "People aren't staying as long. They take their dip and leave. They think they want to go swimming, but it's too cold once they get there."

Individual pool attendance figures were 14,098 at Kopp, 16,982 at Meadows and 13,945 at Lions.

To Dedicate Home

Dedication of the new Deaconess Home at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, will be held at 3 p.m., July 27, on the lawn outside the School of Nursing building.

Conducting the dedication service will be the Rev. Harold Hasheim, a member of Lutheran General's Pastoral Care Department and former director of pastoral care at Lutheran Deaconess Hospital in Chicago.

The public has been invited to attend the dedication and the reception and open house which will follow the service.

THE LUTHERAN Deaconesses moved to their permanent living quarters on the newly completed fourth floor of the School of Nursing building after living in the hospital's west wing since May, 1968. They moved to the Park Ridge hospital from Lutheran Deaconess Hospital in Chicago when it closed.

The Deaconess' home includes a chapel with an organ and a stained glass window, a lounge, kitchen, dining room, laundry facilities and guest rooms. Deaconesses living in the home are Christian women trained and commissioned for a full-time ministry of service in the church.

Today, Lutheran Deaconesses serve in over 60 professions and vocations in the general areas of education, health and welfare service, parish work and youth work throughout the world.

THE DEACONESS movement throughout the world is almost synonymous with the development of modern hospitals and modern nursing. The movement began in 1836 when Pastor Theodor Fliedner established the first center for training Protestant deaconesses in Kaiserswerth, Germany. Florence Nightingale came to this center in 1851 to receive her training.

The movement spread rapidly throughout Europe, the Middle East and America. The first four deaconesses to come to the United States arrived from Germany in 1849 to staff the nation's first Protestant and Lutheran Hospital in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Plan TV Broadcast

HOUSTON — Apollo 11 is on its second day of its history-making trip to the moon after a flawless count down and launch yesterday.

Among the activities planned today for the three Apollo astronauts, Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins, are a second midcourse correction, if necessary and a 15-minute television broadcast about 6:30 p.m.

Fighting Continues

HONDURAS — El Salvador is claiming sweeping advances on all fronts in its war with Honduras. Salvadoran tank-led infantrymen, apparently ignoring a cease-fire order from the Organization of American States, were reported advancing as far as 45 miles into Honduras in a drive on the Honduran capital city of Tegucigalpa.

The exact cause of the conflict is not clear, but it is believed to involve land rights between the two countries.

Nixon Calls Holiday

WASHINGTON — Pres. Nixon has asked America to spend next Monday concentrating in a "national day of participation" on the Apollo 11 moon landing mission.

The chief executive ordered government offices closed and urged governors, mayors, school systems and private employers to give the day off to as many people as possible so they can follow the mission.

Military Heads Meet

SAIGON — The three highest ranking U.S. officers concerned with the Vietnam war began secret strategy talks yesterday to help decide whether and how U.S. forces will respond to the lull in Communist attacks.

Arriving aboard separate planes were Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. John S. McCain, commander of all U.S. forces in the Pacific. They joined military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in a series of meetings and field trips.

Bond Set at $25,000

CHICAGO — Jeff Fort, reputed leader of the Black P Stone Nation and two other high-ranking gang officials, were being held late yesterday under $25,000 bond in connection with Tuesday night's ambush of a south side man.

Fort, 22, Charles E. Bey, 25, and Andrew McChristian, 20, all members of the "Main 21" leadership of the Black P Stones, were arrested by intelligence units members of the Chicago police on charges of ambushing Jackie Turner, 22.

Testify to Ignorance

CHICAGO — Illinois Supreme Court Justices Ray I. Klingbeil and Roy J. Solisburg testified yesterday they were unaware that a former state official whose criminal indictment was before the high court had an interest in a bank which they obtained stock.

The two are accused of impropriety in a petition filed by legal researcher Sherman Skolnick which asked the court to reconsider its 1967 ruling that former State Revenue Director Theodore Isaacs could not be prosecuted on conflict of interest charges.

Center Vote Delayed

The fate of a proposed 10-acre shopping center at the southwest corner of Arlington Heights and Golf roads was not decided at last night's Arlington Heights Plan Commission session.

After hearing more than an hour and a half of testimony the plan commission accepted Victor Beisler's motion to continue until July 23. The vote was 5-4.

Mrs. Alice Harms, who favored Beisler's motion, said she had serious reservations about determining the entire future of a section of Arlington Heights after hearing only an hour and a half of testimony.

The land in question is now zoned R-1 and M-1. The attorney for the petitioner told the commission that the requested B-3 zoning would be changed to B-2.

ATTY. DONALD Phares represented the O'Hare National Bank, trustee for these separate trusts.

Barbara Jean Romano, wife of Developer Lee Romano, is the sole beneficiary.

Developer Lee Romano, 2010 Golf Road, told the commission the land was acquired more than a year ago and the proposed air conditioned enclosed center would have 100,000 square feet of rentable area.

Romano added that besides the Super Rx drugstore and Kroger, there would be a beauty shop, barber shop and a restaurant.

"This shopping center will still be used 30 years from now," he said. If the rezoning were given construction could begin 90 days after the zoning change. The shopping center would be completed in seven to nine months.

ARCHITECT ROBERT Babbitt told the commission "the center is the latest thing in shopping centers: the air conditioning of an enclosed mall is a new idea."

Phares informed the commission that this would not be thought of as a planned development, but as a one-building center. He added that the state now owns the land and "our plans take into effect the fact that the state will condemn 17 feet of our land."

Comr. Richard Durava questioned both the attorney and the architect as to increased traffic problems in the area. "Traffic is abominable there now," he said. "I can't get to the Wednesday night plan commission meeting because of that traffic."

BABBITT TOLD Durava that the traffic problem would not be seriously adverse. "The state highway department will probably ask us for acceleration lanes when we present our plans to them."

Real estate broker Donald Nueces told the commission that Arlington Heights and Golf roads will be improved in the future and the intersection in question will be a six-lane intersection (turning lanes). Phares said these improvements are at least a year away.

GETTING TO KNOW YOU. Marla Hudson, 8, and Larry Stinson, 9, share experiences with Bruce Reiter, 704 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights. Mrs. William Reiter is in charge of the Friendly Town program for St. James Catholic Church, and has made arrangements for about 20 families to host two-week visiting sessions this year. Marla, who has artificial legs, hasn't let the handicap interfere with her enjoyment. Mrs. Reiter describes her as cheerful, active and "not at all sorry for herself." Several other area churches also take part in the program.

13th Contenders State Stand

Needless government spending, the Vietnam war, ABM and inflation were the issues that 13th District Congressional candidates took to Northfield Township Wednesday night.

Eleven of the 12 GOP hopefuls campaigned ten intensive minutes before about 150 people in a second GOP township candidate's night.

Although endorsement by the Northfield Township GOP organization was to hinge on presentation, candidates spoke, knowing the local bid will surely go to Sam Young, Northfield Township committeeman.

THE NEW TRIER Township GOP organization has already endorsed a candidate — Alan Johnston of Kenilworth.

Young, the last candidate to speak, was hardly applauded by the audience, although it was generous to all 11 candidates during a hot, rather routine two-hour session.

Only Brian Duff, Wilmette, was absent. The expected endorsement of Sam Young from his own organization was significant because he might be considered for endorsement in the three Western townships — Schaumburg, Palatine and Elk Grove. Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights, the only candidate from the four western townships, is likely to get Wheeling Township's endorsement.

SCHLICKMAN Wednesday night came out against the proposed deployment of the ABM system. Just back from a trip to Washington, D.C., he listed components of the ABM system which have not been tested or proved workable.

Yale Roe, of Winnetka, provided spice in the evening by setting the audience to uneasy stirring as he spoke to positions considered liberal on Vietnam and military spending.

HE DREW SOME gasps by criticizing such Republican traditions as Sen. Everett Dirksen.

Roe clashed politely with candidate Phil Crane, formerly of Lake County, who said savings should be made in the area of domestic spending.

Other candidates speaking were Joseph

Mathewson of Winnetka, Gerald Marks of Wilmette, Johnston of Kenilworth, John Nimrod of Skokie, David Roe of Glenview, Yale Roe, Young, Crane, Alban Weber of Evanston and Schlickman.

Name Finance Man

Arlington Heights has a new finance director.

Village manager L. A. Kenneth Bonder announced yesterday that Kenneth Bonder has been selected to fill the post, which has been vacant since Stewart Grant resigned in March.

John Coste, assistant village manager, has acted as interim finance director since March. He is also serving as director of the village health department.

Bonder is presently the number two man in the budget department in Dayton, Ohio, a city of about 250,000 persons. He is a native of the Chicago area, and his parents live in Elmwood Park.

He graduated from Dayton University and holds a Master's Degree in Public Administration from the University of Cincinnati. Bonder is married and has no children.

Coste will remain as interim finance director until Sept. 1, when Bonder will take over the position.

Grant left the village after a salary dispute. He then took a job with Barrington Press in Barrington, northwest of Arlington Heights.

Grant's resignation followed the departure of Charles Tower, village engineer, in February. In April, Harold Best, head of the building department, also resigned.

Al Sander filled Tower's position. Marty Munson, who worked under Best in the building department, is currently acting head of that department.

Alter Votewagen Time

Don't wait for the Arlington Heights Votewagen this morning from 6 to 9 at the southwest corner of Arlington Heights and Palatine Road.

Instead, if you want to register in the A & P parking lot, the Votewagen will be present from 6 to 9 in the evening. Don't plan to dash down to register after breakfast; no one will be there. Instead, a leasurist stop at the corner after dinner will make you a voter this fall.

Hire Supervisors

St. James Catholic Church employed three professional religious education teachers this month to supervise the parish's School of Religion.

Over 1,500 children attending public schools are expected to attend the School of Religion (formerly CCD) this year. The students, pre-schoolers through 12th grade, will attend one-hour classes after school or on weekends.

Mrs. Vickie Driver, head administrator, said she plans workshops during the year for the 100 volunteer workers who assist with the teaching sessions. She said enrollments this year will most likely exceed last year's total by 300 students.

MRS. DRIVER, who has one master's degree in education, is completing another degree in theology at Marquette University in Milwaukee. She taught theology at Mundelein College and worked to set up an ecumenical religious education center at the school.

She has also served on the national convention staff of the Religious Education Association of the United States and Canada. She will supervise high school pupils and coordinate the total program.

The new administrator said her staff will work with priests of the parish, teachers and parents in evaluating the curriculum of the programs.

Registration will be held at the School of Religion office in St. James Elementary School July 22, 23, 24, 26 and 27. Additional registrations will be taken Aug. 5, 6, 7, 9 and 10.

Police Seek Youth

Arlington Heights Police are still searching for a teenager believed to have been roaming in the 1200 block of west Campbell Street and threatening neighborhood children.

Police said the youth, who is between the ages of 17 and 20, was reportedly brandishing an unknown object and making threats to children.

The boy was in the area Monday and Tuesday and kicked at the back door of a house of a woman who tried to chase him away.

Police said they combed the area Tuesday and Wednesday and will continue to do so until they catch the suspect.

Talk to Teachers

Arlington Teacher Association (ATA) representatives will meet this month with School Dist. 25 superintendent Dr. Donald Strong to discuss possible additions to the salary and benefit package accepted by teachers in May.

The agreement, which set a salary range of $7,100 to $13,845 for the 1969-70 school year, provided for further talks between the two groups if a hike in the state aid formula brought additional funds to the district. Late in June a bill providing $520 in state aid per pupil was passed by the legislature.

The ATA may now make recommendations to the district concerning salaries, program and welfare items. After the talks, school board members may approve benefits above and beyond the present agreement, but there will be no additional vote on the issues by teachers.

ATA president Roland Heinkel said district teachers submitted their suggestions on additional benefits to their bargaining committee in June. "We will take all of their recommendations and grievances into consideration when talking with the district," he said.

The May vote, 192 to 188, concluded 3 1/2 months of negotiating sessions. Teachers previously defeated an agreement which did not include the "open door" provision for further discussion in the event of a state aid increase. Many of the teachers voting "no" in May said the district should have committed itself to definite increases in the event of successful legislation.

The current agreement raised the index, a cost-of-living percentage added to salaries, and increased accumulated sick leave time.

District-wide department heads will be appointed for junior high school art, home economics, industrial arts and music, and summer school day for teachers was increased from $330 to $400. The district also agreed to use more students as teacher aids during the school year.

The ATA team will meet with Strong again early in September but a date has not been set yet for discussion with the board of education.

Rocket Sales, Too, Go Up

A button is pressed. The motor ignites and with a "whoosh" the rocket soars upward.

An Apollo shot at Cape Kennedy? No, it's a local amateur rocket enthusiast launching a model rocket.

Tony Crabtree of Tony's Hobby Lobby shop in Wheeling reported that sales of model rockets have gone up in recent years, due to the American and Russian space programs.

"People have been hearing about these missions and have become more interested in space travel and exploration," Crabtree explained. He added that older people as well as youngsters are taking up the hobby.

Crabtree has been building model rockets himself for the past three or four years and has assisted many would-be "rocketeers" in assembling their own models.

LAST JULY 4 THE SHOPS sponsored a rocket launching program for local model rocket buffs at the Wheeling High School football field. The shop, which sponsors the event each year, provided rocket engines, launching pads and ignition systems to those who brought their own rocket.

Crabtree said most model rockets are between six and 42 inches long, can reach speeds of up to 800 miles per hour and heights of 3,000 feet.

He explained that a variety of model rocket kits are now on the market.

"Most models are made of heavy paper and balsa wood and are powered by a motor containing a solid propellant similar to gunpowder but with a controlled burning rate," he said.

"These rockets aren't dangerous in themselves," Crabtree continued. "A lot of people connect rockets with fireworks, but there is no similarity. Rockets can be misused, but they don't explode or misfire. I don't know of anyone in this area who has ever been injured by a model rocket."

CRABTREE SAID A COMMON rocket, such as the 18-inch ones he enjoys building, takes about two hours to assemble and another two hours to sand and paint.

"The smoother the finish is on the rocket, the less friction it will have with the air and the faster it will fly," he said.

The rocket is launched from a wooden tripod launching pad, Crabtree explained. He said that a rocket is ignited when an electrical charge from a battery is sent through a nichrome wire to the rocket engine. The electrical charge makes the metal wire hot, which in turn ignites the solid propellant.

Cotton wadding protects the rest of the rocket from the heat of the engine and a plastic parachute is pushed open by a piston later in the flight to slow down the rocket and enable it to float unharmed to the ground. It can then be shot off again when another engine is inserted in the rocket.

CRABTREE EXPLAINED that a simple model of this type would cost only a few dollars. More elaborate rockets could run as high as $16 and extremely simple ones can be made from a badminton shuttlecock for only 50 cents.

Crabtree said some rockets are now on the market which have two or three engines which fire in stages. Others come with gliders attached to the rocket.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES were hoping to be working in their new building in Arlington Heights by the beginning of this month. However, the building is populated only by workmen finishing construction on the structure on Euclid Street.

new building will replace the present building at 201 W. just west of the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks. Wing and is tentatively scheduled for completion in early October.

Former Smokers Give Reply

by JOAN KLUSSMAN

"I thought my head would blow off." This statement, together with dizziness, nausea and nervousness were listed as withdrawal symptoms by those who successfully conquered cigarettes after attending a Northwest Community Hospital clinic.

United by a single desire, about 150 residents attended the four-week "Stop Smoking Clinics" sponsored by the hospital early this year. Questionnaires sent to the first two groups in May brought responses from one-third of those attending. One-third of those responding won their battle.

Unanimous in their praise of the clinic's purpose and format, most individuals who are still clutching cigarettes admit to poor will power. Others listed weight gain, stress, boredom and a strong craving for a cigarette following meals as reasons they have not been able to cease smoking.

ONE WOMAN, who stopped and resumed, said her husband still smoked and his cigarettes and ashtrays proved too tempting. The couple factor may be important — one man and wife stopped on the same day, some weeks after the session ended.

Another hopeful who tried in vain to stop said that whenever she thought of the graphic pictures shown at clinic sessions she crushed out the cigarette she was currently smoking.

The clinics, held once a week, featured talks by hospital physicians, a psychiatrist, X-ray demonstrations and films. Those attending were not asked to stop smoking at a particular time, but were presented with the correlation of lung cancer and other diseases to smoking.

IN THE PERSONAL opinion session of the questionnaire, one resident asked for a special session for dropouts and another asked for longer and additional programs.

One man even sent the Cancer Society a gift. He had found a special dial which could be used to control the amount of smoke inhaled. The percentage not wanted escaped into the air.

Time to Pay Property Tax

Personal property taxes come to everyone, especially township office holders and VIP's.

A survey of Elk Grove Township personal property roles show that most local officials are getting billed for the unpopular tax. Although their names are listed at the local office, each property owner still has some time left to pay their taxes to the Cook County Collector's office.

Some of the names on the tax rolls are: George R. Busse, township clerk — $19.39 tax on $215 assessed valuation.

Ronald L. Bradley, township highway commissioner — $12.07 on $120.

RICHARD M. HALL, township auditor — $26.18 on $177.

Charles Hodlmaur, township assessor — $73.22 on $805.

Bernard F. Lee, township auditor — $44.63 on $190.

Arthur M. Stevens, township auditor — $172.70 on $2025.

Arnold Scharringhausen, township collector — $57.95 on $625.

David J. Regner, state representative — $10.04 on $110.

Jack Pahl, Elk Grove village mayor — $27.74 on $305.

Robert Teichert, Mount Prospect mayor — no figures listed.

Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township GOP committeeman — $35.03 on $365.

WILLIAM ROHLWING, Elk Grove Township supervisor — $27.74 on $305.

The deadline for payment of the personal property tax was July 1, but the bills can still be paid directly to the Cook County Collector's office in Chicago.

Real Estate Transfers

The Kroger Co., Inc. purchased the property at 1910 Lillian Lane, Arlington Heights, from Donald E. Phillips for $47,000.

The purchase was announced in the latest monthly Wheeling Township real estate transfer report from County Recorder Sidney R. Olson.

There were 63 sales in Arlington Heights, 17 in Mount Prospect, 11 in Prospect Heights, nine in Buffalo Grove one in Des Plaines, and nine in Wheeling and the rest of the township.

Olson recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1.00 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

The transfers are:

Electrocuted In Arlington

A Colorado man, working on a high tension utility pole at Rand and Kennicott in Arlington Heights, was electrocuted Wednesday when 2,160 volts of electricity passed through his body.

Larry D. Drake, 37, 710 7th Street, Glenwood Springs, Colo. was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital at 2:15 p.m.

Arlington Heights police said Drake, who was working for the Aldridge Electric Co. of Lake Forest, was splicing wires to a pole when the accident occurred.

THEY SAID HIS elbow and leg apparently touched the pole causing the current to surge through his body.

Police and fire department rescue squads failed to revive him by mouth to mouth resuscitation or external cardiac massage.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Thursday, July 17, the 198th day of 1969 with 167 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1836 the Spanish Civil War began with Gen. Francisco Franco leading army troops against the government.

In 1948 southern Democrats from 13 states organized a States' Rights party to oppose the regular Truman-Barkley ticket. They wrote a presidential ticket headed by Strom Thurmond.

In 1955 Arco, Idaho, a town of some 1,300 people, became the first community in the world to receive all its light and power from atomic energy.

In 1968 a National Airlines jetliner with 64 aboard was hijacked to Cuba.

Blame Outside Bug

A majority of the mosquitoes seem to be here to stay until other areas around the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District establish their own mosquito abatement, Wilbur Mitchell, district director said at the Elk Grove Village Board of Health meeting Wednesday.

Questions about how mosquito abatement was handled in Elk Grove prompted the meeting with Mitchell.

The Northwest Mosquito Abatement District covers eight townships over a 245 square mile area. This includes 16 towns and villages, 4 airports, 16 golf courses, 113 natural lakes, 11 creeks, 5 drainage ditches, 3 rivers and 48 square miles of forest preserve, Mitchell said.

TRUCKS ARE spraying the district constantly and ponds are covered with an oil film to kill the larvae, he said. But many of the mosquitoes are being blown in from the north, south and west and there's not much we can do about it, he said.

There is no mosquito abatement in DuPage and Lake Counties and none west of Elgin. The forest preserve doesn't allow mosquito abatement either, he said.

WHEN QUESTIONED about the harm done from mosquito spraying Mitchell explained that the district uses no DDT but Malathion, another insecticide.

Most of the harm done from spraying is from spraying done by people themselves, he said. "People can buy chemical sprays which we aren't even allowed to have in our research laboratories," he said.

There are several things people can do to lower the mosquito rate, according to Mitchell. Any standing water should be flushed away within a week, including swimming pools that have standing water around the edges.

Nothing should be thrown in standing water, Mitchell cautioned. "People who throw grass clippings in standing water are inviting mosquitoes."

PEOPLE COULD also encourage surrounding counties to begin mosquito abatement districts, he said.

"Anyone with asthma, heart trouble or allergies can call and request that no spraying be done around their home. The trucks will stop spraying two houses before and begin two houses after a person's home if a resident feels the spraying is not good for their health," Mitchell said.

It's Dog Day In Arlington

If you're under 12 and have a dog, then you had better pay strict attention.

Next Thursday you and your dog will have the opportunity to compete in the Kids' Dog Show at the northwest corner of Sigwah and Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights.

The 2 p.m. canine activities are part of the three-day Arlington Heights Sidewalk Days festivities.

There will be four classes of competition: smallest dog, largest dog, best costume and best tricks. Ribbons and trophies will be awarded. The final event will be the Best of Show category where the four winners will be judged. Winners will be awarded a trophy and a transistor radio.

Chairman of the show is Dave Terrell. Judges will be Police Chief L. W. Calderwood, Village animal welfare officer Gene Korn and Paddock Publications promotion director Wayne Tie.
